DEMONSTRATION — An overflow crowd, largely composed of Marin's hip community, filled the supervisors' chamber yesterday to win freedom of life style in a demonstration of political muscle. Some were content to sit in the aisles to hear witness after witness speak successfully against ordinances aimed at communes and homes on wheels.

TOO MANY ORDINANCES

Supervisors To Let Life Styles Stand

By LARRY MOWELL

More than 250 persons, both straight and hip,turned out yesterday to ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors not to pass an ordinance regulating the life styles of Marinites. They went away happy. (Another supervisors story, page 11.)

The board declined to act on proposed ordinances that would have banned communes and mobile dwellings in unincorporated areas. The decision brought applause from the overflow crowd none of whom spoke for the measures.

However, the supervisors served notice that rolling homes and communes that violate existing ordinances can expect a crackdown.

Chairman John F. McInnis ordered the staff to report back on more stringent enforcement of existing ordinances controlling nuisances and fire protection and health code violations.

The move to sidestep the ordinances came after more than two hours of criticism mostly directed at the housing ordinance.

The opposition by about 30 speakers was kicked off by Albert W. Solnit, county planning director after County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said of the housing ordinance, "almost assuredly, it will be litigated."

Solnit said, "The planning department is going to take the position that the multiple occupancy ordinance is a misuse of the police power."

He said the county building codes and state Health and Safety Code contain adequate provisions to abate overcrowding, unsanitary conditions, noise and drugs.

"We have legislation and laws on the books which will curb

College Bonds Defeated

Marin voters yesterday elected a new Republican senator and a new judge, and reelected all but one of nine incumbents.

A junior college bond issue lost, but a water bond issue passed, as did a countywide measure calling for complete withdrawal of all U. S. forces from Southeast Asia by next June 30.

78,736 BALLOTS

A total of 78,736 voters balloted, just over 77 per cent of the 102,003 registered in the county. Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, had predicted an 83 per cent turnout, but heavy afternoon rain cut into the usual swell in voting at the end of working hours.

Meyer's operation of the election was flawless, and all ballots were counted by 11:25 p.m., more than an hour faster than the previous record set in the June primary.

The county's new Burroughs computer system spun out its count so fast that Meyer put a half-dozen of the company's technicians to work on the ballot processing board across the hall to speed the feeding of punch cards into the computer.

BEHR, BENNETT

Elected as state senator was Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, who racked up a strong vote against his opponents, Democrat Michael Peevey of San Rafael and Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, American Independent nominee.

Voters Reject Prop. 18 On Road Funds

LOS ANGELES (UPI)-California voters Tuesday rejected Proposition 18, the controversial ballot measure to spend state highway construction funds for smog research and public transit systems.

The measure was defeated 2,546,203 to 2,171,907 on the basis of returns from 82 per cent of the 21,700 total precincts statewide.

The proposal, bitterly opposed by the "highway lobby," jumped off to a fast lead toward passage as ballots from Tuesday's general election were counted but the margin fell off drastically and finally disappeared as more returns were tallied during the night.

Meantime, voters rejected several other propositions including one authorizing the Legislature to approve school finance bills in advance of the state budget bill. The constitution requires that the budget be approved before any appropriation bills can be passed by the leigslature.

A $250 million bond issue to help finance construction and improvement of local sewage treatment works and a separate $60 million bond issue for development of recreation sites along facilities of the State Water Project sailed to easy approval. They were Propositions 1 and 20, respectively.

Proposition 18, which cleared the Legislature after an agonizing fight, proposed tapping the state highway for the first time and spending some of its contents for smog control research and development of mass public transportation such as rapid transit systems.

A local government could — subject to voter approval — spend up to 25 per cent of its share of state highway construction and maintenance funds for public transit. The constitution since 1938 has

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Gov. Ronald Reagan coasted to an easy reelection victory, but fellow former actor George Murphy was defeated in his bid for a second term in the Senate by Democrat John V. Tunney.

And sharing the political spotlight was the upset victory scored by Wilson C. Riles, a Negro, who ousted veteran state Supt. of Public Instruction Dr. Max Rafferty.

With more than 95 per cent of the vote tabulated, Tunney led Murphy by 3,281,655 to 2,714,089. Reagan led Democrat Jess Unruh 3,240,140 to 2,750,297.

Both President Richard Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew had pumped Murphy's election right up to election eve, emphasizing the "law and order" issue in appearances throughout the state.

Murphy declined to concede late Tuesday night, but Tunney claimed victory and told wildly cheering supporters "this election represents a solid, overwhelming rejection of the politics of fear."

"This represents a defeat for the President," he said. "There's no question about that."

It appeared Republican attempts to capitalize politically on the rock throwing demonstration which greeted Nixon at a Murphy campaign rally in San Jose may have backfired.

Murphy placed a strongly worded "law and order" ad in

Smallman Defeats Zunino For Judgeship

Atty. Robert A. Smallman of Kentfield yesterday was elected Marin Municipal Court judge in a decisive runoff victory over Ernest C. Zunino of Fairfax, senior deputy district attorney.

Smallman garnered 40,801 votes, 60.58 pr cent of the total, to Zunino's 26,552. He was elected to a six-year term.

The 47-year-old Smallman, a former deputy district attorney and a former deputy county counsel, will succeed Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., who didn't seek reelection.

Smallman and Zunino survived a 13 man field in the June primary election when Zunino was the top vote-getter.

During the campaign Smallman promised to "be a strong

Marin Voters Boost Behr To Victory

Marin County voters yesterday balloted heavily in favor of Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley for state Senate, giving him the big Marin margin he needed to win in the three-county district.

Behr's victory climaxed a two-year drive for the seat held for the past 20 years by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael. McCarthy did not seek reelection.

Losing to Behr were Democrat Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael and Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, nominee of the American Independent Party.

Behr won with a district-wide margin of 9,047 votes, with 71½,142 gof Behr and 67,095 for runnerup Peevey.

The vote in Marin was Behr, 43,915; Peevey, 29,769, and Smart, 2,219. The approximate percentages were Behr, 58 per cent; Peevey, 39 per cent, and Smart, 3 per cent.

In Napa County, the figures were 14,875 for Behr, 13,753 for Peevey, and 675 for Mrs. Smart. Behr's strong showing in Napa was unexpected, given the county's edge in Democratic registration.

In Solano County, which has

Bennett Off In Marin But Wins Election

Democrat William M. Bennett of Kentfield, former state public utilities commissioner, yesterday was elected to the State Board of Equalization.

He defeated Republican Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo, former Marin County supervisor, for the Third District seat covering 25 Northern California counties, including Marin.

With nearly all returns in, the unofficial count was Bennett, 244,263, Kettenhofen, 224,080, and American Idependent Teresa E. Mortara, 12,317.

In Marin, Kettenhofen had a narrow margin over Bennett, 36,516 to 36,161, the two men splitting the vote in their home county. Mrs. Mortara had 1,808 votes in Marin.

In Sonoma County, the unofficial count was Kettenhofen, 35,083, Bennett 34,005 and Mortara, 1,911.

Bennett will succeed Paul R. Leake, a Woodland newspaper publisher, who didn't seek relection after holding the post for 18 years.

The 52-year-old Bennett and the 53-year-old Kettenhofen waged a vigorous campaign for the $25,000-a-year post.

Bennett charged that large corporations, such as public utilities, railroads, banks and oil and gas companies, had favored tax status and advocated changes in the taxing of large corporate interests.

During the campaign, Gov. Ronald Reagan made several personal appearances for Kettenhofen.

Marin Helps To Reelect Veteran GOP Congressmen

Marin County voters yesterday helped reelect two veteran Republican congressmen, Rep. William S. Mailliard, Sixth District, and Don H. Clausen, First District.

Mailliard, who supported the Nixon's administration's policies in Vietnam, defeated his Democratic challenger, Russell R. Miller, who called for quick withdrawal of troops, by a handy margin.

In Marin the vote was Mailliard, 34,077, representing 54.65 per cent of the county vote, and Miller, 28,276. In San Francisco the vote was Mailliard 62,210 and Miller 55,880.

Mailliard's district includes most of Marin south of Hamilton Air Force Base and the western portion of San Francisco.

Clausen defeated his Democratic challenger, Dr. William M. Kortum, a Petaluma

77 Per Cent Cast Ballots In Sonoma

Sonoma County voters — totaling 76,325 for a 77 per cent turn out — yesterday elected Donald Striepeke as sheriff, Ernest L. Comalli as assessor and Philip L. Joerger as Southern Sonoma Supervisor.

In the race for Southern Sonoma Supervisor, Petaluma City Councilman Joerger maintained an early lead over Richard R. Day and went on to a 1,400 vote winning margin.

The unofficial vote tally gave Joerger 7,302 votes to 5,796 for Day, a Rohnert Park attorney.

Joerger, a businessman, was elected to his second term on the city council in June, 1969. It is expected that the council will appoint someone to fulfill his term through to July 1, 1973.

In his campaign, Joerger stressed the need for independence in local government and advocated the formation of a citizen's advisory committee to meet monthly with the supervi-

Cambodians Launch Sweep On Communists

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A large Cambodian government force left the village of Tang Kauk today for a sweep of suspected Communist positions to the east, field officers reported.

Tang Kauk, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh, is where 20,000 government forces have been stalled since mid-September on their drive to Kompong Thom, 28 miles further north.

It was not known if today's sweep, involving several battalions, was the resumption of the government drive to the north. The communist forces which have stalled the drive were reported massed in wooded areas east of the village.

The Communists staged a shelling attack and a ground probe against two positions in the outer ring of Phnom Penh's defenses Tuesday, government spokesmen said today.

A Communist force of undetermined size moved against a government position at Krauch Soeuch 15 miles northeast of the capital, the spokesmen said, but thtre were no casualty reports and few details. Artillery fire was called in against the Communists Tuesday night, the spokesmen said.

Fifteen miles to the southeast, Communist mortar fire harassed a government position near the village of Tuk Khleang. There were no reports of casualties.

In South Vietnam, regional forces militiamen fought two battles seven miles south of Da Nang, the country's second largest city, Tuesday afternoon. They killed 45 Communists and captured 21 others, according to government spokesmen.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu hinted Tuesday night he might not run for re-election in 1971, but today he acted like a campaigner.

Today he took a flying trip to his country's flood-stricken northern provinces. The trip, to last two or three days, was believed to be at least partially political in nature.

Thieu Hints He Wants Replacement

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese President Nugyen Van Thieu hinted Tuesday night he might not run for re-election in 1971. Only hours later he was acting like a campaigner on a tour of flood-devastated northern provinces.

Thieu flew to the north today for what spokesmen said would be a two or three-day visit to a region where 193 persons died and 100,000 others were in refugee camps following the worst floods in six years.

The trip was believed partly political. His departure came only hours after Thieu told newsmen, "This job takes so much out of one. I have been looking for someone else to do it."

The comment on the September elections was considered significant in light of a statement Sunday by Maj. Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh in which he hinted he might challenge Thieu.

Actress Jane Fonda Back To Campuses

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (UPI) — Actress Jane Fonda, only hours after her release from the Cleveland city jail where she was held on charges of smuggling and assaulting a policeman, resumed her campus tour by telling students, "We must win back our country."

Miss Fonda was arrested at Hopkins International Airport in Cleveland Tuesday after allegedly kicking and slapping a policeman and screaming: "Get out of here, you pig."

She was accused of smuggling into the country 105 vials of pills, she later described as "Health food."

"If this can happen to me," Miss Fonda told an audience of about 2,000 at Central Michigan University Tuesday night, "You can imagine what happens to less visible people who are trying to do something constructive about this country."

Miss Fonda, on a tour of colleges and universities in the United States and Canada to speak against the war in Indochina, arrived Tuesday at Hopkins on a flight from Toronto. During an appearance at Fansaw College in London, Ont., Monday night, she had charged that "there is only repression and prison for anyone trying to do anything in America."

During her stay in jail Tuesday, Miss Fonda said, she learned one thing: "I kept thinking that if I were nobody, if nobody knew I was in jail, they (the police) could do anything they wanted with me."

Marseilles, France, was once a Phoenician trading port.

Israel Warns: Ready For Any Contingency

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel warned today it is more powerful than before the cease-fire and is "prepared for any contingency" if the truce due to expire Thursday night is not extended.

Acting Prime Minister Yigal Allon said Tuesday night "Israel has not rested on her laurels during the past three months and she is now stronger than before the cease-fire ... Israel is prepared for any contingency."

In the United Nations, African, Asian and Arab diplomats were trying to scrape together the necessary two-thirds majority in the general assembly to pass a Middle East resolution opposed by Israel and the United States. The resolution condemned Israeli occupation of Arab lands but did not refer to alleged Egyptian violations of the military standstill in the Suez Canal zone.

The vote on the resolution probably will come Thursday, although it could come today.

In Amman, the central committee of guerrilla organizations said today 15 persons were killed in fighting between Jordanian soldiers and Palestinian guerrillas Tuesday. A goverment spokesman said three people were killed and blamed "armed elements in civilian clothes" for starting the fighting.

There has been sporadic fighting in Amman ever since the truce was signed between King Hussein and the guerrillas last month.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat held a series of talks with military and political leaders in view of the Thursday expiration of the cease-fire with Israel.

Allon's reference to Israel not resting on her laurels was one of the few references by an Israeli official that the country might have taken some measures to counteract the Egyptian missile buildup during the cease-fire. It was coupled with a report published in the Jerusalem Post on how Israel had strengthened its fortifications along the Suez Canal.

The Post said measures have been taken to protect Israeli soldiers from Egyptian shelling.

Operations At Quentin Normal

San Quentin inmates resumed normal working schedules this morning without incident, according to Associated Warden James W.L. Park.

An unsigned flyer distributed at San Francisco State College campus Monday said that inmates of 13 California prisons would go on strike yesterday, and called for rallies to support the convicts.

Parks said the prison was on election day holiday schedule, and there was no hint of strike. He said two dozen young demonstrators paraded outside San Quentin's gate from 9 a.m. to 11:45 a.m., with signs backing convicts' purported demands.

He is to be arraigned tomorrow.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Free Of Pier

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Sea Land freighter Panama was pulled free Tuesday after she rammed a concrete wharf at the Port of Oakland's Seventh Street pier.

The Panama had 64 feet of steel plates ripped from the prow and damage was estimated at over $100,000. Water tight compartments kept the ship from sinking.

The ship enroute from Japan was 685 feet long and weighed 17,000 tons. It had 609 containers aboard when she sliced into the pier during a fog Monday.

Missile Fired

VANDENBURG AFB (UPI)—An Air Force Minuteman III rocket was launched Wednesday down the Pacific missile range at 1:05 a.m. from the space and missile test center at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

The 38-ton rocket, the latest model in the Minuteman arsenal, was lofted toward the target zone near the Marshall Islands in the Pacific Ocean.

Dynamite Explosion

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) —A car parked outside the Carson City Nugget was rocked by an explosion Tuesday night.

Sheriff Robert Humphreys said what appears to have been one stick of dynamite was placed either in or near the car, a two-door Thunderbird which was parked on the street at the south side of the casino. It went off about 8 p.m.

"There were no injuries, thank God," said Humphrey.

He said the car suffered very little damage and there was no damage to the building, about 14 feet away.

Humphrey said the owner of the car was contacted, but it is not known if he was a target of the person who set off the dynamite.

Treaty Near

WARSAW (UPI) — The West German and Polish foreign ministers went into detailed negotiations today to smooth over final differences in the text of a goodwill treaty expected to herald diplomatic relations between the two former enemy nations.

West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel and Polish Foreign Minister Stefan Jedrychowski met to resume talks begun Tuesday when both said final recognition of Poland's Oder-Neisse border and Bonn's request for Germans living in Poland to be reunited with their families were the key problems still to be resolved.

Space Session

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Science ministers from 12 European nations and Australia opened two days of talks today to examine U.S. proposals for joint space efforts following the American Apollo moon program.

It was the second conference in less than six months since the United States invited Europe to participate financially and technically in the construction of a 100-man space station, a reusable space shuttle bus and a small space tug.

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Crime in Amsterdam rose from 14,326 cases in the first six months of 1969 to 15,714 cases in the first half of 1970. Thefts accounted for most of the rising crime rate, police said.

College District Name Is on Agenda Again

Marin Junior College District trustees are expected to act again tomorrow night to change the district's name to Marin Community College District.

The item is on the agenda for the trustees' meeting at 8 p.m. in Room 96 of Olney Hall, on the Kentfield campus. The board previously decided to change the name, but found it premature; the new state law permitting the change does not take effect until Nov. 23, according to business manager Norman Bird.

Other agenda items include possible action to accept a $15,500 gift from the Oakes Foundation to provide a classroom trailer for nursing students at Marin General Hospital, an offer of a $25,000 collection of rare and out-of-print books from Newton K. Gregg of Kentfield and reports on construction timetables for the Harlan Center and Science Center buildings.

Labor costs for auto repairs are up 14 per cent, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

Ten students at the Guide Dogs for the Blind School in San Rafael will be graduated at 2 p.m. Saturday, formally receiving the dogs with which they have trained for weeks.

The 4-H members who raised the dogs from puppyhood until they were a year old, will make the presentations. Following the public graduation rites will be an obedience demonstration and tour of the school's kennels.

Bagley Sweeps To A Strong Victory

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, yesterday swept to a strong victory over his Democratic challenger, Joseph A. Forest of Novato.

Bagley's reelection to a sixth two-year term, however, was with a smaller margin than in 1968.

Bagley got 44,280 votes in Marin to Forest's 28,809, giving Bagley 59 per cent of the votes and Forest just over 38 per cent. A third candidate, Glenn A. Bernd of Sebastopol, nominee of the American Independent Party, got 1,853 votes in Marin, or almost 2.5 per cent of the votes.

In Southern Sonoma, the figures were 16,681 votes for Bagley, 11,918 for Forest, and 1,286 for Bernd.

In 1968, when Bagley faced a challenge from Democrat Robert E. Mertle of Santa Vynetia, Bagley got 57,370 votes in Marin and 20,786 in Sonoma, and Mertle got 19,328 in Marin and 8,006 in Sonoma.

Bagley, 42, of Sleepy Hollow, is an attorney practicing in San Rafael. Forest, 37, is Marin's senior deputy county counsel. Bernd owns a health food store and health club in Sebastopol.

College Tax Hike Winner; Bond Booted

The Marin Junior College District gained a split at the polls yesterday, winning a tax rate increase, but failing on a $16.9 million bond measure.

Voters approved increasing the district's operating tax rate 25 cents by a vote of 45,115 to 25,128, a 64 per cent favorable vote, where only a majority was needed.

The unofficial count on the bond measure was 44,667 "yes" and 26,809 "no," a 62.49 per cent favorable vote, where 66 per cent was needed.

(The California State Supreme Court has ruled that the requirement for a two-thirds vote is invalid, since it violates the "one man-one vote" section of the U.S. Constitution's 14th amendment, but the decision is under appeal.)

Although the operating tax rate in the district will be increased, there will be a temporary dip in the overall tax rate, since a 35-cent override for building will be canceled.

The district's present 35-cent operating tax and 35-cent building override, a total of 70 cents, will be replaced with the 60-cent operating levy.

However, the district will gain in the long run because the 35-cent override was due to expire in 1972, and it would have been left with only a 35-cent operating levy, if voters hadn't approved the increase.

In seeking an increase in its operating tax rate, the district pointed out that the operating rate hadn't been changed since 1937, while enrollment had quadrupled in that period.

The bond funds would have been used to complete development at the Kentfield campus, and at least half of the funds were to be pledged to build first phase development of the planned Novato campus.

Marin Voters Support Deadline In Vietnam

The most controversial of the local measures on yesterday's ballot, Measure A calling for total withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Southeast Asia by next June 30, passed with a moderate margin of 54 per cent.

With 94 per cent of the 78,736 who went to the polls voting on the measure, it passed, 39,940 to 33,827.

The measure requested the President and the Congress "to begin immediately the total withdrawal of all United States military forces from Southeast Asia and to complete such total withdrawal no later than June 30, 1971.

Opponents of the measure, calling themselves the Committee to Stop Helping America's Marxist Enemies (SHAME), attacked it as Communist-inspired and a move to divide the American people.

Its proponents argued the measure was needed "to provide the moral support for the President and Congress to extricate us from our military involvement in Indochina.

The proposal originated with Anne West of San Anselmo and was authorized for the ballot by a unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Hong Kong Gambling

HONG KONG (UPI) —Hong Kong police made 9,670 raids on illegal gambling establishments in the second quarter of 1970, resulting in the prosecution of 11,398 persons. The number of raids was an increase of 499 over the preceding three months.

Incumbents On Hospital Board Win

Three incumbents on the Marin Hospital District board were re-elected yesterday, winning out over two challengers.

Re-elected were George W. Folsom, a Sausalito industrial consultant, with 33,681 votes; Marion C. Ibach of Mill Valley, 32,777 votes, and Thomas K. Procter of Belvedere, senior vice president of a real estate firm, 32,765.

The strongest challenge came from Dr. Robert W. Schrier of Mill Valley, an assistant professor of medicine, who garnered 29,068 votes, while Winston R. McCall of San Anselmo, an airline captain, had 14,476.

Africa has an area of about 11.5 million square miles.

Two Blacks Lose In Oregon Bids

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Two blacks seeking to become the first of their race ever elected to the Oregon Legislature were overwhelmingly defeated in the election Tuesday.

Jimmy "Bang Bang" Walker a former prize fighter who is now editor of a weekly newspaper in north Portland, was beaten by Ken Maher, a former legislator who switched from the Republican to the Democratic party. Walker, 38, was a Republican seeking to win election in a predominately Democratic district.

William Sterling, 33, a Democrat and student at Southern Oregon College in Ashland, was defeated by Republican Rep. Don Stathos.

MMWD Bond Issue Is Winner; Veteran Out

Voters in Marin Municipal Water District yesterday approved by a hairline an $$11.5 million bond measure and replaced a 24-year veteran member of the board of directors.

The bond measure, with 63 per cent of the 88,149 registered voters balloting, just passed with 37,119 "yes" votes to 18,378 "no" votes. Passage required two-thirds approval, and the measure got 66.88 per cent approval.

In District I, Ray W. Foreaker Jr. won his challenge of Dr. Leo L. Stanley. With 54 per cent of the 17,453 voters registered in the district balloting, Foreaker got 58.4 per cent of the vote, 5,518 to 3,926 for Stanley.

The bond measure, Measure H on the ballot, will finance the first three years of a 10-year improvement program as well as the first stage of a project to bring Russian River water to Marin. The bonds are to be repaid from revenue from water charges.

The new facilities will include a large pipeline from Novato to Hamilton Air Force Base, a reservoir in the Corte Madera area, pumping plants and piping, improved water distribution for fire protection, modernizing the San Geronimo water treatment plant and other new equipment and installations.

It also included $250,000 for maintenance and improvement of trails, picnic areas and water and sanitary facilities.

Foreaker, 43, of Santa Venetia, is a civil engineer. He has served as a consultant to water districts on planning and designing water systems, and is Tiburon's city engineer on a consulting basis. He is a partner in the San Rafael firm of Copple and Foreaker.

He also is chairman of the Marin County Aviation Commission and the Marin County Board of Appeals.

Dr. Stanely, 84, of Fairfax, was chief surgeon at San Quentin Prison from 1913 until retiring to private practice in 1951.

District I includes Lagunitas, Forest Knolls, San Geronimo, Woodacre, Fairfax, Sleepy Hollow, Terra Linda, Marinwood, Hamilton Air Force Base, Santa Venetia, and Los Ranchitos.

A native of Oregon, he came to California in 1895 and was graduated from Stanford University and Cooper Medical College in San Francisco.

He is the author of two books on his prison experiences: "Men at Their Worst," published in 1940 and "My Most Unforgettable Convicts," published in 1967. He is working on several more books, including a history of Marin County.

Dr. Stanley lives on his 10-acre Crest Farm above Fairfax and adjacent to the water district's watershed lands.

Public Lectures Due On Nazi Atrocities

A series of three public, Tuesday night lectures on literature produced by survivors of Nazi atrocities before and during World War II will begin at 8 p.m. Nov. 24 in the Marin Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The lecturer will be Dr. Irving Halperin, professor of English at San Francisco State College. Much of his material will be from his recently published book, "Messengers from the Dead: Literature of the Holocaust."

Seminary Students Plan Entertainment

Five students at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary will entertain their fellow students and the public, when the "Renaissance Celebration" ensemble performs in Broadus Hall on the Strawberry Campus at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow.

The performers, all master's degree candidates from out of state, travel throughout California and Nevada on weekends to conduct youth meetings, and sing at many Bay Area church gatherings.

Election Gives Nixon More Friendly Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon came out of Tuesday,s election with a slightly more friendly Senate but the Democrats kept control of both houses of Congress and won at least nine more governorships.

(See related stories, pages 10, 17 and 24.)

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Herbert G. Klein, the administration's communications director, both said the Senate shifts would help Nixon get his programs approved. But, Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien scoffed at their claims.

The question was whether the strategy employed by the White House to win increased Senate support for administration defense and foreign policy programs might backfire. With a presidential election coming up in two years, some observers thought moderate Democrats might be forced into a more partisan stance on some issues.

The White House also stirred resentment among liberal Republicans by supporting Conservative Party candidate James L. Buckley's successful campaign against Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y.

The GOP liberals may draw closer to the administration in an effort to protect their own political futures. Or they may react with defiance and split the GOP much as the Democrats were split after Franklin D. Roosevelt's purge effort in 1938.

The biggest surprise in Tuesday's voting was the sweeping Democratic pickup of governorships, giving them important new power bases for the 1972 presidential campaign. The GOP kept the two greatest prizes, however, by re-electing Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

STATE

several newspapers on election eve referring to the San Jose vilence. Tunney labeled it "the most horrible, rotten ad I've ever seen."

Unruh went to bed without conceding, but vowed "win, lose or draw—Jess Unruh will be in California politics for a long time to come."

Riles, a 53-year-old educator born in the pine woods of Louisiana and who campaigned on a theme of "getting people to work together," becomes the first black superintendent of public instruction in California history.

For Rafferty, a free-swinging campaigner endorsed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and a majority of the State Board of Education, it was the second defeat for office in as many years. He failed in a 1968 attempt for the U.S. Senate.

Riles, an assistant superintendent under Rafferty, stepped off to an early lead and during the night built it into a margin of 10 percentage points that seldom was threatened.

With most of the 21,700 statewide precincts reporting, the soft-spoken Riles rolled up 2,679,084 votes to 2,245,151 for Rafferty.

Edmund G. Brown Jr., son of the former governor, defeated Republican James L. Flournoy for secretary of state.

In the closest race, Republican Evelle J. Younger and Democrat Charles O'Brien exchanged the lead in the attorney general's contest several times during the night before Younger opened up a narrow margin early today and built it into a small but solid lead.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke scored an impressive victory over State Sen. Alfred E. Alquist in winning in his own right election to the office to which Gov. Ronald Reagan appointed him.

Republican state Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest was returned to office by easily outdistancing Democratic challenger Milton Gordon, a San Diego hotel executive in their race.

Mrs. Priest was the first woman ever elected to a statewide California public office. She formerly served as U.S. treasurer during the Eisenhower administration.

GOP State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, who feared name confusion with the Republican secretary of state candidate with the same surname, soundly thumped Democratic Ronald Brooks Cameron.

BEHR

an even heavier edge in Democratic registration, the figures were 17,352 for Behr, 23,573 for Peever, and 1,006 for Mrs. Smart.

Behr survived a bruising primary contest against three other Republican candidates, and steered a careful course during both campaigns to hold onto both Republican and Democratic support.

Jubilation erupted early in Behr's San Rafael campaign headquarters last night as first returns showed Behr leading strongly. His lead started out at 66 per cent in Marin ballot counting, and never eroded seriously as counting quickly reached the final figures.

Campaign workers joyfully answered telephones at the headquarters, "Senator Behr's office."

Behr, 55, an attorney, long has been a leader in Marin's many conservation battles, and sparked the Save Our Seashore campaign that helped win additional federal funds to complete acquisition of Point Reyes National Seashore. He also led a citizen's campaign last year that convinced the Legislature to make permanent the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Behr served as a Mill Valley City councilman for four years and as a county supervisor for seven years before stepping down in 1968 to start his campaign for the 1970 Senate race. At that time, it appeared he would run against McCarthy.

sors to keep government close to the people.

In the race for Sonoma County Sheriff, Striepeke, a law enforcement officer for the State Division of Forestry, received 35,067 votes to 30,202 cast for Sgt. Winfield Thibodeau of the sheriff's department.

The candidates' views differed little on a law and order theme during the campaign, but Striepeke stressed the need for a general reorganization of the sheriff's department.

Assistant Sonoma County Assessor Comalli overcame an early vote deficit to defeat rancher George L. Crane by a margin of 33,021 to 31,523 for the post of assessor.

Comalli has served as assistant to retiring assessor Robert J. McMullen for four years and said during the campaign that he would continue efforts to streamline the operations of the department.

In northern Sonoma's fourth supervisorial district, Henry Spomer will succeed Supervisor defeat Dale Spencer with 5,370. Spomemer will succeed Supervis Arthur R. Ruonavaara who was defeated in the June primary election.

Sonoma County voters largely followed the pattern of state voting. They took a strong stand against Proposition 18 which would permit gas tax funds to be diverted from highway contruction to rapid trnsit studies.

The proposition was defeated by a margin of 42,628 to 24,563.

veterinarian, by a 45,617 margin, or 107,978 to 62,361 votes.

In Marin the vote was Clausen, 8,713 and Kortum, 3,864, giving the incumbent 69.28 per cent of the county vote.

The unofficial results in other counties in the First District were: Del Norte: Clausen, 3,336, Kortum, 1,356; Humboldt, Clausen 19,297, Kortum, 11,957; Mendocino, Clausen 10,357; Kortum, 6,464; Napa, Clausen 19,747, Kortum, 10,159; and Sonoma, Clausen, 46,528, Kortum, 28,561.

Clausen's district includes North and West Marin, north of Muir Beach, and extends to the Oregon border.

The 53-year-old Mailliard, ranking GOP member of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee and second senior GOP member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, was elected to a 10th term.

During the campaign he proposed creation of a Golden Gate National Recreation Area using surplus forts in Marin and San Francisco.

prohibited use of gas tax revenue for other than highway purposes.

The "highway lobby," the term generally applied to the trucking industry, certain segments of the construction industry, oil companies and automobile clubs, fought Proposition 18 with a massive advertising campaign.

Measures rejected included:

Prop. 8 —Empowers the state superintendent of public instruction to appoint two non-civil service deputies instead of one.

Prop. 9 —Authorizes the 47 non-charter counties to decide whether their county superintendents of schools shall be appointed by the county board of education rather than chosen by the voters.

Prop. 10 —Exempts loans of more than $100,000 to corporations and partnerships from the constitutional restriction limiting the interest rate to 10 per cent.

Prop. 2—Gives the state supreme court sole jurisdiction to resolve all questions of vacancy in the offices of lieutenant governor, attorney general, controller, treasurer and secretary of state, was apparently defeated by a slim margin.

Prop. 2 had apparently been approved until a surge of "no" votes in the late counting wiped out the margin of endorsement.

The voters approved:

Prop. 3 — Requires the governor to send his proposed state budget to the legislature within the first 10 days of regular sessions and the lawmakers to approve it two weeks before the start of the new fiscal year.

Prop. 5 — Requires the University of California board of regents to hold most of its meetings in public the same as most other local and state government agencies.

Prop. 6 —Authorizes the investment of teachers' retirement funds into certain common and preferred stock in specified management investment companies.

Prop. 7 —Makes the speaker of the Assembly an exofficio member of the state college board of trustees.

Prop. 11 —Authorizes the state Board of Chiropractic Examiners to write certain new rules for chiropractors, including a requirement that they continue their education as a condition of license renewal.

Prop. 12 —Allows county supervisors to set their own salaries instead of the legislature.

Prop. 13 —Doubles from $5,000 to $10,000 the property tax exemption a totally disabled veteran receives on his home and extends the tax break to his unremarried widow. It also extends the $5,000 exemption for homes to blind veterans to dwellings in cooperative housing projects.

Prop. 14 —Revises technical provisions governing civil service and removes certain employes in the lieutenant governor's office from the civil service list.

Prop. 15 —Deletes from the constitution the prohibition against dueling which currently is contained in the state Penal Code. It also makes general technical revisions in provisions governing the location of the state capital, minimum wages, sexual discrimination and public works.

Prop. 16 —Empowers the legislature to withdraw or rewrite a proposed constitutional amendment after it has been adopted by the lawmakers but before it is submitted to the voters.

Prop. 17 —Strikes from the constitutional obsolete provisions governing the administration of aged and blind welfare programs.

Prop. 19 —Makes loan sharking a felony instead of a misdemeanor punishable by up to a year in jail or not more than five years in prison.

MARIN

nett of Kent Woodlands defeated former Marin Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo and American Independent candidate Teresa E. Mortara in their contest for the state Board of Equalization.

Elected as a Marin Municipal Court Judge was attorney Robert A. Smallman of Kentfield, who swamped Ernest C. Zunino of Fairfax, a senior deputy district attorney.

Winning reelection were Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, and Reps. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and Don H. Clausen, R-First District.

The only incumbent voted out of office was a 24-year veteran member of the Marin Municipal Water District board of directors, Dr. Leo L. Stanley of Fairfax. He lost his District 1 seat to Ray W. Foreaker of Santa Venetia, a civil engineer.

Other incumbents reelected included three in the Marin Hospital District contest for the board of directors, George H. Folsom, Marion C. Ibach and Thomas K. Procter.

In the Strawberry Recreation District, incumbents Carl L. Schaefer and Arthur R. Senter, as well as Conrad von Blankenburg, were elected to the board of directors.

In the Fairfax School District, high school teacher Thomas A. Truchan was elected to a board vacancy, and in the Ross School District, Dr. Justin L. Williams was elected to a board vacancy.

In local measures, voters approved an increase in the operating tax rate of Marin Junior College District,but defeated its $16,920,000 bond measure to start development of its Novato campus and complete development of the Kentfield campus.

Novato's $3,250,000 bond measure for street improvements was defeated, as was a 9-cent levy in San Anselmo for street repairs.

San Anselmo voters, however, approved a separate 9-cent property tax to buy a fire engine and cut the maximum pay for a city councilman from $75 to $50 a month.

Marin Municipal Water District's $11.5 million bond measure squeaked through with only 66.88 per cent approval, barely over the two-thirds needed for passage.

In Inverness and Point Reyes Station, voters approved a $250,000 bond measure to buy and improve two private water companies.

The ballot count was smooth despite the fact it was literally under a cloud that threatened to give the computer pneumonia. A leak in the air conditioner in the computer room caused a spray of water vapor to settle on the machinery, raising the possibility of a short circuit.

The air conditioner, however, had to be kept running to cool the computers, thus it was impossible to repair the leak.

Heavy security and stormy weather apparently cut into the usual crowd attracted to the counting, and few persons were seen outside the computer room.

JUDGE

judge, who is fair too," to enforce the law and to stop court delays.

Zunini, 38, blamed an increase in lawlessness on judges' laxity in sentencing and favored starting a night court. Smallman, who has practiced law for 18 years, is a partner in the San Rafael law firm of Smallman and Robbins.

Smallman who backing from six attorneys who were defeated in the June primary, including A. Leonard Bjorklund and Jack L. Blaine, who had substantial support then.

Smallman has contended that all three muninipal judges have to work out a uniform system of justice, and has opposed night court on the ground it would cost more than $100,000 while a state study has showed it would be used by only seven per cent of the defendants.

Eighty-three per cent of those who voted in Marin cast ballots in the race for judge.

New Chevron Low Lead

joins Chevron Unleaded

Get the gasoline best for your car–best for cleaner air:

Many oil companies are offering just one . . . or the other, an unleaded or a low lead gasoline. But now, as new Chevron Low Lead joins Chevron Unleaded, only Standard Oil Company of California gives you two advanced cleaner air gasolines—both with the remarkable additive F-310*.

Removing or reducing the lead in gasoline, helps toward cleaner air—now. In addition it opens the way for future emission control devices which according to car manufacturers will make a significant contribution toward minimizing automobile exhaust pollution.

Standard Oil now offers both new Chevron Low Lead and Chevron Unleaded to give even more motorists an opportunity to do their part toward cleaner air. And, to make sure you get the gasoline that's best for your car—best for cleaner air.

New Chevron Low Lead is for cars designed to run on regular grade gasoline. Chevron Unleaded is for those '71 cars designed for lower octane unleaded gasolines, and many pre- '71 cars with lower octane requirements. It is not recommended for cars under heavy loads—such as trailer hauling—or for small cars that run at high speeds.

Both Chevron Low Lead and Chevron Unleaded have the added plus of F-310. And compared to other unleaded and low-lead gasolines, F-310 is the important difference in helping to achieve cleaner air.

For cleaner air, better mileage: New Chevron Low Lead for cars which use regular grade gasoline . . . Chevron Unleaded Gasoline for those 1971 model cars and many pre-1971 cars which can use lower octane unleaded fuel . . . and Chevron Supreme for cars with high-compression engines. Three great Chevron Gasolines — all with F-310.

Hub Voters Back Two Ballot Issues

San Anselmo voters yesterday balloted to buy a new fire engine and to cut the salary of city councilmen, but defeated a measure to finance street improvements.

Each of the measures required a majority to pass.

Measure E authorized a special two-year property tax of nine cents per $100 assessed valuation to buy a $52,000 fire engine. With 71 per cent of the city's 7,496 registered voters balloting on the measure, it barely passed with 50.44 per cent approval, 2,681 to 2,634.

Measure G cut the maximum salary of a city councilman from $75 to $50 a month. Salaries are set by state law, and must go to a vote of the people to be changed. With 67 per cent balloting on this measure, it passed with 57 per cent approval, 2,846 to 2,163.

Measure F, which would have authorized a two-year special property tax rate of 9 cents to raise $52,000 for street repair, lost with only 42 per cent approval. With 70 per cent balloting on this measure, it lost 2,206 to 3,014.

Measures E and F were put on the ballot by the city council because the city's general fund tax rate was scraping the legal limit.

Novato Voters Dump Street Improvements

Novato voters yesterday rejected for a third time a bond measure to finance street improvements in the city.

The proposal, Measure D, would have authorized $3,250,000 in bonds over the next five years. With 73 per cent of the city's 11,161 registered voters balloting on the measure, it lost, 5,125 to 3,034.

The vote gave the measure a 62.81 per cent approval, short of the two-thirds needed for passage. The state Supreme Court has ruled that the two-thirds requirement in the state Constitution is invalid, but the requirement still stands while the ruling is being appealed.

The maximum tax rate to repay the 20-year bonds would have been 48 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The city's public works director, Clifford E. Temps, said last month that if the measure failed, "we'll try again every six months until it does pass."

Inverness, Point Reyes Voters Approve Bond Issue

Voters in Point Reyes Station and Inverness yesterday approved a $250,000 bond issue in a special improvement district so the North Marin County Water District can buy and improve water systems of two private companies in the two communities.

The measure passed, 197 to 86, or rust under 70 per cent approval. Two-thirds approval was needed for passage.

Eugene S. Churchill, general manager of the county water district, reported that 333 were registered to vote in the special district. Of this number, 85 per cent balloted on the measure.

The county elections office previously reported that 343 were registered in the special district, but Churchill said a later check deleted 10 found to live outside the district boundary.

The Point Reyes Water Co. and Inverness Park Water Co. are owned by James J. Downey. Improvements will include drilling new wells, installing new treatment equipment and pipelines and expanding the system.

The communities have suffered at times from impure water and inadequate supplies to fight fires.

The water district will take over the companies by March 1.

Strawberry Incumbents Reelected

Two incumbents were reelected to the Strawberry Recreation District board yesterday, and a challenger, Conrad Von Blankenburg, gained a third seat by a two-vote margin, according to unofficial returns.

The incumbents, Carl L. Schaefer with 629 votes, and Arthur R. Senter. with 591 votes, led the four-man field vying for three seats. Conrad Von Blankenburg, a 30-year-old carpenter and director of the Strawberry Swim Club, with 550 votes, had a two-point margin over Tom Miller, a 29-year-old computer salesman.

Marin City Meeting On Fire Station

Representatives from most Marin City organizations will meet with county officials tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Manzanita Center to discuss the proposed county fire station in Marin City.

According to Reba Mason, secretary for the Marin City Community Services District, individuals from the county fire department and county administrator's office will attend. She said representatives of the services district, Marin City Council, tenants' union, housing authority and redevelopment agency have been invited to attend.

2 Senators' Sons Elected To House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two sons of incumbent U.S. senators were elected to the House Tuesday, but the son of the House Republican whip lost his election bid.

Rep. James Symington, D-Mo. and Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., each won second House terms. However, Thomas H. Boggs Jr., son of Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., was defeated in an attempt to unseat Rep. Gilbert Gude, R-Md.

Symington's father, Sen. Stuart Symington, of Missouri, also won reelection, returning to the Senate for a third term.

Truchan Leads Fairfax School Trustee Field

Thomas A. Truchan, a 31-year-old San Rafael High School teacher, yesterday led a field of seven to gain election to the Fairfax School District board.

Truchan will succeed Trustee Priscilla C. Gray who resigned. The term expires June 1971.

During the campaign Truchan, chairman of the social science department at San Rafael High School, said he would work to establish a permanent citizens committee to advise the board.

In the unofficial returns Truchan had 778 votes while his nearest competitor, Stanley W. Little, former chairman of the Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission, had 563.

Voting in the rest of the field was Marilyn J. Birks, 441; Paris B. Simmons, 383; David R. Seyler, 357; Joann Ruth Walla, 188, and Harry Murphy, 187.

Most Ballot In Favor Of Justices

A majority of Marin voters indicated yesterday satisfaction with 13 Supreme Court and District Court of Appeal justices, but a significant percentage showed dissatisfaction by balloting against the incumbent justices.

State law does not permit filing for office against a justice, thus balloting is limited to an affirmative or negative vote. In theory, justices are appointed by the governor to 12-year terms, but most in fact are appointed to fill unexpired terms.

But for reappointment, they must submit their names to the voters.

Affirmative votes ranged from 80 to 85 per cent, and negative votes from 15 to 20 per cent.

Chief Justice Donald R. Wright, a Reagan appointee, got 46,374 "yes" votes to 8,411 "no" votes. In balloting on associate justices of the state Supreme Court, the count was as follows: Louis H. Burke, 39,806 to 8,662; Raymond E. Peters, 38,799 to 9,604, and Raymond L. Sullivan, 38,884 to 9,251.

Balloting on justices from the District Court of Appeal was as follows: John B. Molinari, 46,221 "yes" to 8,121 "no;" Norman Elkington, 43,072 to 8,742; James R. Agee, 42,560 to 8,607; Murray Draper, 42,876 to 8,665; Harold C. Brown, 40,908 to 9,481; Thomas W. Caldecott, 37,195 to 8,719; Preston Devine, 41,637 to 8,599; Winslow Christian, 39,186 to 8,815; Joseph A. Rattigan, 37,795 to 8,983.

Ross Selects Williams To School Board

Dr. Justin L. Williams, 39-year-old director of a medical corporation in San Francisco, yesterday was elected to the Ross School District board by a narrow margin of 10 votes.

In unofficial returns, Williams had 675 votes while his opponent, John W. Larson, an attorney, had 665.

Williams will succeed L. G. Maclise, who resigned in June, and will complete his term which expires in June 1971.

Dr. Williams, who lives at 1 Allen Lane, advocated a better long-range planning program in the district. He was a member of the district's finance study committee for the past two years.

There was a 77 per cent turnout of district voters.

Arraignment Set On Burglary Count

Stanley Wade Weaver, 20, of San Rafael yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing Marin Terrace School in Almonte Oct. 25.

He is to be arraigned Monday.

Weaver was arrested after deputies who went to the school because of a report of unusual noise found him inside carrying a projector down a hall.

The Pawnee Indians went on a big buffalo hunt each June.

BRINGS A SMILE — A sign made by two young supporters brings a smile to the face of Rev. Robert F. Drinan of Boston, who has become the first Roman Catholic priest ever elected to the House of Representatives. He ran on an anti-Vietnam ticket.

Demos Tighten Grip On House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrats recorded a net gain of at least seven seats in the House Tuesday, tightening their already firm control.

With a handful of races unsettled, Democrats had won 253 of the 435 seats and were leading in two others. Republicans had elected 177 and were leading in one other.

The current House makeup (including vacancies) is 246 Democrats and 189 Republicans.

Among the new winners were three women, Democrats Louise Day Hicks, who was elected to the seat of retiring House Speaker John W. McCormack in Massachusetts, Ella T. Grasso in Connecticut and Mrs. Bella S. Abzug, 50, a lawyer-women's liberation advocate running as a Democrat, who won a House seat in New York's 19th congressional district.

Also elected were two heirs to inlustrial fortunes, Republican Pierre S. Du Pont IV in Delaware and Democrat John F. Seiberling Jr. in Ohio.

Democrats captured both the House seats in traditionally Republican South Dakota.

Among Republican seats captured by Democrats, from Connecticut to Washington, were those of veteran Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, senior GOP member of the Education and Labor Committee, and Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., a senior member of the Agriculture Committee.

Also knocked off was Rep. E. Ross Adair, R-Ind., top minority member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, by former Democratic member J. Edward Roush.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, dean of the House of Representatives and chairman of its judiciary committee, defeated an opponent who made Celler's age — 82 — an issue.

The Democrat-Liberal beat Republican-Conservative Frank J. Occhiogrosso, 45, in the 10th Congressional District in Brooklyn. Celler will be serving his 25th term in Congress.

Republicans captured the gerrymandered district of freshman Rep. Allard Lowenstein, D-N.Y., who helped crank up the Democratic dump Johnson movement in 1968.

Democrats overall captured six seats whose Republican incumbents had sought other office or retired, and knocked off five who had won the last election by minimal margins.

Black candidates won a total of 12 house seats, against the 9 they hold in the current congress. In addition to seats now held by Negroes, black winners were Parren J. Mitchell of Baltimore, George W. Collins of Chicago, and Ronald V. Dellums of Berkeley, Calif. The Rev. Andrew Young, who was right hand man to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and one of the nation's best-known Negroes, lost in his attempt to unseat Republican Rep. Fletcher Thompson of Atlanta.

The balloting left both houses under Democratic leadership, although as usual the Democratic margin in the House is more apparent than real, due to southern defections on many social and economic issues.

Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., becomes house speaker with the start of the new Congress. Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., continues as Senate Democratic leader.

Charles R. Rangel, a Democratic New York state assemblyman, easily won the House seat filled for a quarter of a century by Adam Clayton Powell. Rangel defeated Powell by a scant 150 votes in the Democratic primary.

There were some unusual contests in New England, including the election of the Rev. Robert Drinan, on leave as dean of Boston College's law school, to the House. He campaigned as a Democratic antiwar candidate and became the first Roman Catholic priest ever elected to Congress.

Another Massachusetts Democrat running on an antiwar platform, Gerry Studds, battled Republican Rep. Hastings Keith in a contest that was still undecided by early morning.

Virginia became the first southern state to have a GOP-dominated congressional delegation with State Sen. J. Kenneth Robinson's capture of the seat of retiring Rep. John O. Marsh Jr., D-Va., changing makeup to six Republicans and four Democrats.

Republican congressman William C. Cramer lost to State Sen. Lawton Chiles in the race for the seat of retiring Sen. Spessard Holland, D-Fla.

Elsewhere in the south, such veterans as house majority whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana, and South Carolina congressmen L. Mendel Rivers and John McMillan won re-election. Republican Floyd Spece beat Democrat Heyward McDonald for Watson's congressional seat.

The Democrat sweep in Texas extended into the congressional delegation. Republicans barely managed to hold on to the three seats they now have. Democrats kept their 20 seats.

From Florida To Oregon—To Vote

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (UPI) —Retired miner Herman D. Wood, 81, is proud that he never misses an election.

So when he went off to visit a son in Miami, Fla., last month he applied early for an absentee ballot.

Late last week the ballot had not arrived in Miami. Wood decided to come home and vote in person.

Fog and rain caused rerouting of his flights — but he arrived in time to vote here early Tuesday.

Warrant Out For Burglary Suspect

A bench warrant with bail set at $2,500 was issued yesterday for Robert Dean Allen, 26, of Fairfax, when he failed to appear in court.

Allen along with Stephen Robert Carrino, 22, of San Rafael, is charged with burglarizing a San Rafael residence on Sept. 16. They were arrested when they were found hiding under a bed in a house at 90 Irwin Street.

Carrino, who has been hospitalized with an illness for several weeks, is to come to court again on Nov. 17 for setting of a date for a preliminary hearing.

San Diego Loss For Indicted Man

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Republican Assemblyman Tom Hom, indicted by the county grand jury on charges of bribery and conspiracy, was defeated for re-election Tuesday by Democrat Peter Chacon.

The victor said the indictment had little to do with his win.

"The voters were concerned with economic issues such as unemployment," he said.

"It's my obligation to serve everyone," he said. "People will know me as Peter Chacon, not just a Mexican-American," the former school teacher said.

Boston College Jesuit Becomes First Catholic Priest Elected To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An unprecedented number of clergymen sought Congressional seats in Tuesday's elections, but most lost.

Of 13 priests and ministers who were candidates in House or Senate races, the only two winners were:

Father Robert F. Drinan, a Jesuit priest and longtime dean of Boston College Law School and Vietnam foe, elected to the House from Massachusetts' 3rd district. Drinan, a Democrat, is the first Roman Catholic priest elected to Congress, and

Rep. John H. Buchanan, a Baptist minister already serving in the House, re-elected in Alabama. He is a Republican.

Three clerical candidates for Senate seats were defeated: the Rev. Joseph Duffey, a United Church of Christ minister running as a Democrat in Connecticut; the Rev. John C. Danforth, an Episcopal priest nominated by the Republicans in Missouri; and Father John J. McLaughlin, a Catholic priest who was the GOP senatorial candidate in Rhode Island.

The only black clergyman nominated for Congress, the Rev. Andrew Young, was defeated in Georgia's 5th district. Young, a United Church of Christ minister, was a close friend and trusted lieutenant of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

An incumbent clergyman-congressman, Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., was defeated for re-election. Schadeberg is a Congregationalist.

Fatter Robert Cornell, a Catholic priest who was the Democratic nominee for Congress in Wisconsin's 8th district, ran well behind his Republican opponent.

Other clerical losers were George McClain, a Methodist minister running as the Liberal Party candidate in New York's 16th Congressional District; the Rev. Jay Wilkinson, a young Episcopal priest who was the Republican nominee in Oklahoma's 4th district; the Rev. Richard Fullerton, a Church of the Nazarene evangelist bearing the GOP banner in Georgia's 7th district; the Rev. Fred Casimir, a Church of Christ minister nominated by the Republicans in California's 31st district; and H.D. Shuemaker, an Assembly of God pastor running as a Republican in Florida's 1st district.

Gay Liberation Drops Alpine Idea

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The Berkeley Gay Liberation Front held its own little election Tuesday, and rejected a proposal to try a takeover of Alpine County in the Sierra.

The front, largest homosexual group in the San Francisco Bay area, denounced the plan as "sexist," "racist" and "impractical."

The vote was on a resolution calling for a mass gay movement into the county, whose population of 430 includes 384 registered voters, and seizure of political power.

Supervisors Reverse Stand On Houseboats

Donlon J. Arques, whose new houseboat plans were trimmed by 65 berths last month, won all 65 back late yesterday before the Marin County Board of Supervisors. (Another supervisors story, page 1)

On a motion by Michael Wornum, the supervisors voted 4 to 0 to allow Arques to build 265 houseboat berths to take care of 200 existing houseboats and about 50 others scattered in Richardson Bay. Supervisor Louis H. Baar had left the meeting just before the 5:35 p.m. vote.

The decision reversed a previous county planning commission action, which cut 65 berths from the Aques plan.

Hugh G. Lawrence, attorney for Arques, argued successfully that the 265 berths comply with the county's houseboat ordinance including the open water requirement and the Richardson Bay Specific Plan.

The new docks will jut out into the bay just south of George Kappas Harbor, forming a horseshoe-shaped cluster of houseboats with the center in open water. He will also provide a pedestrian-bicycle path along the waterfront.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

GREENBRAE OFFICE — Authorized a letter asking Coldwell Banker and Co., new owners of the former Greenbrae Co. office at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and La Cuesta, to limit the use of an access road into Sir Francis Drake. Supervisors asked Coldwell Banker to use the driveway only for entry from Drake, not exit onto Drake Boulevard.

SECRET WITNESS' — Heard a rebuke from William R. Cannon Jr. against the Independent-Journal, Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales for launching a system whereby tips on major crimes can be turned in without revealing the tipster's identity. Supervisors told Cannon to complain to the two elected officials or to the Independent-Journal, which is a private enterprise.

DRY DOCKS — Authorized the calling of bids for demolition or removal of the huge drydocks mired off Sausalito, and asked the sheriff to provide protection to bidders who want to inspect the drydocks.

FILL — Asked the county Department of Public Works director to work out a solution with Jack E. Martin, who has been filling his property on the east side of Almonte Boulevard just north of Dolan's Corner without a permit. Supervisors will review the case again on Nov. 17.

FIRE TRUCK — Approved the donation of a surplus county fire truck (1,000-gallon tanker) to the Bolinas and the Stinson Beach Fire Districts at a nominal sum of $1. The tanker will be housed at the Bolinas Fire Station and used by both districts.

ABATEMENT — Ordered that a houseboat owned by Ray Hunter in Richardson Bay be abated in 15 days. The partly submerged duplex is sitting in county waters at the end of George Kappas' Harbor.

TRANSPORTATION — Deferred until Nov. 17 selection of a representative on the Metropolitan Transportation Commission from among the three nominees submitted by the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen: Nean N. Meyer of Mill Valley, A.W. Gatov of Kentfield and Dennis T. Rice of Tiburon.

SEPTIC TANKS — Put off action on a new county septic tank ordinance until 1:45 p.m. Dec. 1. Supervisor William A. Gnoss insisted on a delay to give homeowner groups a chance to review the new ordinance, which would increase installation fees and raise minimum requirements.

YOUTH COMMISSION — Appointed Lourie Packard of Corte Madera, a senior at Marin Catholic High School; and Peter Sorenson of Novato, a senior at San Marin High School, to the Marin County Youth Commission. They will fill vacancies in the fourth and fifth supervisorial districts, respectively.

EOC — Approved shifting four organizations — Pre-School Parents Advisory Committee, Project Help, EMPLEO and Education Corps — from the poor to the private organization category on the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council to conform to a federal requirement that "prior" category representatives be elected.

CORONER'S DEPUTY — Approved an additional coroner's deputy at a cost of $7,000 from Dec. 1 to the end of the fiscal year. Part of the cost would be off-set by a decrease in overtime.

LEASE — Approved a lease on the Woodacre branch library and voted an additional $200 for it.

DICTATING EQUIPMENT — Allocated $503 to purchase dictating equipment for Judge H. J. Broderick of the Marin Superior Court. His predecessor Judge Harold J. Haley, who was killed in the Aug. 7 shootout, did not require the equipment.

GIRLS' DORM — Added $469 to the $51,761 allocated for site preparation work at the Juvenile Hall girls' dorm site on Lucas Valley Road, Lucas Valley. The addition is for wiring by Brown-Elly Co. Contractors of El Cerrito.

TRANSPORTATION STUDY — Approved a $23,000 contract with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. for refinements to the computer traffic model of the balanced transportation study.

WEIGHTS TRUCK — Awarded a contract of $8,914 to Isi-Wisnes Inc. of San Rafael for a truck chassis for use by the County Sealer of Weights and Measures.

BEL AIRE PLAN — Hired McCreary - Koretsky - International Inc. of San Francisco for $2,300 to review the master plan for the Bel Aire Flood Control Zone.

CLAIM — Denied a claim by Albertus Oldenburg of Sausalito for $1 million in damages from an alleged false arrest at the Marin County Jail July 16. He claims he was falsely detained while visiting jailed friends.

The asteriod Eros was discovered in 1898.

Tiburon To Apply For Plant Grant

Directors of the Tiburon Sanitary District have decided to apply to the federal government for a grant to build a tertiary sewage treatment plant, secretary Robert A. Sterling reported.

The plant would produce potable water that would meet any possible effluent standards established by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The board Monday approved applications for grants under two programs, Sterling said. The first, a demonstration grant, would construct the plant entirely with federal funds.

Under the second, the district would pay part of the cost and the government the rest. Zimpro Inc., a Wisconsin-based designer and manufacturer of treatment plants, said the facility will cost $1.13 million.

A Zimpro representative attended Monday's meeting and told directors that his firm may be willing to pay part or all of the district's cost if the second type of grant is approved, according to Sterling.

In other action, the board agreed to spend up to $2,800 to buy an electrical generator to provide standby power in the event of electrical failure at the district's treatment plant.

Sterling said the move was prompted by indications that the water quality control board may require districts to have such fail-safe generators before long, to prevent the discharge of raw sewage if power fails.

"We thought we might as well jump the gun on the water board," Sterling said.

102 Strep Cases In Marin Last Week

There were 102 cases of streptococcus infection reported in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Dr. Albrecht said there were 31 cases of gonorrhea reported, 23 of infectious hepatitis, four of syphilis and two of tuberculosis.

Delay May Be Asked On Courthouse Land

A group of Marin businessmen, who have offered $7[illegible],000 for the old Courthouse Square property in San Rafael, may ask for an extension of time on its option to buy.

Robert A. Roumiguierre, who with Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Independent-Journal publisher Wishard A. Brown has the option, told the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday he needs more time to draw up plans for development.

Roumiguierre said the option expires next Tuesday but since plans are incomplete, "we may not pick up the option."

Roumiguierre's group put a $37,000 down payment when it made the bid last Frebruary. Of this amount, $10,000 would be forfeited to the county if the group withdraws from the purchase.

Roumiguierre presented a sketch plan for the Courthouse Square development.

Redesign On Inn's Proposed Addition Ordered By Panel

The Petaluma Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday ordered the redesign of a proposed addition to the Petaluma Inn at 200 South McDowell Boulevard.

Plans include an additional 41 units to the motel and an addition to the Old Adobe Room Restaurant to bring the seating capacity to 205.

The board said that the plans should be reconsidered because of a possible conflict with plans to widen the freeway off-ramp at East Washington Street and suggested that more off-street parking be provided.

In other action, the board approved an Entrance sign for Petaluma Estates Mobile Home Park at 901 North McDowell Boulevard and granted a home occupation permit to Zaven Hagopian, 2001 Sultana Drive, to service electrical refrigeration and air conditioning units.

Man Enters Bedroom, Beats Woman

A robber who wore a stocking over his head threatened a Kentfield woman in her bedroom today, robbed her and knocked her unconscious, sheriff's officers said.

Carole B. Berg, 31, of 20 Quisisana Drive, was treated at Marin General Hospital about 4 a.m. for a badly swollen and blackened left eye and bumps on her head.

She told deputies that she was watching election returns on television in an upstairs bedroom about 2 a.m. when the man entered the room. Her husband, Jerome, was asleep in a downstairs bedroom, she said.

The man said, "Take off your robe and give me your money and jewels," Mrs. Berg told officers.

She said she gave him $25 from her purse, but when she told the man she had taken off her rings and didn't remember where she had put them, he hit her in the face. He then told her he didn't want credit cards and hit her again and kicked her in the face when she fell down. She said she then lost consciousness.

any complaints that come to the department," the planner said.

The supervisors accepted this stance although McInnis and Louis H. Baar said they were annoyed to learn that the ordinances were unnecessary after they had been told by the county sheriff and fire department that existing statutes are inadequate.

Each said he had received "many, many complaints," most from West Marin and the San Geronimo Valley, about hippie living arrangements.

The commune ordinance, as presented by Maloney yesterday, would have limited occupancy of a single family dwelling to six unrelated persons. The companion legislation suggested by the sheriff's department would have forbidden use of vehicles for living purposes on county roadways.

Solnit said, "The problem is not getting people out of houses, but into homes". The arguments tacked from there into theological, legal, moral and political waters.

Attorney Robert B. McReadie of the American Civil Liberties Union summarized arguments made at the Oct. 6 meeting and concluded, "We feel that the proposed ordinances are unconstitutional and, more important, unnecessary."

James Kovacks of the Marin County Legal Aid Society doubted the constitutionality and humanity of the measures which he said discriminate against the poor. "Can you deprive a person of the fundamental right to shelter which this ordinance will invariably d asked.

Michael i, vice president of the Marin County Social Workers Union, charged that the regulations were designed to chase welfare recipients from the county. "We think this is just another step to reduce the welfare roles in this county and it is basically inhumane. What you are doing here if you pass this ordinance is create a criminal class that did not exist before," he said.

He said high rents and continued scarcity of housing would continue to force communal living in spite of the law. His opinion was echoed by many other sueakers including the student body president of College of Marin, Chris Arend, who said students cannot afford to live otherwise.

Michael Perry, speaking for the One World Family of Larkpsur which has taken the city to court over an anti-commune ordinance, brought the Bible into the fray. He quoted from the teachings of Jesus in the Book of Acts to justify communal living.

"What we really want to do in this county is to encourage people to maintain a high environment," he said.

Several speakers indicated that communes are to be encouraged, not banned. One said the "shotgun solution" would lead to rapid construction of the"ticky-tacky boxes that I fled from in L.A."

Applause from the packed house was heard after each speaker heaped opposition to the ordinances on the supervisors, but the loudest clapping was for Kenneth Van Leuven, 51.

"This is against the young and the poor and the idea is to drive them from Marin County," he shouted. "This society is falling apart and no such ordinance will shore it up."

He concluded the young "will make a better society whether you drive them out or not."

Other speakers ranged from a San Anselmo attorney who called communes a "highly efficient way tolivetogether efficient way to live together at minimum expenses" to a White Panther Party member, a Larkspur property owner and Planning Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo.

Winifred Frederick of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin also opposed the ordinances. She said it would take a great deal of money to enforce the ordinances and determine their constitutionality.

A better use of the money, she suggested, would be to enforce laws now on the books.

The supervisors agreed. However, they made it clear they feel there is a problem still to be dealt with.

"I have been deluged by the people in my district (West Marin) where these people have been subjected to a tremendous number of health hazards," Baar said.

To alleviate the health hazards, McInnis said, "I am going to try my level best to enforce on staff the obligation to enforce regulations."

Supervisors Michael Wornum, Peter R. Arrigoni and William A. Gnoss stated they would oppose passage of the two proposals, but that they could be resurrected if existing laws prove inadequate.

McInnis said he didn't want to discriminate against life styles, but warned the crowd, mostly young and long-haired, that it must adapt to living with the rest of soicety without being a nuisance.

"Look to yourselves. Unless you do, there will be continual pressure for this sort of thing," Wornum advised.

Almost without comment, the rolling homes ordinance shared the fate of its successor in the discussion. Arrigoni suggested asking staff how to maintain fire truck access and sanitation standards without banning mobile dwellings.

The county counsel said the vehicle ordinance would have been "extremely difficult, if not impossible to enforce."

Berkeley Student Shot By Assailant

BERKELEY (UPI)—Darryl Haston, 31, a University of California student, shot in the chest by an unknown person who fired through the window of his home, was in serious condition at Cowell Hospital today.

Neighbors reported hearing the single shot Tuesday night and said they saw a woman running from in front of Haston's home.

Lowry Seeks To Spur Recreation

The San Anselmo School District board last night was told delay in its proposed recreation agreement with the City of San Anselmo is jeopardizing needed recreation programs within the district.

Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry told the board that a joint committee of legal counsels and members from the district board and city council have failed to meet since formed in October. The committee was directed, when formed, to study the proposed contract between the two agencies and recommend changes.

Lowry said he told the board after-school drama and sports programs should be initiated immediately at Red Hill and Hidden Valley schools.

He also suggested that the district begin unilateral planning for ann "Adventure Play-Ground at Wade ThomasSchool in absence of an agreement with the city.

The board, which was to have considered the agreement last night, voted to begin the drama program but deferred action on the superintendent's other proposals until Nov. 17, Lowry said.

The two agencies have been considering an agreement as a means of utilizing the school district's community service tax without duplicating recreation activities offered by the city.

Deer Park Land Talks To Continue

Fairfax School District officials will continue talking with county and Marin Municipal Water District officials to seek more land for expansion of Deer Park School, District Supt. H. Reginald Hammond told the district trustees last night.

Proposals to trade an acre of land at the White Hill School for an acre of MMWD land next to Deer Park School, require further meetings with the water district and with Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director, Hammond said.

The trustees ordered minimum days ending at 2 p.m. next week for fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils so teachers may have report card conferences with parents. The following week, classes will end at 2 p.m. for the balance of the district pupils but they will be given special programs while their parents attend conferences, Hammond said.

The Fairfax School District board also:

POLICY — Reviewed proposed revision of the district goals and objectives, to be published in January for a public hearing probably in February, Hammond said.

PLAYGROUND — Ordered $300 worth of Safety Surf resilient ground covering installed around playground equipment at Central School.

Witness Called For Manson Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The prosecution today summoned a 17-year-old female member of the "Manson Family" as its final witness in the 21-week-old Tate-LaBianca murder trial.

Defense attorneys have challenged the admissibility of the story of Dianne Lake, who spent two years with the hippie cult, claiming that she was appearing under duress and out of fear.

Out of the presence of the jury, Miss Lake testified defendant Leslie Van Houten told her of being present at the Leo BaBianca home the night of the slayings there.

"She (Miss Van Houten) said she stabbed someone who was already dead and the more she did it, the more fun it was," Miss Lane testified.

Phase 3-A Of Corte Madera Creek Project Nearing Completion Mark

Despite controversy and dire predictions that cement would never be poured, Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project is nearly complete.

Today marks Army Corps of Engineers dead-line for project completion, and all that remains unfinished are minor projects which do not affect the channel's ability to carry off flood waters.

Completion of those projects, says an Army spokesman, may take the contractor, J B and C Co. of Arizona, another two weeks. However, the Army is not disturbed.

"The Corps considers the project now functionally complete," Eugene Huggins, public information officer, said yesterday. That is, he explained, the concrete channel and its drainage system are finished and operable.

Unfinished construction includes the laying of gravel and asphalt for service roads adjacent the creek, the placing of fences along the channel and the grading of spoils at the disposal site along Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur, Huggins said.

"The contractor can complete the job in 10 to 12 days if he wants," said Huggins, adding that J B and C has requested a 15-day extension for project completion. The extension has not yet been granted, Huggins said, but it probably will be.

Jack Butler, project manager for the construction firm, said yesterday he estimated the project could be completed with "three days of sunshine."

"We can't pour the asphalt on wet ground," Butler said. "It will take us about three days once the ground dries."

He said the Army will not make its final inspection until that time.

Phase 3-A, which was started June 22, this year runs through the College of Marin from the College Avenue Bridge to a point 600 feet down-stream of Laurel Avenue in Kentfield.

Next year the project will continue up-stream to within 200 feet of the Ross Post Office.

Phase 3-A, for which the contractor will be paid $1,333,333, has been marked by controversy, setbacks, charges and countercharges.

The first flareup occurred in July when the county public works department charged the contractor was already four weeks behind schedule on the project which was then only 36 days old. The delay, the county said, was the contractor's inexperience in working with soil conditions found in Marin. Other contractors agreed saying any progress made by the contractor would be washed away with the first rains.

The contractor rebutted saying he was using new construction methods which allowed him to work more cheaply. (He underbid the next highest bidder by $500,000.)

On Aug. 10 and 11 a second controversy flared, this time between the Army and the contractor. What precipitated the fight were two channel wall cave-ins caused by broken water pipes and resulting in a five day setback. The contractor said it was the Army's fault for refusing to allow wall bracing. The Army said it was the contractor's fault because of improper construction methods.

Then about a month later, strained relations between the two snapped and the contractor stopped work, idling dozens of workmen, for a day. Negotiations were hurriedly begun and the Army agreed it may have been "oversupervising" the contractor.

Finally, on Oct. 20, the season's first rains hit backing up six feet of water in the newly completed channel and stalling work for another day.

The College of Marin, which is the single largest property owner affected by this year's work says it is now satisfied with the construction of the project.

The corps of engineers say it is satisfied (though it wasn't to begin with) with the project. "The contractor now knows what has to be done to satisfy his employer," said Huggins.

Proposals For Nature Areas Made At Reed

Proposals for a natural preserve and a recreational development at two Reed district schools were made last night to the district's trustees.

No action was taken, according to interim Supt. Stanley H. Friese, but the matters were referred to the board's facilities and transportation committee.

Under the first proposal, a plot of land behind Reed School on Tiburon Boulevard would be designated a natural area by the board and would be held without development, Friese said.

"The area contains two nice creeks and lots of trees and plants," he said. "It's a great chance for children in the district to study nature and the environment first-hand."

The committee also will study the second proposal, which would build tennis courts and other recreational facilites on about two acres of the Granada School site.

Friese said the town of Corte Madera first proposed the development and said it would pay for construction if the district would donate the land. The site lies within the town limits.

The board approved a recommendation of the Reed District Teachers Association that nine teachers be appointed to the certificated employees council, which will meet with the board's negotiating committee on salaries and other matters.

Appointed to the group were Harold Bickle, Jane Birenbaum, Marge Burns, Nancy Cook, Seymour Feldman, Doris Hunker, Louise Koolhaven, Marty Magid and Allen West.

The Reed School District Also:

GIFT — Accepted a $900 gift from the Reed School Parent-Teacher Club which will be used to purchase instructional equipment.

LEAVE — Granted maternity leave effective Jan. 4 to Kathleen King, Reedland Woods teacher.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired teacher Frank Bullentini for Del Mar School at a $7,775 yearly salary, and Colette Dernoncourt as a clerical worker for $5,688 a year.

REPRESENTATIVES — Appointed trustee representatives to district committees: James Richwagen to the drug abuse committee, Kenneth G. Wells, finance committee, Thomas S. Price, facilities and transportation committee, and Gordon C. Wright, research and instructional assessment committee.

Contract Let For Big Tank In N. Marin

The North Marin County Water District board awarded a $189,730 contract last night to Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co. of South San Francisco, lowest of four bidders, for construction of a five-million gallon storage tank on Atherton Avenue and Bugeia Lane, according to Manager Eugene Churchill.

The price of the tank site is still being negotiated with Frank and Mary Pinheiro, Churchill said. The district has offered $14,000 for two acres plus a 15-foot pipeline and road easement to the site, he said. The Pinheiros have given the district access to the site pending final negotiations, Churchill said.

The board awarded a $6,476 contract for a dump truck and a $3,281 contract for a four-wheel drive pickup truck to Schuman Chevrolet Co. lowest of four bidders.

The board approved an extension agreement with the marin County Humane Society for a 360-foot main extension and a fire hydrant. The estimated cost of $3,715 will be paid by the society, Churchill said.

A special meeting was called for 8 pm.. next Tuesday at the district office to canvass the votes of the successful bond election yesterday in Point Reyes Station and Inverness Park.

Sheriff's Patrol Issue On Tap

Should the cost of sheriff's patrol services be reapportioned so that unincorporated areas will carry more of the burden?

This question will get another public hearing tonight before the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission. The meeting is set for 8 p.m. at Ross Town Hall.

Executive officer John F. Barrows will present reports on the cost of sheriff's services and the revenues such as property tax and sales tax generated in cities and in unincorporated areas.

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Data 100 Corp. announced it has sold 25 computer terminals previously rented, to Chandler Leasing Co., a Pepsico subsidiary.

Judge Reduces Walker Bail; Still Unposted

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday reduced bail for former San Quentin inmate Tommy Lee Walker Jr., saying he thought it possible Walker had been "used" by the Soledad Brothers Defense Fund Committee.

Walker, who had been free during his recent trial on bail posted by the committee, was remanded into custody last week when the collateral for the bail bond was withdrawn.

Walker's first trial ended with a hung jury and he is due to be tired again Feb. 8 on charges of battery against two San Quentin guards.

Judge E. Warren McGuire, who heard the first trial, yesterday reduced Walker's bail from $10,000 to $5,000, noting that Walker had made all court appearances while out on the earlier bail.

The judge did not elaborate on how the Soledad Brothers committee might have "used" Walker, only commenting that this looked like what had happened.

Walker's attorney, Robert Birkie of San Rafael, had attempted to call Soledad Brother George Jackson as a witness during the trial but the judge would not allow this, saying Jackson had not been at the prison on the date of the alleged offenses.

Jackson is the brother of Jonathan Jackson, the youth who smuggled guns into the courtroom of Judge Harold J. Haley, precipitating the Aug. 7 shootout in which the judge and two convicts died.

Walker today still had not been able to post the lower bail and remained in Marin County Jail. His attorney will probably ask an earlier trial date if he cannot post it.

Lindsay's Wife: Poll Is Right

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mary Lindsay said Wednesday the London Daily Sketch was absolutely right when it named her husband, Mayor John V. Lindsay, "the world's sexiest man."

"I totally agree. Nobody asked me but I could have told them that," she told newsmen before flying to London with her husband for a private five-day visit.

"Well, I'm glad to know how to do something right," Lindsay commented, grinning at his wife.

Bradgon To Fill County Planner Job

Harvey M. Bragdon, Mill Valley planning director since 1964, will quit his post to become head of current planning for Marin County.

Bragdon, 38, will assume his new duties as head of the 11-man department Nov. 17. He was appointed by County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell to fill the post Von Gundell himself held until promoted by the Marin County Board of Supervisors in July to replace Paul C. Zucker, fired by the supervisors in June.

His salary at the county is under negotiation, Bragdon said today. He earned $17,000 yearly in Mill Valley.

Bragdon moved to Mill Valley in September 1964 from Salinas, where he was planning director. From 1960 to 1963 he was a member of the Fresno planning staff, first as head of current planning and later in the advance planning section.

During his stay at Fresno he worked with Bert A. Balmer, then assistant city manager, on development of that city's downtown mall. Balmer later was hired as Mill Valley city manager and Bragdon followed him to Marin.

Bragdon said he intends to continue living in Mill Valley, at 4 Barrie Way with his wife, Cynthia, and a daughter.

The nightingale bird is found throughout Europe.

Crank Call Tells Mom 'Son Dead'

A Corte Madera woman yesterday spent two and a-half hours "of sheer hell" following a prank phone call that her 18-year-old soldier son had been killed in Vietnam.

Katherine M. Trau of 6 Echo Avenue, said she received the call at 11:30 A.M., five minutes after receiving a long-awaited letter from her son, Louis.

She said a man identifing himself as a sergeant with the Department of the Army in Washington, D.C., told her "I regret to inform you that your son, Louis, is missing in action and presumed dead."

Mrs. Trau said the man was very sympathetic before he hung up.

Remembering she had never heard of the Army notifying survivors by phone, Mrs. Trau phoned the American Red Cross for confirmation. A Red Cross check of casualty files at the Petagon failed to located young Trau's name. Further checking with the soldier's unit in Vietnam also failed to find a record of his being missing.

It was a hoax, the Red Cross informed the distressed soldier's mother.

"I can't imagine why anyone would do such a thing," Mrs. Trau said. "Why was I singled out?"

A spokesman for the Army survivers' assistance office at the Presidio of San Francisco said such hoaxes have been played before but are uncommon.

The spokesman said all notification to families of soldiers missing or killed in action is done in person by an Army representative. Person receiving such crank calls should check with Sixth Army Casualty Branch in San Francisco, the spokesman said.

Young Trau entered the Army in August 1968 and volunteered for duty in Vietnam in June. He is attached to Company C, 54th Infantry at Pleiku.

Prior to entering the service, he attended Redwood High School.

Cahill To Speak At Boys' Banquet

Thomas Cahill, former San Francisco police chief, and Bay Area telecaster Belva Davis will speak at the annual banquet of the Marin City Boys Club, Nov. 18 in the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club.

Cahill, now chief special agent for the Pacific Telephone Co. in San Francisco, will discuss "Problems of Youth and Communications Today." Miss Davis will tell of "Behind the Scenes in TV Newscasting."

Reservations may be made through the Marin City Boys' Club, 640 Drake Drive, Marin City.

Bike Safety Clinics Slated Saturday

The bicycle safety clinics sponsored by the Novato Jaycees and police department will be held on Saturday, not Sunday as incorrectly reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The hours will be 9 a.m. to noon at Novato High School and San Marin High School and 1 p.m. until completed at Lu Sutton and Marion schools.

150 Enlist, More Needed For Volunteer Education Group

About 150 San Rafael citizens — mostly mothers of children in school — have volunteered their services to the schools through San Rafael Volunteers in Education.

The number is not nearly enough, though, according to Mrs. John L. Levinsohn, who heads the organization.

San Rafael Volunteers in Education was organized as result of a suggestion by the San Rafael Schools Citizen Advisory Committee that volunteer services need to be utilized to maintain personalized education.

The volunteers, working without pay, do such chores as posting attendance records at the high schools, manning desks in offices, working in high school bookstores and in school libraries, helping to supervise children on field trips, etc.

"Anyone with two hours or more a week who enjoys being with students qualifies to volunteer," according to Mrs. Levinsohn.

Particular need exists, she said, for people who have pursuits on which they could conduct "mini-courses" at the high schools — 18-minute classes made possible by the "modular scheduling" adopted this year.

Training for the volunteers is being directed by Mrs. Lee S. Heise, coordinator of special education for the San Rafael city schools. A session of training workshops already is under way, with others planned to begin in January and April.

It is not necessary that the volunteer attend the sessions, however, said Mrs. Ray K. Bolinger, publicity chairman for the organization.

Anyone wishing to volunteer may call the city schools office.

Art Display

Paintings by David G. Cohn of Ross, hobby painter and San Anselmo real estate man and appraiser, are on display this month at the Ross Valley Savings and Loan office in San Anselmo. His oils include portraits of natives seen in his travels abroad, still-life, and Marin landscapes.

Demos Regain Control Of Both Legislative Houses

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Democrats rolled over Republicans today to regain control of both the state Senate and Assembly and assume the dominant voice in a key legislative reapportionment year.

Democrats took a 21-19 lead in the upper chamber while coming up with a 43-37 margin in the lower house. The 1970 Legislature ended with the GOP in front 21-19 in the Senate and 40-39 in the Assembly with a single vacancy.

The 1971 Legislature will have the responsibility of redrawing district lines in accordance with the U.S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" guideline for apportionment. Traditionally the party in power carves out districts in their favor.

The new political lineup will force Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan to bargain with the Democrats in an effort to obtain approval of his programs —including revision of the state's tax structure.

Former state Sen. John W. Holmdahl, an Oakland Democrat, returned to the upper chamber by upsetting incumbent Lewis F. Sherman, R-Berkeley. Holmdahl served two terms before stepping out of the Legislature in 1966.

Peter H. Behr, a 55-year-old Mill Valley lawyer and a Republican, defeated San Rafael economist Michael Peevey, a Democrat, to replace the retiring John McCarthy, a member of the GOP, in another Senate race.

Assemblyman George Zenovich, D-Fresno, made a successful bid to replace the retiring Sen. Hugh M. Burns. He defeated Earl S. Smittcamp, a Republican from Clovis.

Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, was elected to his first full term by defeating Democrat Dwight W. Mize of Garden Grove. Carpenter, also Republican state chairman, won a June primary election to fill the unexpired term of Sen. John Schmitz, R-Santa Ana, elected to the U.S. House of Representatives.

A key fight in the opening of the 1971 Legislature will involve selection of president pro tem of the Senate. Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, currently holds the position but the Democrats were certain to replace him with one of their own.

William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who scored an easy victory for reelection, will be one of the veteran Republican assemblyman in a position of minority power.

A top prospect will be Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, who was re-elected in Tuesday's balloting.

In the Assembly, the Democrats will have the power to replace Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, who was re-elected in the Tuesday voting.

Assemblyman Tom Hom, R-San Diego, met defeat in his bid for a second term in the wake of his indictment by the San Diego County Grand Jury for allegedly accepting bribes in connection with Yellow Cab Co. fare hikes. The charges stemmed from Hom's tenure on the San Diego City Council.

Democrat Peter R. Chacon, a San Diego school administrator, will replace Hom.

A 13-year Assembly career ended for Don Mulford, R-Piedmon, when he lost to Democrat Ken Meade, an Oakland attorney. A hard-driving Democratic registration drive in the East Bay was given partial credit for Meade's successful challenge.

Democratic businessman Jim Keysor, Granada Hills, defeated Assemblyman Henry Arklin, R-Mission Hills, in his attempt for a second term.

Britschgi was succeeded by Redwood City Councilman Dixon Arnett, a Republican, who defeated Democratic Attorney Arie G. Schoorl (cq) of San Mateo.

Assemblyman George Milias, R-Gilroy, did not seek re-election and was defeated in the June primary in an attempt to get his party's nomination for secretary of state. Sunnyvale City Councilman Richard D. Hayden, a Republican, downed J. Ken Croft, a Democrat from Palo Alto, to succeed Milias.

In other races: Republican attorney Kenneth L. Maddy, Fresno, will succeed Zenovich; Inglewood City Councilman David C. Pierson, a Democrat, will replace Jess Unruh who made an unsuccessful attempt at the governorship; and Robert C. Cline, a Republican from Canoga Park, was elected to replace the late Assemblyman Patrick McGee, R-Van Nuys.

Narrow Abortion Win In Northwest

SEATTLE (UPI) — In the first election trial of abortion in history, Washington state voters Tuesday narrowly approved a referendum legalizing abortion virtually on demand.

But no abortions can be performed lawfully until Dec. 3 when the measure takes effect.

Only a few restrictions inhibit a woman desiring an abortion.

She must have permission of her husband if they reside together; permission of her guardian if under 18, and she must be less than 16 weeks pregnant when the operation is performed.

Re-Run Costs Smith Judgeship

DOWNIEVILLE (UPI) — Sierra County Superior Court Judge John F. Keene was re-elected Tuesday over challenger Gordon I. Smith, erasing a tie vote in the June primary.

Keene got 771 votes to 497 for Smith. In June the first count showed Smith ahead by 14, but a recount showed the vote was tied.

(Smith, who is district attorney of Sierra County, is a former San Rafael attorney who served as a deputy district attorney in Marin County in 1950-52 and was practicing law in San Rafael when appointed Sierra County Superior Court judge by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight in 1957. He was defeated for election to the judgeship the following year.)

Vote On Major U.S. Senate Posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three potential candidates for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination rolled to easy victories in Tuesday's balloting for U.S. Senate seats.

Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachussetts were re-elected by impressive margins. Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the unsuccessful Democratic presidential nominee in 1968, began a political comeback by capturing the Minnesota Senate seat vacated by retirement of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Adlai E. Stevenson III, who unseated Republican Senator Ralph Tyler Smith in Illinois, emerged as a prospect for vice presidential consideration by the party which twice nominated his father for president.

In California, Democratic Rep. John V. Tunney beat Republican Sen. George Murphy. In New York, Conservative James L. Buckley won the Senate seat from Republican Sen. Charles Goodell, the target for Vice President Agnew's wrath. Goodell ran third behind Buckley and Democratic Rep. Richard L. Ottinger.

Kennedy, who campaigned hard for re-election, received between 60 and 65 per cent of the vote cast in defeating Josiah A. Spaulding, a liberal Republican—a victory margin exceeded by only two Senate candidates in Massachusetts over the past three decades. It was Kennedy's first ballot test since the auto accident 16 months ago that took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne.

The 38-year-old Senate Democratic whip got 71 per cent of the vote in winning election to his first full term in 1964—the year of Lyndon B. Johnson's presidential landslide.

With 35 per cent of 2,019 precincts reporting, Kennedy had 63 per cent of the vote--934,558 to Spaulding's 555,847.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., who said he was the "No. 1 target" of the Nixon administration, was defeated.

The Senate battle between L. Roudebush in Indiana continued to seesaw today with the prospect an official vote canvass might be needed to pinpoint the outcome.

With 4,341 of 4,442 precincts counted, Roudebush held a narrow lead, 869,824 to 869,770.

Republican Rep. J. Glenn Beall Jr., unseated liberal Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., in an upset victory for the administration in Spiro T. Agnew's home state.

With only absentee ballots left to be counted, Beall had 479,985 votes to 450,233 for Tydings.

Following in the footsteps of his famous father, Robert Taft Jr. won a new U.S. Senate seat for the Republicans in Ohio.

Taft, 53, son of the late Robert A. Taft—the Senate's "Mr. Republican" of the late '40s and early '50s — defeated his Democratic opponent, Howard M. Metzenbaum, a wealthy industrialist, by about 70,000 votes on the basis of complete, unofficial returns.

Taft, now a member of the House, won the seat being vacated by retiring Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young. The Republican victory gave them both Ohio Senate seats. William B. Saxbe was elected in 1968.

Final, unofficial returns from all of Ohio's 13,318 precincts:

U. S. Senate: Taft 1,559,114; Metzenbaum 1,489,644.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., steamrolled Lenore Romney's campaign enroute to his third Senate term.

Hart won a third term in such convincing fashion the wife of Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney conceded just over two hours after the polls closed, saying she had "every good wish" for Hart.

Hart, labeled a "radical liberal" by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew during the campaign, said in his victory statement, "I hope I'm not presumptuous in reading the results of this race as an indication that the people of Michigan have not turned sharply to the right."

In Connecticut, Rep. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., 39, an heir to the Squibb Drug fortune from Greenwich, turned back Sen. Thomas Dodd and Rev. Joseph D. Duffey, 38, a Protestant minister who is national chairman of the Liberal Americans for Democratic Action.

Weicker won the Senate race with 439,891 votes, 42 per cent, to Duffey's 358,849, 34 per cent.

Dodd received 24 per cent, 259,153 votes.

Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., swamped Republican Harold "Bud" Wallace, a political newcomer, to retain the seat he has held since 1953.

Returns from less than three per cent of the state's 1,014 precincts gave Mansfield a 1,692-vote lead over Wallace, a Missoula sporting goods dealer.

The early returns showed Mansfield leading, 3,048 to 1,356.

Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss beat back a highly-organized Republican challenge and won re-election for a third term.

President Nixon personally requested the challenger, Rep. Laurence J. Burton, to try to unseat Utah's junior senator. The President and a number of high ranking Republican officials appeared to support Burton during the campaign.

However, Moss captured 56 per cent of the ballots while Burton got nearly 43 per cent. Others went to other parties.

Moss asserted that Burton's campaign against him was "the most lavishly financed and heavily organized senatorial campaign in Utah's history."

Democratic Sen. Howard Cannon, who blames Republicans for unemployment and inflation, won a third term despite attacks from President Nixon and Vice President Spiro Agnew.

Both the president and Agnew campaigned in Nevada for William Raggio, Reno district attorney who opposed Cannon.

With votes from 749 of 794 precincts counted:

Cannon led Raggio by 71,180 to 48,368.

MEASURING OUT the potato flour, Mrs. Britt Johansson prepares to make a Swedish Brandy Cake in her Terra Linda kitchen. A native of Sweden, Mrs. Johansson will prepare some of her cake specialties as one of the Marin Symphony Guild's auction awards.

(I-J photos by Jim Kean)

A Brandy Cake In Authentic Style Of Swedish Cookery

Marin cooks are good cooks, and one of the auction items for the Marin Symphony Guild's giant "Whole Works Auction" Saturday will be a "cake of the month" done by Swedish cooking specialist Mrs. Sven Johansson of Terra Linda.

Britt Johansson will do her Swedish Brandy Cake for the prize, and she shares the recipe from her native country with I-J Food Page readers:

WHEN THE cake is cooled after the baking Mrs. Johansson smoothes on a glaze of butter, powdered sugar and brandy flavoring.

SWEDISH BRANDY CAKE

- 1¼ cups potato flour
- ¾ teaspoon baking powder (not double acting)
- 2 sticks butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 eggs
- ⅛ cup good brandy

(All of the ingredients must be at room temperature.)

Stir butter, potato flour and baking powder in large mixing bowl, until soft and white.

Beat eggs and sugar in a separate bowl until thick. Stir small amounts of the egg mix into the potato flour mix, until all is consumed. Stir in brandy.

Put mix into a well greased and floured angel-food-cake pan. Bake at 350° for 45 minutes. When cool top with glaze.

Glaze:

- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 1½ tablespoons brandy
- ½ tablespoon water
- 1 tablespoon melted butter

Mix all of the ingredients, except butter, until smooth. Mix in the melted butter. spread glaze over cool cake.

Make Those Fruit Pastry Desserts Now For Use During The Holidays

During the cool crisp days of fall, it is a good idea to make up delicious pastry desserts with the flavorful fruits of the harvest season, and store them in the freezer for use during the busy holiday season that is approaching. They will be heartily enjoyed on days when you return late from a shopping spree or an afternoon meeting, since you can put them quickly from the freezer into the oven with no work involved.

Many pastry desserts and pies with fillings freeze beautifully and pie shells without filling are equally good for this purpose. Their flavor is usually considered best when they are frozen before baking. And to protect their freshness and flavor, they should be wrapped in heavy foil and sealed tightly. Label the package, too, so the contents won't be forgotten.

The technique of wrapping pastry desserts is a simple one . . . put the pie or tart in the freezer until it is firm, then remove and place on a long sheet of heavy duty foil. Bring two ends of the foil up over the dessert and double fold. Seal sides in the same way and return to freezer.

When the time comes to take the dessert from the freezer and bake it, put it into a preheated oven, using the temperature ordinarily used for that dessert. Just allow an extra 20 to 30 minutes longer than the usual baking time. Test the fruit filling with a toothpick or cake tester to make sure it is soft, and the pie will be ready to be brought forth and be served with all the wonderful aroma and flavor of "fresh from the oven."

Here are recipes for a delicious rosy pear tart and a pie to make and freeze for use weeks ahead.

FRESH PEAR TART

- pastry for a 9-inch single crust pie
- ½ cup finely chopped almonds
- 1 cup soft stale bread crumbs
- 4 fresh pears—Bartlett or Russet
- ⅔ cup granulated sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- ½ cup water
- 2 tablespoons tart red jelly

Line a 9-inch pie plate with the pastry and make a decorative border. Sprinkle the almonds and crumbs in the bottom. Peel, core and halve the pears. Place them in a saucepan with the sugar, lemon juice, rind and water. Simmer, covered for 10 minutes, or until pears are slightly glazed. Remove slices from syrup and cool. Arrange in pie shell. Simmer the syrup until reduced to about ½ cup, add jelly and continue cooking gently until jelly is melted. Cool. Drizzle over the pears. Place pie in freezer. When firm, remove and wrap in heavy duty foil. Label and return to freezer. To serve, remove from freezer, remove foil and place in a 425°F. oven. Bake 40 minutes. If top begins to overbrown, cover with the foil.

A Cook's Tour Of Dairy Case

Dairy foods are vital to meal planning day in and day out and account for almost one-sixth, roughly 17 per cent, of our food dollars.

Butter, cream, cheese and milk are important to menu-planning.

When shopping or cooking, you'll do well to know these facts:

1 pound Cheddar cheese makes 4 cups grated.

1 pound butter equals 2 cups . . . 1 stick equals ½ cup.

1 pint (2 cups) cottage cheese makes 4 servings.

½ pint (1 cup) coffee cream makes 8 to 12 coffee servings.

½ pint (1 cup) whipping cream makes 2 cups when whipped.

1 quart ice cream makes 6 average servings.

Name Game

Rib eye steak has many names. A few are Delmonico, Spencer, Boneless Rib, Club, Boneless Club and Country Club. But no matter the name, rib eye steaks come from the meaty eye muscle which is part of the standing rib. Tender and juicy every time, they're a top choice for broiling on the grill.

Galveston Gumbo Teamed With Rice

Because Texas is No. 1 in the production of shrimp and rice and produces many of the oysters enjoyed in the United States, it is appropriate to name a shrimp, rice, and oyster recipe in honor of a principal coastal city.

GALVESTON GUMBO

- 2 pounds raw shrimp, frozen
- 2 cans (10 ounces each) frozen oysters, undrained
- 1½ cups chopped onion
- 1½ cups sliced celery
- 1 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- ⅓ cup cooking oil
- ⅓ cup flour
- 1 can (1 pound, 12 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
- 1 can (13¾ ounces) chicken broth
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 to 3 dashes liquid hot pepper sauce
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 package (10 ouncen) frozen sliced okra, partially thawed and broken apart
- 6 or 8 servings hot cooked seasoned rice

Thaw frozen shrimp, peel, devein, and wash. Thaw oysters. Cook onion, celery, green pepper, and garlic in oil in large Dutch oven until tender. Blend in flour. Add tomatoes, chicken broth, Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper, and bay leaf; mix and heat. Add liquid hot pepper sauce; cover, simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Uncover. Add shrimp, oysters, and okra; simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until shrimp and okra are tender and mixture is consistency desired. Serve over hot rice. Six to 8 servings.

Sensibly Below The Knee

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sensible but pretty dress with its hem at or an inch or two below the knee is what's out front in the fashion race for sales this spring. At some dress houses, that is.

Glenn Tompkins, president of Mr. Mort Inc., said it's the look that's been selling well for fall and winter and it's the look that stays for spring, as far as his concern is concerned. Other fashion firms, closing out a marathon series of shows this week for store buyers, have dropped hemlines at least to midcalf.

TOMPKINS IS among the fashion executives who has been out to the stores across the country talking to customers and retailers. And that's one reason he said he reached that fashion stand.

Another reason is money.

"Charge accounts are backed up everywhere," he said. "We've all had a rude awakening in this business."

Evidence of the awakening is the third floor at 498 Seventh Avenue, headquarters of Mr. Mort.

The floor has room for four fashion houses. Three recently folded. Tompkins decried the economics of the business and said the three firms that closed used to do $150 million in sales annually.

In addition to the to-the-knee dress, the Mort collection for spring, designed by Stanley Herman included ankle length novelty dresses for patio wear, the floor length for after five and jumpsuits, some looking like "hard hat" uniforms in striped seersucker.

"We don't want women to talk length," Tompkins said. "We just want them to look pretty — at a price they can afford. Mr. Mort prices, retail, go from $75 to $130. A separate division of the firm repeats many Mr. Mort looks at from $45 to $75.

Among sensible dresses in the collection: a navy white dotted one with jumper look, complete with long white sleeves. Another, also navy, had a raised waist, portrait neckline and three-quarter sleeves.

NECK AND sleeves were rimmed with one-inch wide dainty lace.

A longer dress, to the shoetop, was navy with white accents. It had three decks of ruffling around the hem. The fitted bodice bared the collarbone.

In the Cuddlecoat collection designed by Victor Joris there were lots of mild coats with matching trousers, navy being the favorite color. Others were in novelty prints, including huge abstract swirls in navy and red on white.

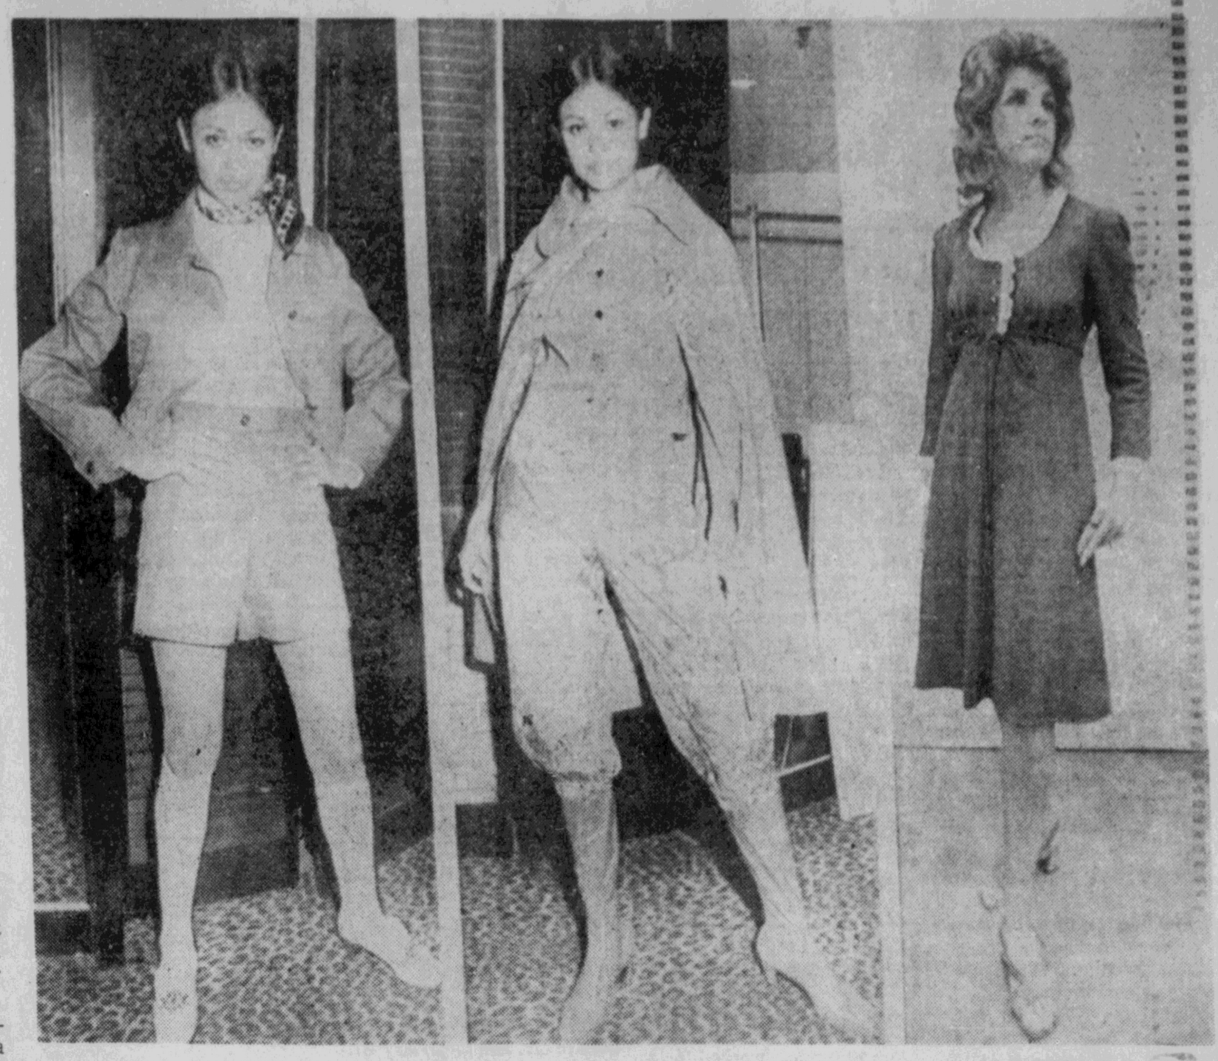
Novelties in the collection included an orange floral knicker suit with vest and cape. Also: a brown rainsuit with hooded midi length coat, fringed a la frontiersman's jacket.

"PRAY FOR RAIN," said a sign in the showroom.

Joris also advanced a grass green suit consisting of short shorts and an Ike jacket. "Short shorts are the answer to the mini," he said.

From V. and J. Inc., a separate enterprise, Joris showed a purple matte jersey long dress with bare back.

It clings to the body. "It is impossible to wear anything under this," he said.



IN A MARATHON of New York spring fashion openings the first bare knees appeared in the Cuddlecoat collection, left, by designer Victor Joris, who says that short shorts are the answer to the mini. The collection also included the orange floral knicker suit with vest and cape, center. Stanley Herman, designer for Mr. Mort, featured the knee length, right. (UPI photo)

Don't Call Sebastian Cabot Just A 'Television Actor'

By BARBARA HOSMER

"It's boring to do the same thing over and over. I'm forgetting how to be an actor," said Sebastian Cabot yesterday as he sat spicing up his Bloody Mary and exploding a few myths about himself over lunch at West End Villa in San Rafael.

Cabot the actor was describing his work as "Mr. French," the butler in the high-rating television series, "Family Affair," now in its fifth season.

When offered the chance to do a pilot for the series, he said emphatically "No."

"I'D BEEN fighting my image of the perfect British or New England gentleman for two years after playing Dr. Hyatt in the 'Checkmate' series," Cabot explained," and I said no, I don't want to be a fat Arthur Treacher!"

Besides, he was about to leave for Canada, where he often enjoys salmon fishing and hunting. But, he recalled, just before he left his agent called for one last try, promising that the series would never sell anyway.

"I said okay and 10 days later it had sold, " Cabot related, and he has yet two years to go on his contract in "Family Affair."

"I do wish we could get some sex into it — neither Brian Keith nor I am allowed to have a real love affair on the show," he remarked, adding that it wasn't realistic. "But of course it's supposed to be a family show."

Calling him either "Mr. French" or a "television actor" is a sure way to anger the London-born Cabot, who is known in England as "Butch." He's not the portly, urbane gentleman his TV fans would believe.

CABOT PROUDLY announced that he has lost 80 pounds in the past year or so, though "I've put back about 15 recently."

Instead he is now a modest eater who likes to tinker with the engines of classic cars, likes to play his clarinet when he's feeling down, claims to be a woman-chaser "just like any normal person," and once considered becoming an operatic tenor. But most of all, Sebastian Cabot is an actor.

Describing himself as "a London Cockney," he worked as a garage mechanic for six months, as assistant chef in a French restaurant in London for two years, and then played the full gamut of roles in repertory theater in England, touring and doing London shows, as well as 60 films.

First it was bit parts, then feature roles over a period of 10 years in road shows, tours and then London theater, playing everything from farce to Restoration comedy to Shakespeare. Among others, he did "The Cherry Orchard" with Peter Ustinov, worked with Orson Welles on BBC radio theater and John Gielgud. He now lives with his wife and children in Los Angeles.

Of film, television, radio and stage work, Cabot chooses radio as his first love.

" YOU HAVE only a voice to convey every emotion," he explained. "On the stage you show it but on radio you can do tricks with the voice. Orson Welles used to say 'you can eat the mike' by moving in very close and using a very quiet tone. And you can do things with the voice that you may not be able to do with the hands or face."

Doing television series, he says, is taking a chance as an actor because it happens so fast. If the actor fluffs a little, the take goes into the can anyway.

"It doesn't matter how poorly the actor performs. So to protect ourselves, if we muff a little then we blow it good — forget lines or something — so they can't go ahead and use it.

"In television today it is all

London Paper Chooses World's Sexiest Female

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Sketch of London said Monday the world's sexiest woman is Jenny Hanley.

Most Americans probably will react by asking "Jenny who?" Up there, ahead of Brigitte Bardot and Raquel Welch, and with Sophia Loren not even in the top 10?

Miss Jenny Hanley is the daughter of British film star Dinah Sheridan and the newspaper—picking its own highly arbitrary list of the "World's Sexiest Women"—said Jenny inherited her mother's grace and poise plus the natural charm of her father, the late actor Jimmy Hanley of British television.

"Stir in her own orange-juice generation's glowing health and uninhibited appetite for life, and you're left with quite a girl," the Sketch said.

The Sketch's list, selected by Shaun Usher, leaned heavily on the entertainment world, with some surprising omissions. They included in numerical order:

2. Diana Ross, American singer.
3. Brigitte Bardot
4. Raquel Welch
5. Nyree Dawn Porter, South African-born British actress.
6. Julie Christie, British actress.
7. Dina Rigg, British actress.
8. Baroness Van Pallandt, "Nina" of the one-time Nina and Frederick singing duo.
9. Betty Anderson, in the "Barbra Parkins" character she played in the American "Peyton Place" television series. 10. Princess Paola of Italy, "a dishy Italian chick . . . (who) keeps getting in hot water and doesn't give a damn."

The newspaper offered readers a chance to disagree with its listing with a postcard poll to be published later.

Good Students Lose Sleep Doing Busy Work, The Unruly Then Copy

DEAR HELEN:

I wish those teachers who assign excessive or extra homework to students as punishment, or "to keep them busy and off the streets" would realize they are missing their mark by a mile. The unruly student won't do the homework. At best, he copies it from the "grind" who dutifully tries to cope with all assigned work, often at the cost of needed sleep.

Each teacher states he is the only one giving homework. Or say "It's not more than a half-hour's assignment" — which stretches into an hour and a half for the conscientious.

I've stopped permitting my child to sit up late on this busy work. Office workers are through after their seven or eight-hour stint. Why must children spend up to 12 hours a day studying? And on non-essentials? Why can't we invoke the child-labor law? — PARENT OF A RED-EYED GRIND

DEAR PARENT:

You'll be happy to learn that more and more teachers are agreeing with you, even though they don't live in your area.

Busy work and those four-hour home grinds are no longer required in a number of schools, because they turn off more students than they turn on.

And so parents are beginning to worry because "Johnny doesn't have enough homework." It's "can't win" time again. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband is a part time policeman. I was surprised and heartbroken at the number of women who throw themselves at cops. Other wives on the force say the same. Even the Captain's wife.

Our home nearly fell apart two years ago because of these dames, and now it's starting again. I always thought policemen were to keep the peace. Why do women pick them for their fun or to break up homes? — MAD WIFE

DEAR MAD:

Don't blame your husband's "peace-work" on his part time job. Women only throw themselves at men who are easy catches. And I rather imagine a policemen has less opportunities than does a fellow in an office full of secretaries. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

For 20 years, I worked for a woman who was worth millions. She often said she was going to remember me in her will. Also the housekeeper and nurse.

It's been three years since she died, and I still haven't got anything. Her son took over the estate and I work for him now. He says nothing was left to us.

Should I believe him, or talk to a lawyer about this? — CHAUFFEUR

DEAR CHAUFFEUR:

You'd better believe him. Had you been included in the will, the executor of the estate would be duty-bound to notify you.

There's a great difference between promises and action. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm shocked at that 67-year-old "practicing Christian" who thinks going naked is acceptable conduct. He sounds like a dirty old man to me. People should be clothed, and that means skirts well below the knee for women and girls. — PROTECTOR OF MORALITY

DEAR PRO:

I'll let another correspondent answer you. He writes: Some people say 'No nudes is good nudes,' but I say nudity is all in the way you look at it. It doesn't stir up bad thoughts unless you've been trained to react that way. — MIKE — H.

money and budget that counts."

Movies, he says, are better for an actor, as there is time to rehearse and do it well.

CABOT, TOO, has going what he calls "my love affair the English language — It's bloody marvelous, really" — and that's why he likes doing the "Sebastian Cabot Calling" in person series of dramatic programs, such as he will present Friday in San Anselmo to open the A.M. Series of the Family Service League at the Tamalpais Theater.

"It's a group of my favorite readings — bits and pieces that are beautifully written.

They include scenes from "Falstaff," "The Importance of Being Earnest," and 'Secret Life of Walter Mitty," — "I'm a great daydreamer, really," the actor added.

SMART SHOPPER

Buying Foods With Nutrition

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Did you know . . .

That you get more calories from a 3½-ounce glass of dessert wine than from two four-inch pancakes or two and a half chocolate chip cookies?

That you get more protein (and calories) from a cup of lima beans than from one hot dog? That you get only 9 to 13 ounces of cooked meat out of a pound of fresh ground beef?

These are a few of the goodies contained in a newly revised booklet of nutritional data published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture under the title, "Nutritive Value of Foods."

Within the 42 pages of this publication are detailed data on 615 common food products. The information includes the percentage of water and quantities of other ingredients in a typical serving.

THE OTHER ingredients include food energy (calories), protein, fat, carbohydrate, calcium, iron, vitamin A value, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and ascorbic acid (Vitamin C).

As an attraction, fatty acids are also listed, with a breakdown for saturated and unsaturated kinds.

In addition, there is a table of Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances listing the chief nutrients for people of varied ages and sizes and a table showing the amount of shrinkage that occurs when meat is cooked.

With the information in this booklet, a consumer theoretically can figure out the exact daily nutritional needs of a family and make up a shopping list to reflect those needs as well as personal tastes.

FEW SHOPPERS have the time or inclination to go this far largely because it would make the task too boring. Shopping is already boring and difficult enough, especially at a time when prices are rising so steadily.

But the publication nevertheless has enough information to surprise most consumers about how much water, fat, protein and other ingredients are hidden behind fancy packages and labels that say as little as possible without violating state and Federal laws.

With this information, a smart shopper can learn quite a few secrets that could save money. The principal device is the art of substituting less expensive food items for more expensive ones of comparable nutritional value.

This usually boils down to a search for cheaper sources of protein, such as the substitution of fish, cheese, eggs and poultry for red meat when price levels dictate such action.

Eating habits and personal tastes, however, often stand in the way of efforts to vary menus and cut household expenses. This booklet could provide a housewife with the ammunition to support such changes and convince others of their value in relieving the pinch on pocketbooks.

MANY PEOPLE prefer to fill in the hit-or-miss nutritional gaps with vitamin and mineral pills. But this can be more expensive than getting them naturally through carefully selected foods.

Iron tonics, for example, are consumed by countless thousands of people without realizing that they are also buying as much alcohol as they would get in an equal amount of champagne, at more than champagne prices.

If you are looking for cheaper sources of vitamins and minerals, your first step should be to send 30 cents to the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, for a copy of "Nutritive Value of Foods"

Jet Age Turkey

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Turkey is keeping pace with the jet age, as it goes for the top place in meat consumption in the nation, say a poultry science technologist.

Dr. Glenn Froning of the University of Nebraska said that today the per capita consumption of turkey has leaped more than 300 per cent over what it was just 25 years ago.

Alcohol Accidents

CHICAGO (UPI) —The apparent innocence of home drinking can be a dangerous trap to the unwary, cautions the National Safety Council.

The council said some authorities cite studies that indicate the involvement of alcohol in 25 per cent of all home accidents, or one out of four of the millions of home accidents annually.

Demos Hold State House Edge

By WILLIAM B. MEAD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats won a majority of the nation's governorships Tuesday in a sweep bound to affect the 1972 presidential election and the makeup of Congress for a decade.

The Democratic statehouse gains covered every region of the country, reversed a virtual GOP monopoly on governorships of the largest states and retired well known Republican Govs. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas and Claude R. Kirk Jr. of Florida.

The GOP went into the election with 32 governors to the Democrats' 18, but the results nearly reversed the margin.

Of the 35 governor races, Democrats won 20 and were leading in two. Republicans won 12 and were leading in one. Not counting the three undecided races, the net Democratic gain was 10 governorships, enough for control of 28 statehouses.

Former Gov. George C. Wallace, running as a Democrat with no Republican opposition, easily defeated two independents to regain the governorship of Alabama.

Democrat William Egan was leading in Alaska while Republican Gov. William G. Milliken led in Michigan. The third undecided race, Rhode Island, was so close the outcome hung on absentee ballots, although Democratic Gov. Frank Licht held a slight edge.

DALE L. BUMPERS

JIMMY CARTER
Succeeds Lester Maddox

Democrats won Republican-held governorships in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Florida, Nebraska, Arkansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Idaho, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Nevada. The GOP took Connecticut and Tennessee from the Democrats.

Democratic governors also were elected in Maine, Maryland, South Carolina, Texas, Alabama, Georgia, Kansas and Hawaii, seats the party already held. The seat in Georgia went to Jimmy Carter. Incumbent Gov. Lester Maddox, who could not succeed himself ran successfully as lieutenant governor.

GOP victories retained the governorships of New York, California, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Iowa, Colorado, Wyoming, Arizona and Oregon.

The gains strengthened Democratic organizing power for the 1972 presidential elections and meant that in a majority of states, Democratic governors will be able to approve or veto redistricting of congressional and state legislative districts. New districts must be drawn next year in line with the 1970 census. Tbse population figures will control districting for 10 years.

Republicans went into the election holding the governorships of all the seven most populous states except Texas.

But the Democrats held Texas while ousting the GOP in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Florida. Republican incumbents Ronald Reagan of California and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York were re-elected in two most populous states.

Philadelhpia industrialist Milton J. Shapp defeated Republican Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick for the Pennsylvania governorship. In Ohio, former rep. John J. Gilligan, a Democrat, beat Republican State Auditor Roger Cloud.

Kird, hurt by feuds with fellow Republicans, lost the Florida race to Democratic State Sen. Reuben O'Donovan Askew. Winthrop Rockefeller, seeking a third term in Arkansas, was ousted by Dale L. Bumpers, a country lawyer who first upset former Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the Democratic primary.

MUSIC REVIEW

'Lovely Ladies' All Tinsel And Glitter

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — As a lavishly mounted production, "Lovely Ladies, Kind Gentlemen" is a real winner. But I can't give two cents for the musical's "innards."

The musical, based on "Teahouse of the August Moon," arrived last night at the Curran Theater. It is the kind of Christmas tree ornament that best typifies San Francisco Civic Light Opera productions — all tinsel and glitter. It's a shame, too.

"Lovely Ladies," does offer just a little more — namely a sterling performance from Kenneth Nelson as Sakini, also a few haunting musical numbers, enchanting choreography in the Oriental style, dazzling costumes, swift moving sets and equally fine lighting. Save for Nelson, these really are the naments on the tree.

Where the musical really fails is in its story line. John Patrick, who won a Pulitzer Prize for "Teahouse" in 1953, has written the musical book, but it seems tied to another time when a kooky team of occupation soldiers brought prosperity to a tiny village on Okinawa.

Consequently, composer Stan Freeman and lyricist Franklin Underwood had a nearly impossible task, turning out a lot of nostalgic fluff instead of real musical winners. Only five or six of the numbers are really first rate — Nelson's big three, "With a Snap of My Finger," "One Side of World," and "Lovely Ladies, Kind Gentlemen."

Also the other big production numbers "Find Your Own Cricket" and the teahouse scene come off very well.

As I have mentioned earlier Nelson is the real bread winner. Save for him the rest of the cast — all unknowns which is somewhat of a puzzler in such expensively staged production — is mediocre. Granted Ron Husmann as Captain Fisby and Remak Ramsay as the kooky psychiatrist do have a few memorable moments — such as Ramsay's "Garden Guaracho" routine and the pair's "Call Me Back" with Nelson.

While Eleanor Calbes is as pretty as a picture as Lotus Blossom, the Geisha who has been given to Fisby by Sakini, her voice has just too much vibato and Bernie West as Col. Wainwright Purdy III has been ruined by a poor amplification system.

But somehow, despite all of its faults, "Kind Ladies" is the best of the season's offerings since it is the only original production — the others are from successful runs elsewhere primarily Broadway. But the major disappointment, why not an original book for the first big West Coast musical in a couple of seasons?

How it fares when it leaves the Curran for an intended Broadway booking late in December will be interesting to observe. Several of the numbers should be cut to keep the two-act musical within two and one-half hours.

More Money Means Much More Meat

TOKYO (UPI) —Japan's meat consumption has been increasing 10 to 15 per cent annually for several years, the government's Agriculture-Forestry Ministry reports.

Japan consumed 876,000 tons of meat in 1965. In 1969 the consumption reached 1.3 million pounds in this nation of 100 million people, averaging 26 pounds per person. The ministry said Japanese are eating more meat because their salaries are increasing.

Washington Loss For Lower Voting Age

SEATTLE (UPI) — Washington voters Tuesday declined to give 19-year-olds the right to vote even though the proposal had been backed by both Democrat and Republican leaders.

With 97 per cent of the precincts reporting, the measure was rejected by 54 per cent of the voters. The vote was 409,105 to 346,356.

Dellums Wins Race Despite Agnew Blast

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California's 35 incumbent congressmen easily were returned to office today while two Democrats and a Republican won in open districts giving the GOP a one-seat increase in the House of Representatives.

Ronald Dellums, a Democrat and Negro member of the Berkeley City Council; George Danielson, also a Democrat and state senator, and GOP Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey of Brawley were elected to Congress.

Dellums had been singled out for attack by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. In his victory speech Dellums thanked the Vice President for the "national publicity" Agnew gave the campaign when he accused Dellums of being an apologist for the Black Panthers.

Dellums' GOP opponent was 25-year-old John E. Healy, the youngest congressional candidate in the nation in either party. He is a veteran of the Vietnam War.

Danielson was elected in a heavily Democratic district represented by Rep. George Brown. He was challenged by Republican Tom McMann. Brown did not seek reelection because he was the unsuccessful candidate in the June primary for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination. He lost the nomination to Rep. John V. Tunney of Riverside who defeated GOP Sen. George Murphy Tuesday.

A special election will have to be called to fill the state Senate vacancy created by Danielson going to Congress.

Veysey defeated David A. Tunno, a former administrative aide to Tunney, for the seat given up to Tunney in his bid for the U.S. Senate.

Veysey's victory increased the GOP congressional delegation to 18 and reduced the Democratic margin to 20.

Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Arizona senator, was elected in a special 1967 contest to fill the vacancy created when Rep. Ed Reinecke was named lieutenant governor, and was re-elected Tuesday.

Reinecke replaced Robert H. Finch who resigned as lieutenant governor to become secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in the Nixon administration.

Reps. John Rousselot and John G. Schmitz, both members of the John Birch Society, easily were elected over their Democratic opponents.

Rousselot was challenged by Mrs. Myrlie Evers, widow of murdered civil rights leader Medgar Evers. The East Los Angeles County district is overwhelmingly Republican.

Schmitz represents President Nixon in the heavily Republican Orange County district which includes the Western White House at San Clemente.

Soprano Is Excellent In Benefit

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A well performed program of French, English, German and Argentine art songs was offered by mezzo soprano Claudine Carlson last night as the annual benefit for Dominican College Music Department's Isaac Stern Music Scholarship Fund.

The second half for me was better than the first half, partly because the Schubert and Richard Strauss lieder and Ginastera's Argentine songs seemed to show her capacities to greater advantage, and partly because in moving to the front of the Angelico Hall Auditorium after intermission I found better acoustics.

In her opening group of three of Debussy's Chansons de Bilitis — works of unparalleled French genius in the art song form — Miss Carlson revealed a voice of exceptionally rich quality in the low register — so much so that she sounded almost like a contralto. However, though she has the sensitivity to handle the innumerable subtle shadings of Debussy's musical idiom, these songs would have been more effective in an intimate setting than in this large hall.

These songs, immediately followed by three more Debussy songs from his "Fetes Galantes," Set II, made for too much delicacy for beginning numbers in a recital. More variety might have been achieved through a livelier interpretation of "The Innocents" and "The Faun."

Miss Carlson's third group of contemporary American composer Samuel Barber's Hermit Songs — 10 of them ranging from religious to folksy in mood — was remarkable for showing a surprising high register and ability to glide easily through the wide intervals in her whole register.

Not evident until she sang the Schubert and Strauss lieder was the full volume of her quite powerful voice and her dramatic potentialities, the last most notable in Schubert's "Gretchen Am Spinnrade" and "Der Doppelganger."

The high point of the evening for me was her group of Strauss lieder, which she sang exceptionally well.

In the final group of the Argentine composer Alberto Ginastera's impressionistic songs inspired by popular themes, the lullaby "Arrano" was enchanting for the fine spun threat of tone she achieved.

The singer made a pleasing appearance, had poise and expressed mood well through facial expression as well as voice, but she needs more freedom in hands and arms.

For an encore she sang so well a popular French song telling the good and bad side of Paris that I believe she could be a success as a chanteuse!

Miss Carlson's very good accompanist was the kell-known pianist Alden Gilchrist.

Youth Referred To Probation

The case of Mark Christopher Saterlie, 19, of Mill Valley has been referred to the probation department for a report on whether he is acceptable to Marin Juvenile Court.

Saterlie was arrested Oct. 25 at the Pepperland dance hall in San Rafael on suspicion of possessing hashish. The youth had fallen outside the dance hall and was being treated for a cut head when the suspected drug fell out of his pocket.

He is to return to municipal court Nov. 17.

'Toast' Tradition In Medieval Times

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UPI) — Ever wonder why you "toast" someone?

It started this way:

In medieval England the wassail bowl was the classic drink for the Christmas-New Year's season, and for nourishment and decoration slices of toasted bread were always a part of the bowl, according to researchers at Rheingold Breweries. Since it was customary to drink to the good health of all those present soon these good wishes were referred to as toasts.

Nickel Card Lasts For 29 Years

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Most greeting cards have a retail lifetime of 12 to 18 months, but one simple little one has been going strong for 29 years.

The card has sold more than 12 million copies reports Hallmark. And the price is the same today —a nickel —as it was in 1941. The card is die cut in the shape of a cart loaded with flowers and the ouside caption reads, "To let you know I'm thinking of you." Inside, their's a folksy verse.

Stumbling Blocks To Property Fraud Policy

By PAT ANGLE

The Sausalito City Council ran into a wall of legal and practical problems last night when it attempted to provide some protection against fraud for buyers of property in the city.

The council looked with favor on an ordinance which would require a seller of a residential building to provide a prospective purchaser with a record of any city action which would affect the property.

And the council's enthusiasm for the regulation was seconded by Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt who agreed with suggestions from councilmen that the ordinance be expanded to include unimproved land and commercial property.

The intent of the ordinance, according to Borgwardt, would be to give the buyer "greater assurance that the property (he buys) can be used for the purpose he intends."

The report would include any action by the council or planning commission affecting land use, such as zoning and authorized use. For example Borgwardt said that if a seller tried to sell a piece of property which was zoned only for duplexes, the report would show this fact, so the buyer could not be led to believe he could use it for apartments.

Borgwardt suggested the city also include whether or not a lot is a legal subdivision in the record. "This ordinance will go a long way toward eliminating some of the problems we have experienced in the past," the planning director said.

The cities of Tiburon and San Anselmo have enacted similar regulations, Borgwardt said.

He also assured the council that the basic information which the reports would contain would be readily available and would not take much time or expense to compile.

Bpt, as the council's enthusiasm appeared to be growing, City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr put a damper on the proceedings by saying Tiburon and San Anselmo have found the ordinance unenforceable.

"Property can be exchanged without the city's knowledge," St. Cyr said. "A person who would comply with the ordinance would be the individual with nothing to hide," the city manager continued. "It would be the person with something to hide from the buyer who would not comply."

A suggestion that notice of the ordinance — if it is adopted — be sent to all Marin real estate firms would not be effective, according to St. Cyr, since land in Sausalito is sold by firms out of the county and state.

The city manager said the county recorder's office which does record all changes of title has refused to provide the checkpoint which would be necessary to put teeth into the ordinance.

In addition, Attorney Philip Torre, substituting for Leland H. Jordan, said the state law which allows such ordinances states only that residential buildings can be included. Torre said he did not know if the city could extend the protection to commercial and unimproved land.

"In other words," Councilman Robin Sweeny commented wryly, "it is just better to let people gouge each other. We've had case after case where abuses are just dreadful, but it doesn't seem we can do anything," she added.

The council, still approving the intent of the proposed ordinance, asked the city staff to study the problems involved and come up with recommendations at its Dec. 1 meeting.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

POLICE STATION — Awarded the contract for remodeling and expansion of the city's police department to Hartmann Building Contractors of San Rafael whose low bid was $56,666. Since the price of recent fire department renovation and the police station improvements was considerably more than originally estimated, the council agreed to take $17,666 from city reserve funds to complete the work. In addition, the council voted to add $15,000 earmarked for corporation yard expansion, to the station renovation.

YACHT CLUB GATE — Approved the design of a security gate structure for the Sausalito Yacht Club.

PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT — After considerable discussion, continued until Nov. 17 a hearing on a planning commission recommendation that planned unit development (condominium-type developments) be included as a conditionally-permitted use in a single family residential distrct.

MORE STUDY — Referred back to the city staff for more study a proposal from the planng commission that the city council handle only appeals of planning commission decisions and planning items which have great impact on the city. At present all commission decisions must have council approval.

RIGHT-OF-WAY — Set Nov. 17 as the date for a public hearing on a conditional use permit request from Northwestern Pacific Railroad to provide parking on the railroad right-of-way located between Johnson and Pine streets.

Petaluma Voter's Purse Snatched

A 66-year-old Petaluma voter's purse was snatched yesterday at 12:20 p.m. as she left the polls at the Petaluma School Administration Building, Fifth and B streets.

Harriet M. Donnelly, 4 Fifth Street, told police a young man grabbed her purse from behind and fled through the school district parking lot. The purse contained her November Social Security check for $110.

She described the thief as being 18 or 19 years old, with long brown hair and wearing a short, blue jacket.

Flood Signs Senators Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Outfielder Curt Flood, who dropped out of baseball last season to bring legal suit against the reserve clause, has signed to play with the Washington Senators, owner Robert Short announced today.

Short said Flood, the former St. Louis Cardinal star, signed his new contract Tuesday night at a meeting in New York. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn approved the signing. The contract was a standard one signed by players with the reserve clause binding Flood to the Senators included, but it was stipulated that neither side would be prejudiced in future legal action on Flood's suit.

No money figure was given.

After signing, Flood left for Copenhagen, Denmark, where he has business interests. Short said he plans to return to the United States next week and then immediately report to St. Petersburg, Fla., where the Senators have a team in the Florida Winter Instructional League.

In Florida, the 32-year-old outfielder, who has a lifetime batting average of .293, will work out on his own, getting in shape for next season.

Short said Flood was confident his year's layoff would not create a problem.

He quoted the new Senator as saying, "Maybe being away a year has done me a lot of good. I'll be fresh and ready for action. Part of my hangup was mental fatigue. I don't see any problem in getting in stride again."

Washington manager Ted Williams was pleased at getting Flood, Short reported.

He quoted Williams as commenting, "I am delighted to have a player of Flood's stature. He is going to be a great asset. The fact he is going to Florida to get in shape is proof he's eager and ready to go."

Flood refused to play last year after being traded by the Cards to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Flood was officially traded yesterday to Washington for three rather obscure minor league players. Going to the Phils were outfielder Greg Goossen, first baseman Gene Martin and pitcher Jeff Terpko.

KEY TO THE OFFENSE

T inda High School's hopes for a fifth conse Marin County Athletic League football ch onship depend largely on the running of tailback Matt Bowman, shown breaking into the open against Novato earlier this year. Bowman, who will lead the Trojans against San Rafael Friday night for the league title, has gained at least 100 yards in each of his last two games.

FOR SAINTS

Minor Leaguer Replaces Fears

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The New Orleans Saints, the most successful expansion football team in the National Football League history until they began stumbling this year, start over today with a 37-year-old minor league coach.

J. D. Roberts, coach of the Richmond, Va., team in the Atlantic Coast Football League, was hired Tuesday to replace Tom Fears.

Young oil millionaire John Mecom Jr., owner of the Saints, telephoned Fears to relieve him of the job he has held since the Saints started in 1967.

Roberts, a former Oklahoma all-America guard, was a surprise replacement since he had coached only the Richmond farm club and the Quantico Marine team and had a 1-7 record this season. His only other pro experience was as a player for one year in the Canadian League, as a scout for the New York Jets for two years and as assistant coach in the Saint organization.

"It was the biggest shock of my life," Fears said after being fired. "I had no inkling of a change."

But rumors of a shakeup were widespread as the Saints lurched along with a 1-5-1 record this season after winning a record 12 games in their first three years.

Roberts' appointment was effective immediately. The ex-Marine, known as a tough disciplinarian, was scheduled to take over the team today and get it ready for Sunday's game with Detroit.

Fears said he would "just sit back and think for a while."

"I'll be gone for the next few days," he said. "I just want to be by myself."

He said he did not want to join any other team this season. "It's too late in the year," Fears said.

The dismissal came just two days after Fears had been persented his Football Hall of Fame ring during halftime ceremonies of the New Orleans-Los Angeles game. He was named to the Hall of Fame this year in recognition of his receiving when he and Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin, playing for the Los Angeles Rams, made up one of the most feared passing combinations in football.

Fears, who was an assistant at Atlanta and earlier under Vince Lombardi at Green Bay, got his first head coaching job here. In three and a half seasons he had a 13-33-3 record.

CY YOUNG WINNER

Gibson Looks For Another Big Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, the National League's Cy Young Award winner for the second time in three years and already signed to a $150,000 contract, believes he can achieve the sixth 20-victory season of his career in 1971.

"It's a great honor," said the 34-year-old right-hander who posted a 23-7 record during the 1970 season. "Im' looking forward to winning 20 games — at least that many — next season. My arm is fine and I just like to keep on winning as much as I can."

Gibson, who won his first National League pitcher of the year award when he had a 22-9 record in 1968, was the first-place choice of 23 of the 24 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America who participated in the voting. He also received one second-place vote for a total of 118 points.

Gaylord Perry, who had a 23-13 record for the San Francisco Giants, received the other first-place vote and finished second with 51 points. He was followed by Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs with 16 points, Dave Giusti of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Jim Merritt of the Cincinnati Reds, each with eight points; Gary Nolan of the Reds with five; Tom Seaver of the New York Mets with four, Wayne Granger of the Reds with three, Carl Morton of the Montreal Expos with two and Luke Walker of the Pirates with one.

SECOND BEST

"I think 1970 was the second best season of my career — second to 1968," said Gibson, who signed his 1971 contract on the final day of last season. "The season was somewhat disappointing because we were never in the race and winning the pennant and getting into the World Series is what it is all about. But you can't win all the time. You just have to keep trying."

Gibson needs only 10 victories to reach the 200-mark for his career but is unimpressed at the approaching milestone.

"I don't have any special goals along those lines and winning 200 doesn't mean too much to me," he said. "It's not the statistics that count. It's winning as many games as you can."

TWO OTHERS

Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who won the award in 1963, 1965 and 1966, and Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers, who won the AL Award in 1968 and shared it in 1969, are the only other pitchers honored more than once.

Perry, carrying an extra-heavy load because of an injury to Juan Marichal, pitched 329 innings last season while Jenkins' 22-16 record made him the only major league pitcher to win 20 games in each of the last four seasons.

DIFFERENT VERSIONS

Rush Is Out As Coach

BOSTON (UPI)—Coach Clive Rush has left the Boston Patriots, but there's a question over how.

Team President Bill Sullivan made the announcement Tuesday: "We're granting him (Rush) a leave of absence to preserve his health and not to damage it further."

Rush, who had to miss half of last Sunday's contest with Buffalo because of a fast heartbeat and dizzyness, had a different version.

"I'll never coach this football team again," Rush told UPI. "I resigned totally as of midnight last night. The club announcement is incorrect."

Top assistant Johnny Mazur was picked to head the Pats.

The Pats sport a 1-6 record in Rush's second year of coaching. Their last loss was a 45-10 whipping at the hands of the Buffalo Bills. Rush was stricken with tachycardia Sunday morning and was told by his doctor to rest during the game.

He returned to the bench just before the half with the Pats losing 24-0.

The decision was made Monday night in a meeting between Rush and Sullivan. When it was announced, Sullivea said Rush "doesn't feel he should give up," although he said the coach would also give up his position as Patriot vice president.

"If you want to know why I resigned, you'll have to ask Dan Marr," Rush said. Marr is one of 10 Patriot owners who has been closely following the club's activities.

Mazur, a 40-year-old former Marine officer, said he wouldn't fool around in his management of the team. "I'm probably not intelligent enough to use big words," Mazur said, "so I use my little short words. They usually get the job done."

A one-time Notre Dame quarterback who was offensive coordinator for the Bills seven years, he said Joe Kapp and Mike Taliaferro would remain his regular quarterbacks "in that order for now."

"I don't have time to change everything," he said. "We'll go with what we have."

Mazur admitted "every assistant wants to be a head coach," but added, "I feel I'm still his friend" in reference to Rush.

38-Year-Old Boivin Retires From Hockey

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—The Minnesota North Stars announced Tuesday that defenseman Leo Boivin, sixth among active National Hockey League players in longevity, has retired after 19 seasons as a professional.

Minnesota General Manager Wren Blair said Boivin, 38, will join the North Stars' executive staff in the scouting department.

"Though Leo spent only the last 1½ of his 19 years in the game with us," said Blair, "He made a fine impression with the North Stars. I feel a personal responsibility to assist him in developing a career in the executive end of the sport."

Boivin was traded by Pittsburgh to Minnesota midway through the 1968-69 season. He played exactly 100 regular season and playoff games with the Stars and was voted most valuable Minnesota defenseman last season by newsmen who cover the squad.

Lamonica Laughing At Bruises

OAKLAND (UPI) — Daryle Lamonica has a lot of bruises these days and he says they feel great.

It's just that pain is a relative thing and the big Oakland Raiders quarterback last week had back spasms that almost kept him out of last Sunday's game with Kansas City, a hysterical contest that wound up in a 17-all tie.

"I had to laugh," he said Tuesday as the team drilled for Sunday's game here with Cleveland. "Everybody was complaining about their bruises today and all I could think of was how glad I was just to have them to worry about. Those muscle spasms were murder. I didn't sleep for three nights."

With Lamonica back in high gear, the Raiders are seriously concerned only about Hewritt Dixon, who has bruised ribs. He hopes to go against the Browns.

His replacement, Marv Hubbard, rambled for 98 yards against the Chiefs. But Dixon is so versatile with his blocking and pass-catching that the Raiders still need him in there.

Healthy Cal Bears Work Out In Rain

BERKELEY (UPI) — The California Bears worked out in the rain Tuesday while getting ready for Saturday's tiff at Oregon State.

Coach Ray Willsey said all starters came out of the upset win over USC in good condition.

Senior Bowl Players Get $250 Pay Increase

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Players in the Senior Bowl college all-star football game, who lose the remainder of their college scholarships, will get a $250 pay increase for the second consecutive year.

Members of the winning team in the North-South All-Star game Jan. 9 will receive $1,500 and the losers will get $1,250 each, Rea Schuessler, Senior Bowl general manager, announced Tuesday.

Schuessler said players who participate in the annual classic forfeit the remainder of their college athletic scholarships because of an NCAA ruling. The Senior Bowl is, for most players, their first participation in professional football.

"We feel that this NCAA regulation is unjust," Schuessler said. "After all, players who are invited to the Senior Bowl have completed their obligation to their schools and plan no further competition in spring sports."

The increased payments will allow the players to complete their final college academic semester even without benefit of the aborted scholarships, the Senior Bowl manager said.

Schuessler also took his annual jab at the American Bowl All-Star game, played in Tampa, Fla., and the Hula Bowl, in Honolulu, which conflict with the Senior Bowl.

Although the Senior Bowl is 21 years old, the NCAA refuses to recognize it but certifies the American Bowl and Hula Bowl, Schuessler said.

"We have no quarrel with either the Tampa or Honolulu games," Schuessler said. "But, if the Senior Bowl . . . has to be penalized by the various NCAA rules and bylaws, I think it only fair that any other . . . all-star contest should have to play by the same rules."

Britain's Bugner Wins Decision Over Scrap Iron

LONDON (UPI)—Joe Bugner, Britain's 20-year-old heavyweight hope, gained his 29th victory in 31 bouts Tuesday night by easily outpointing George "Scrap Iron" Johnson but failed to please a 5,000 crowd at the Royal Albert Hall.

The crowd, which greeted the appearance of the rotund American from Los Angeles, with a certain amount of laughter, cheered Johnson as he left the ring after having given Bugner some of the warmest rounds of his short career.

Johnson stands only 5-feet-9 and conceded every physical advantage except weight to the 6-3 Hungarian-born Bugner. The American weighed 225-1-4 pounds to Bugner's 213-1-2 pounds.

Welsh referee James Brimmell scored the 10-round bout 49-3-4 to 47-3-4 in Bugner's favor —a margin of nine rounds to one.

Nolan: 49ers Vulnerable To Big Play

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nobody is driving much on the San Francisco 49ers this season, but they're still vulnerable to the big play.

In the last two weeks, for instance, Floyd Little went for an 80-yard touchdown scamper for Denver and Donnie Anderson went 54 yards on a quick opener for Green Bay.

Forty Niners this Sunday go into the madhouse called Wrigley Field to play the Chicago Bears, who are 3-4 after beating Atlanta. The Falcons are the one team that has beaten San Francisco. The Prospectors have won only one of their last 10 games in Chicago, with one tie.

And Coach Dick Nolan is worried that the big play could trip up his team. He especially noted Dick Gordon, the speedy Bear outside receiver, and Cecil Turner, who turns a lot of runbacks into touchdowns.

The Chicago offense, moreover, presents a lot of shifts and changing formations also geared to the big play.

Foreman Knocks Out Foe In Third Round

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—George Foreman, the world's third-ranked heavyweight boxer, knocked out Lou Bailey of Peoria, Ill., in the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder Tuesday night.

Foreman, a 6-3, 215-pounder who won the 1968 Olympic championship in Mexico City, is unbeaten in 23 fights.

Warriors In Cow Palace

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors, who play at home in many arenas, journey to the Cow Palace tonight at 8 o'clock to tangle with tough Baltimore.

They were at the Oakland Coliseum for Monday's clinker against New York—their third straight loss.

Coach Al Attles has "walking pneumonia" and won't even suit up for tonight's encounter.

San Francisco won its only previous game against the Bullets, 125-115, but that was when Nate Thurmond was going well.

"We watched our videotape of the New York game," said Attles, "and Nate didn't play that badly. He didn't get many shots, just tips when he didn't control the ball.

"He's trying too hard. He's having a bad time right now, and everything is going wrong. He wants to prove he deserves his salary."

Aaron Wins Gehrig Award

ATLANTA (UPI) — Outfielder Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, who became the eighth player in major league history to reach the 8,000-hit plateau this season, was named today as winner of the Lou Gehrig Memorial Award by Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Aaron, a 17-year major league veteran, is the 16th winner of the award named in memory of Hall of Famer Gehrig, who was a member of the fraternity at Columbia University.

BOATING

Stretching Season For You, Your Boat

By STAN DAVIES

The boating season in the northern states is so short that care of boats and motors becomes a major consideration. Costs must be kept down, because the price of maintaining a boat, pro-rated against the time available for its use, gives the distinct impression that boating is an expensive sport.

To get full worth from a boat it must be used as early as possible in the spring and as late as possible in the fall. One way to accomplish this end in the fall is to take it along if you go hunting. Water skiers keep in shape much later now by wearing "exposure suits" or scuba divers' "wet" suits to keep warm.

Stretching the boating season into a chilly autumn is a topic many people must think about, because here are some of the questions I've been asked:

Q. Now that the mosquitoes and flies have gone, I want to take a wilderness trip in Northern Minnesota. What motor do you suggest for a canoe?

A. Why take a motor at all? There's a strong move afoot to ban outboards in many areas to try to preserve their wilderness qualities. You'll find this in many state and national parks. If you feel compelled to take a motor it should not be anything more than the lightest 1½ hp kicker.

Q. I've got an 11-foot aluminum boat. Will it carry a deer carcass, if I get one?

A. Just be very careful. I've been keeping unofficial statistics (from 1949) of such accidents. Since then, 28 deer hunters have lost their lives doing what you plan.

Q. I have a canvas "camper top" for my big runabout for use in cold weather. I'm told it's illegal to operate with it up. Is this so?

A. As long as you can keep a proper lookout for other boats, the regulations don't care if you are carrying a circus tent. But if you should get into an accident and someone proves that you couldn't see out properly, you could be in trouble.

Q. How do you get "non-skid" paint for the inside of an aluminum boat?

A. First the aluminum must be coated with zinc chromate primer, available at aluminum boat dealers or airplane supply houses. This gives other type paints something to stick to. Then apply two coats of exterior boat paint, and before the second coat dries sprinkle it with well washed, fine sand. One aluminum boat manufacturer uses a popular brand of fleck paint. His non-skid surface is just flecks of paint on paint.

Q. There's a long stretch of river to our camp. Often we are held up by slow boats. What can we do?

A. You can be patient. The guy you are overtaking has the right of way, and if you do him any harm in passing, you are responsible. You might buy a loud hailer and ask him . . . very courteously . . . to let you pass. But it's certain you will run into someone who'll refuse.

Q. I want to hide an old aluminum boat in the woods, but it leaks. The rivets are loose. How do you tighten them?

A. Get an auto-body type dolly block, or any other heavy piece of iron for backing, place it on the head of the rivet and tap the expanded end (usually inside the boat) with the ball end of a machinist's ball-peen hammer. This will expand the rivet throughout its length so that it will fill the hole. If rivets have to be replaced get ones large enough to be a snug fit in the hole before you try to expand them.

Q. Must I take along lifejackets in a boat I'm taking on a hunting trip?

A. The law says "Yes," one for each person in the boat. Also you need them more when the water's cold. Even in small lakes one can become numb and even pass out from the cold very quickly. Therefore, stay close to shore so that you can get there fast if your boat should tip over. Heavy hunting clothes and big boots are a hazard, too. Be careful.

Plunkett Again Passes 2,000 Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) – For the third straight season, Stanford quarterback Jim Plunkett has surpassed the 2,000-yard mark in total offense.

Plunkett, all-time NCAA career total offense leader, has piled up 2,156 yards in eight games this year to dominate latest Pacific Eight figures with a hefty 269.5 yard per contest average.

There's a terrific battle for second with Sonny Sixiller of Washington 222.3 just ahead of Dennis Dummit of UCLA (222.1).

Plunkett is also the top passer with 248.1 yards per game. Sixkiller (230.3) and Dummit (225.5) are challenging the big Stanford signal-caller in this department, too.

The battle for rushing honors continues to be hectic with USC's Clarence Davis (89.9 yards per game) narrowly ahead of Bobby Moore of Oregon (88.5) and Dave Schilling Oregon State (87.1).

Bob Newland of Oregon has grabbed 48 passes to lead that department while Tom Blanchard of Oregon is batting at a 41.2 per punt average.

Stanford's Eric Cross is the new punt return leader with a 13.3 average while USC's Ron Ayala, Washington State's Lionel Thomas and Oregon State's John Lilly share the interception lead with six steals apiece.

Ben Schwartzwalder Is UPI Coach Of Week

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Two months ago, Ben Schwartzwalder was saying he hoped "by next year, maybe we'll be a football team."

The Syracuse University coach beat his estimate by 11 months. Riding a four-game win streak that included an upset win over Penn State and a 43-13 clobbering of Pittsburgh Saturday, Schwartzwalder was named United Press International College Football Coach-of-the-Week today.

When he made the statement about "next year," Schwartzwalder was watching an Aug. 29 practice session by a team that had been rocked in previous weeks by the loss of eight black players in a racial dispute that began with a demand Syracuse hire a black coach.

Among the players lost were the two leading Orange ground-gainers—Al Newton and Greg Allen—and two defensive starters. Syracuse opened the season with lopsided losses to Houston, Kansas and even Illinois "We were just a pretty incompetent outfit," Schwartzwalder admits.

The veteran of 22 years at Syracuse describes what happened next as being a case of "the kids just hung in there. It's more of a team thing than we ever had before."

What actually happened was that through a little shuffling, some remarkable recoveries from injuries and a little luck, Schwartzwalder came up with what appears to be his most balanced team since the 1959 national champions.

Ray White, a lineman from East Weymouth, Mass., who led the Orange defense for two years, suddenly found himself playing wingback.

White's job is blocking, not ball-carrying. "He just knocks people down," the coach says.

Then there was Charlie Boniti, a sophomore linebacker who failed to make the pre-season depth chart.

The 220-pounder from Weirton, W. Va., took over the defense almost immediately. "It's kind of amazing," Schwartzwalder said. "He calls defense, and he shows a real knowledge of what's going on."

In the luck category, Schwartzwalder got what he calls a "real miracle" named Lou Gubitosa.

The defensive end suffered an injured knee, missing all last year. It became infected, and Gubitosa dropped to 150 pounds. He's back to 195 now and provides what Schwartzwalder calls "the brain" on his line.

Another main comeback has been Marty Januszkiewicz, a fullback from Lackawanna, N.Y. Jan the Man, as he's called, isn't very big at 213 pounds and he isn't very fast, but he doesn't fall down, as Penn State learned when he gained 114 yards against them.

In the passing category, there's split end Tony Gabriel, who has 1,021 yards in receptions so far in his three years at Syracuse.

Seals To Host Rangers Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) —Ten days ago, the California Golden Seals skated into Madison Square Garden and emerged with a tie with the New York Rangers.

That was the first indication that maybe they were ready to overcome the four-year hex which had seen them fail to pick up a point against the New Yorkers.

Tonight, the Rangers, tied for first in the East with Boston, come into the Oakland Coliseum Arena to play the Seals, 8 o'clock.

No Name Change For Candlestick

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Candlestick Park will still be Candlestick Park.

A move to change the name to O'Doul Stadium in honor of the late Frank "Lefty" O'Doul was soundly defeated Tuesday at the polls by better than a 2-1 margin.

Among the most persuasive arguments against the plan was that O'Doul himself was opposed to the building of Candlestick Park. Other arguments included the fact that the stadium housed other sports than baseball and that the name Candlestick Park had been chosen from thousands of entries in a contest.

O'Doul hit .349 during a brief big league career cut short by an injury and was a beloved local baseball figure when he managed the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast League.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

No doubt you've heard the hook is the most effective ball to bowl. Here's why: steaming into the 1-3 pocket at an angle, the hook is more likely to produce a strike because the ball is not easily deflected off-line as are other types of deliveries.

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Pistons Get Back To Winning Trail

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Detroit Pistons, after a slight detour, are back on the winning path.

The Pistons, who saw their nine game victory streak snapped last Saturday night at the hands of the New York Knicks, posted their 11th triumph in 12 games this season by trimming the Cincinnati Royals 115-112 Tuesday night.

Dave Bing, Detroit's top scorer in each of the last four seasons, again paced the Pistons' attack with 31 points. Bing's backcourt partner Jimmy Walker tallied 18 and rookie Steve Mix chipped in with 16, including three clutch free throws in the closing minutes.

The Royals, dropping their seventh game against three wins, were led by Flynn Robinson's 23 points.

In light election night activity, the only other action in the National Basketball Association saw Los Angeles whip Portland 128-108 and Chicago down Seattle 113-101 while the only contest in the American Basketball Association had Memphis leading Texas 116-114.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 23 points and hauled in 15 rebounds, tops in both departments, to lead Los Angeles past Portland. The win was only the Lakers' fifth in eight games but it was good enough to give them a one game lead in the Pacific Division where none of the other four clubs are playing over .500 ball. Jim Barnett led Portland with 18 points.

Chicago, which wasted a 15 point halftime lead, had to rally in the fourth quarter to beat Seattle. The Supersonics sank 39 field goals compared to 36 for Chicago but the Bulls hit on 41 of 49 free throws compared to 23 of 34 for Seattle from the charity stripe. Chet Walker tallied 31 points for the Bulls and player-coach Len Wilkens paced the Supersonics with 18.

49ers Not Unhappy About Sayers' Absense

Papa Bear George Halas felt insulted by preseason Las Vegas odds that made Chicago a 100-1 shot to win any pro football title this year. He wanted to bet a bundle on his Bears and turn the winnings over to a worthy charity.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, praised Halas' charitable motives but prohibited Papa Bear from placing any bet. Rozelle's ruling saved Halas from losing a bundle even though the owner of the Bears could have afforded it.

WITH RUNNERS Gayle Sayers and Craig Baynham out for the season, the Bears have relied this year on Jack Concannan's passing arm. But lack of balance in the Bear attack is the reason why Chicago is in the cellar of the National Football Conference's Central Division this year with a 3-4 record.

The 49ers will not be unhappy about Sayers' absence from the Bear lineup next Sunday in Chicago when the two teams meet in the second half opener of the 1970 football season. First time Sayers ever faced the 49ers he scored six touchdowns to tie the all-time NFL mark. That was in 1965 when Sayers was a rookie.

SAYERS SCORED his half dozen TDs in every conceivable manner. He darted 80 yards with a screen pass for the first one and 85 yards on a punt return for the final one. In between those thrillers he carried the ball nine times for 113 yards and four TDs.

Never before did a rookie put on such a spectacular show. And never before were the 39ers so completely routed, 61-20.

In the closing minutes of the game when the Bears worked the ball into scoring position for their ninth touchdown, the Wrigley Field crowd was screaming at Halas to send Sayers back into the game. "We want Sayers, We want Sayers," the crowd kept chanting.

BUT HALAS refused to give the rookie the opportunity to break the six-touchdown mark originally set Dec. 28, 1929, by Ernie Nevers for the old Chicago Cardinals against the Bears and duplicated Nov.25, 1951, by Dub Jones for the Cleveland Browns, also against the Bears.

So Jon Arnett tallied the ninth and final Chicago TD that Dec. 12, 1965, in Wrigley Field and Halas later explained why he did not send Sayers back into the game to score it.

"NOBODY WAS hungrier than I was to see him score seven," said Halas. "But what if he got hurt? I'd never have forgiven myself."

Since Sayers' memorable afternoon which marked him as one of the greatest runners in football history, he twice has suffered severe knee injuries. Last month he underwent the second operation on his left knee. He may never play again.

Funeral Services Friday For UPI's Smilanich

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Funeral services will be held here Friday for Steve Smilanich, a native Utahn and assistant sports editor for United Press International who was killed Tuesday in a two-car collision on a freeway near Mount Pleasant, N.Y.

The services are scheduled for 10 a.m. in the Larkin Mortuary Chapel. Burial will follow in Wasatch Lawn Memorial Park.

Smilanich's widow and three sons arrived in Salt Lake City Tuesday afternoon to complete funeral arrangements.

Smilanich, highly respected by intermountain area newsmen for his years of news and sports coverage in this area, was killed early Tuesday on the Taconic State Parkway as he drove home from work at UPI's New York Bureau.

Police said a car driven by Richard E. Kwasnik, 30, of Peekskill, N.Y., apparently crossed the dividing line on the parkway and sideswiped Smilanich's car. Kwasnik, who was uninjured, was charged with driving while intoxicated and is free on $100 bail.

Smilanich, 42, of Yorktown Heights, had served as Rocky Mountain sports editor in UPI's Salt Lake City bureau before joining the New York sports staff three years ago.

Tough Road Race Gets Under Way

ENSENADA, Mexico (UPI— Possibly the world's toughest road race got under way today, the Baja 1,000 from here to La Paz.

Good pavement prevails on all but 220 miles of the race but those 220 are filled with ruts, hairpin curves, desert and jungle hard to equal in the world.

Among those entered is former Indianapolis 500 winner Parnelli Jones. Thirty-three motorcycles started shortly after 8 a.m. (PST). Dune buggies, four-wheelers and production cars will follow on the grind from the upper part of the peninsula to La Paz in the south.

The 832-mile race saw only 97 of the 247 starters finish last year.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 4, the 308th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and the first quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

On this day in history:

In 1842 Abraham Lincoln was married to Mary Todd in Springfield, Ill.

In 1931 the League of Nations cited Japan for willful aggression in Manchuria.

In 1952 Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected President, ending 20 years of Democratic administration.

In 1968 some 150 persons were injured as West Berlin youths battled police.

A thought for today: "Sophocles said, "Though a man be wise, it is no shame for him to live and learn."

Cancer Experts To Talk On KTIM

Three cancer experts and a patient will discuss the disease on Radio KTIM's "Sounding Board" program at 9 a.m. tomorrow. The program will be a prelude to Cancer Education Week, Nov. 9 through 15.

Brand, a director of the Marin Unit and an employee of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, and Mabel Whitehead, a mastectomy patient living in Marin County. Questions submitted by the audience will be answered.

The program moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer will be recorded and rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

WORD-A-DAY

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Traditional Methods Of Play Are Always Not Superior Ones

If you believe in tradition, you want the ace to win the first trick of a suit, the king to win the second, and so on. That's what nature surely intended, and what sort of bridge player would fly in the face of nature? At the risk of being called a hippie, I must point out that nature won't get you very far with today's hand.

WITH ACE

You win the first trick with the ace of diamonds. Hurry for Mother Nature! If you're a hard-shell traditionalist, your next step is to draw three rounds of trumps. Then you cash the ace and king of hearts.

The bad heart break leaves you up a tree. You can take the ace of clubs and ruff a club with dummy's last trump, and then you can cash the queen of hearts, but the rest of the hears are not good. You discard another club on the king of diamonds, but you still have a losing club in your hand. Down one.

WHAT TO DO?

What could you do about it? If you had tried an early club finesse, it would not have worked. If you had tried to clear the ace and king of hearts out of the way before draking trumps, West would have ruffed the second heart.

Look for a very mod play to make the grand slam. Get with it before you read on.

START TRUMPS

After winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds, draw one round of trumps with the king and then cash the king of hearts. Lead a low trump to dummy's ten and cash the king of diamonds to discard the ace of hearts. There's a real long-haired play for you!

Ruff a low heart with the jack of trumps and lead a third round of trumps to dummy's ace. Lead another low heart and ruff with your own last trump. Now you can cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in dummy, and the rest of the hearts are good to assure the grand slam.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player doubles.

You hold:

♥ — J 10 9 3
♦ — 7 6 5 4 3 2
♣ — 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

This raise, after a takeout double, promises trump support but nothing else. If there had been a pass instead of a double, you would have passed your partner at one heart.

Data Firm Plunges On Poor Profits

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have shares of University Computing. I received no dividends from this stock and need income. What do you advise? — M. S. I bought 50 shares of University Computing at $100 a share. Will it ever recover to this level or should I take the loss? — M. O.

A. University Computing was propelled from a low of 2 in 1965 to a high of 187 in 1968, on the strength of a tremendous upsurge in the company's reported earnings. However, this year, profits plunged as results were penalized by losses from phototypesetting and heat transfer equipment, mass mailing services and higher labor and material outlays.

Company's total pretax income fell a hefty 23 per cent in 1970's first half. University suffered an operating loss of $186,000 in the June (2nd) quarter. The firm's reported net of $1.7 million, or 24 cents a share in this period, came from nonoperating sources — largely capital gains.

Speculation that the FCC may approve University's Datran system for transmission of business data has, in part, stirred actionin University shares. However, no definite decision has been made on this as yet. Until renewed profit growth is sustained, shares will probably continue to move aimlessly. To M. S., whose primary concern is income, shares should be liquidated. For M. O., I would regard any rally as an opportunity to sell.

Q. We have shares of Safeway Stores, bought at 35. Is this a good stock for the conservative investor? — S. I.

A. Market action of many of the grocery chain stocks — including Safeway — has improved substantially in recent weeks. Company operations are improving also. For the 36 weeks ended September, 1970, sales advanced 17.1 per cent, while per share net increased 34 per cent year-to-year. Addition of new supermarkets and expansion of nonfood outlets augurs well for continued sales gains. Moreover, the absence of strikes, which adversely affected 1969's results, should allow appreciable growth in share profits as well. Stock offers long-term growth potential with steady, moderate income.

FPC Sees Threat Of Blackouts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A reserve power shortage in one of every four utility systems in the continental United States could result in blackouts or electrical shorages this winter, according to the Federal Power Commission.

In a survey taken by the FPC of 187 large utility systems, 48 had generating reserves of less than 15 per cent for the winter peak load period.

The shortages result from short supplies of fuel, primarily in production and transportation of coal, and natural gas and fuel oil from both domestic and foreign sources, the FPC said.

Other contributing factors, the FPC said, were price rises, antipollution restrictions and competing demands of various markets.

PPG Expansion

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — PPG Industries, Inc. plans to at least double the chlorine and caustic soda production capacity of its Lake Charles, La., chemical complex. The plant now produces about 1,500 tons of chlorine and 1,650 tons of caustic soda daily.

Stocks Score Modest Gain On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market scored a modest gain Wednesday in what was primarily regarded as a continuation of Tuesday's strong advance. Turnover was moderate.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones Industrial Average was ahead about 3 points at 771.36.

Of the 1,574 issues on the tape, advances topped declines, 707 to 588, although the ratio had been more than 2-to-1 during the morning hours.

Turnover amounted to more than 12,000,000 shares, up from 11,760,000 shares traded Tuesday.

Closing prices included: Am T & T 44 7-8 up 18; Beth St 21 1-8 up 18; Chrysler 26 1-4 off 1; Dupont 122 1-4 up 1 1-4; Ford 51 3-8 up 7-8; Gen El 87 78 up 7-8; Gen Motors 73 up 5-8, and IBM 296 1-4 up 1-8.

Many analysts viewed the election results as "right down the middle" and having little appreciable impact on the market.

They believed the market was reacting to two factors: speculation that the Federal Reserve Board may soon slice its discount rate to member banks, and the hopes that negotiators were working feverishly toward settlement of the seven-week-old strike at General Motors Corp.

One analyst said "strength of the last two sessions is enough to suggest a short term rally is in the cards." He added that he didn't look for any great shift in the Nixon Administration's economic policies as a result of the elections.

Among the day's most active issues were Telex Corp. and Pitney Bowes, which traded a block of 135,000 shares at 25 5-8, off 3-4.

Other large block transactions included 129,500 shares of Armco Steel at 20 off 1-8; 91,600 shares of Brunswick Corp. crossed at 18 1-4 up 1-8; 41,500 shares of Xerox crossed at 87 down 1 3-4; and one 89,900-share block of Houston Lighting & Power at 40 3-4, up 5-8, and another of 49,000 shares at the same prire.

One Aspect Of Election: Rejection Of Divisiveness

The columnists and the network pundits will give all sorts of interpretations to the mixed-up results of yesterday's election. But in California at least, we think they show the people are tired of divisiveness.

The last-week "smear" advertisements against Rep. John V. Tunney, we expect, added to his margin over Sen. George Murphy. They were divisive advertisements, seeking to brand the Riverside congressman as a friend of criminals because he voted against the District of Columbia Crime Control Bill.

At this writing, Wilson C. Riles seems to have squeaked in as state superintendent of public instruction, and here again we regard the apparent victory as at least in part a protest gaainst divisiveness. Max Rafferty, in this and past campaigns and in most of his writings and public pronouncements, has divided rather than unified those who strive for better schools. Riles made "working together" a key theme of his campaign.

THE DIVISIVENESS tactic also failed to serve Jesse M. Unruh in his campaign for governor. His attempt to brand Gov. Ronald Reagan as allied with rich, predatory interests just didn't come off. Some of Reagan's own public pronouncements, however, have tended to be divisive — and this may have reduced his margin over Unruh, who did better against the charismatic governor than did Edmund G. Brown four years ago.

Locally, there was divisiveness in the campaign of Ernest C. Zunino for municipal court judge, as he went beyond calling for stricter court rules and less judicial "permissiveness" to declare he would hand out heavy sentences regardless of what other judges of the municipal court might do. Robert A. Smallman's approach of urging that all the judges get together to be more strict and make sentencing more uniform had a less divisive appeal.

THERE WERE, of course, many other things involved in all the campaigns. But we see in the results an expression of the longing to work together instead of against one another.

Nationally, the Agnew "purge" campaign — an obviously divisive effort — failed to pay off in most states to which it was carried, including California. The vice president may have thought he was serving his party in calling for defeat of men he called "radical liberals" — even if the man happened to be a Republican, as in New York. But he was not serving the nation, which needs to get together to make democracy work. It is far too splintered now.

THE ELECTION results will not materially change the complexion of either the United States Congress or the California Legislature. But we can hope the new Congress and the new legislature will work in greater harmony than the old.

There's a lot to be done. It will take a lot of cooperation to do it. We cannot afford to divide our house against itself in this country.

Acorn Harvest

The Miwok Indians who lived in Marin before the coming of the white man were acorn-eaters. According to most accounts, acorns and shellfish were the mainstays of their diet.

Acorns are really nuts and nuts are an excellent source of protein. Marin's live oak-forested hills and dales were a ready-made farm for the Miwoks. Reportedly, the acorns were ground and washed to remove their tannic acid, then made into a mush or gruel. Some acorns contain much tannic acid, some very little. Eaten plain, they are not bad — if you get the right kind.

This comes to mind every November when the acorns ripen. We think about the Miwoks harvesting their natural farm.

Taxation 'For Environment' Could Become Favoritism

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, chairman of the Assembly committee on revenue and taxation, has announced a series of meetings by his committee to study taxation "as a means of environmental control."

Bagley was the prime mover of Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform program earlier this year, a program which failed of enaction by the legislature. The result of this failure was to leave property taxes in California at the same high level as in the past.

NOW BAGLEY'S tactics apparently would switch the main study from tax reform and some relief to property taxpayers to the problem of what can be done to help the environment control program through changes in the taxation system which means nothing more than tax favoritism to big business.

"The power to tax," says Bagley, "can be the power to create a system of taxation conducive to preserving the environment.

"The hearing will be the first important step among many necessary to determine what changes must be made in our tax policies to encourage sound environmental practices among businesses and consumers.

"We must answer the basic question of whether tax policy is a viable mechanism for providing incentives to deal with environmental problems."

BAGLEY CONTINUES by stating that the "immediate objective of the committee will be to begin evaluating various tax incentive programs as compared to proposals of added taxes for those who are destroying our environment."

He also says that a third task of the committee "will be to find new revenues essential to fund environmental programs."

The proposal sounds like the beginning of a widespread campaign to collect millions from the unsuspecting taxpayers of California to expend for environmental control.

The only trouble is that the state has no firm program for expending this money.

ADMITTEDLY, money has to be spent to "clean up the mess" created by carelessness on the part of business and industry. But giving business and industry a tax incentive to clean up what should be cleaned up in the normal process of operation, at the ultimate expense of the small taxpayer, appears to be slightly out of line.

The danger to the taxpaying public stems from any proposal to give incentives to business to cut its taxes by performing functions that should be performed anyhow. Such incentives could wind up as a system of favoritism.

Judiciary Not Immune To Decisions Of Public

(Reprinted from Downey, Calif., Southeast News)

In their fight against illegal narcotics, many southeast Los Angeles County citizens are doing something which has not often been done in this country — they are questioning the decisions of judges who they maintain are handing down decisions which are too light for those convicted of illegally selling narcotics.

Under the three-part system of governmental checks and balances system in this country, there has been one segment which has been left pretty much alone — the judiciary.

Ideally, our system of government operates under the assumption that the various legislatures makes laws, the various executives enforce the laws, and the various judiciaries judge the laws and those charged with violating them.

Irrespective of the officials involved, be they elected or appointed, they are ultimately answerable to the people. The country, then, is the people.

WHEN THE PEOPLE are fed up with something, ideally, action will be taken by the government to correct the situation. In the case of the current narcotics problem facing California and the nation, the people have had it and are starting to voice their opinion where it will do some good — with the judges themselves.

The current fight by concerned citizens over the availability of illegal drugs is one of the few examples in recent times where the sacred courts are being attacked for laxity. They are signing petition voicing their strength in numbers.

It's high time. Too often judges feel they are above criticism. They feel as though they are in their own little world to do as they please and not be answerable for their actions.

RECENTLY we had an instance in which the grand jury was told, in effect, to mind its own business and do what it is told, and not venture into any analysis of the courts' handling of narcotics cases.

What good is a grand jury if it cannot operate independently, if its hands are shackled by its mentor?

Just as defendants are put on trial before the judges, the judges are now being "tried" by the people. For some judges in Orange and Los Angeles counties, their decisions on narcotics cases now may decide whether they are re-elected.

HISTORICALLY, legislatures and executives have been criticized immediately for their decisions, and actions. Virtually everything they do is exposed and questioned. It hasn't necessarily been so with the judiciary.

As many of the people currently involved in fighting the over-growing narcotics problem have found, the weakest link in the governmental process has been the judiciary. They want to "toughen it up."

The legislative branch has apparently been doing its job: there are strong statues on the books dealing with narcotics. The executive has also been putting out a strong effort: law enforcement agencies have been doing all they can to arrest offenders.

The judiciary has in many cases been lax. Judges have heard the cases of narcotics violators, and in many instances have suspended or given "Mickey Mouse" sentences. Others have been firm, and have given substantial sentences — especially to repeat offenders.

IT IS THIS inconsistency of decisions by the various judges that is most difficult to understand and tolerate. It is high time this inconsistency were pointed out to the people who can then decide what action to take.

If a judge is too lenient in his decisions, it should be known. He should be aware that what he does is watched.

By the same token, if he is too harsh, it should be pointed out.

Under our system of government, an informed populace will make the right decisions and put the proper people in office. Regardless of the office, it is not so high, nor so sacred that it is above the critical eye of the people

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 4, 1960

Marin County Medical Society announced it would offer a prepaid medical care plan.

A rumor that Soviet Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev had been deposed by Salinist foes was branded "nonsense" by the Kremlin.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 4, 1950

Thomas D. Hardcastle, president of the Federation of Marin Country Commuter Clubs, called a mass meeting in Mill Valley to protest Pacific Greyhound Lines' plan to abandon its financial district terminal in San Francisco.

Three Marin County employees were fired under a new state law requiring that all public employees be U. S. citizens.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

One Thing Lacking In Election Issue

In your Marin Magazine of Oct. 31 the cover states "complete coverage of local, state and national candidates . . . etc." I think this must be a misprint, perhaps you should have entitled it "complete coverage of Republican and Democratic candidates" as there is no summary of the Peace and Freedom parties candidates platforms.

I think they deserve as much coverage, especially since many people I know are sick and disgusted with the political hogwash so many of the major candidates are handing out and are looking elsewhere for new life and ideas on running our deteriorating government.

Is it not the ideal purpose of a newspaper to forget their political biases and cover all the views, especially when it states it has?

Women Face Pay Discrimination, May Need To Form Own Unions

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — "Women of America! Unite. You have nothing to lose but your low-pay status."

This is destined to become the slogan of the nation's second-class majority — women.

One of the main and just complaints of the Women's Liberation movement is this:

By a very large margin men hold better jobs and get better pay — often when the quality of the work is the same.

And the already wide gap between male and female earnings is getting even wider.

THIS IS NOT all due to discrimination. Many women are new to the labor force and many haven't the skills or the seniority of the men. But there is a pervasive resistance to giving women equal pay for equal work and to enable them to compete on equal terms for jobs men have held almost exclusively so long.

At best this disparity can be corrected only gradually because it would cost so much.

There are now more than 30 million women in the nation's work force and they comprise approximately 38 per cent of all labor. Counting only full-time, year-round workers, it is estimated that paying women the same as men would add $59 billion a year to the total payroll.

THE CHASE MANHATTAN Bank has just completed a study in this area and it finds that women are up against this:

The median earnings of women employed full-time is 42 per cent below that of men. In some jobs, like sales workers, it drops as far as 60 per cent below men.

Nearly half of all men but less than 20 per cent of women are in the three highest-paying occupational groups — managers, officials and proprietors, professional and technical workers, and craftsmen and foremen.

While women make up 38 per cent of the labor force, they account for only one per cent of the engineers, 2 per cent of executive personnel, 3 per cent of all craftsmen, 7 per cent of physicians, 13 per cent of proprietors outside retail trade, 15 per cent of salaried managers and officials, and 21 per cent of the professional people outside the fields of education and health.

Less than one-fifth of the men but 63 per cent of all working women are clerical, service or sales workers. These jobs are at the lower end of the pay scale.

IF THE INCREASE in the number of women employed in the higher-paying occupations —salaried managers, professionals and craftsmen — had been in line with the increase in the female labor force since 1960, there would be 2.8 million more women in these jobs.

What is most dismaying to most women and to the vehemently protesting leaders of the Lib movement is that in recent years women haven't even been holding their own in the pay race.

The wage gap has been widening in times of high prosperity and of recession. In 1955 the median wage of women working full-time was only 36 per cent below the median wage for men, but it is now 42 per cent lower than that of male workers.

WHY?

The women's labor force has been growing faster than the men's. Thus more women have been competing with each other for "women's work" and this holds wages down.

More younger women are entering the labor force.

Men are catching up with women in their grade and high school education.

It is the judgment of the Chase Manhattan Bank study that industry will benefit if it makes better and fairer use of women and that employers better look to it.

But the leaders of the Women's Lib are not going to wait around just politely tapping on closed doors. And they don't expect to get much help from the big unions, which will be more interested in defending the one-sided status quo for men than in improving it for working women.

This suggests that it may not be long before some unions are organized by, for and with women to achieve their just rights.

American Expatriates Find Law And Order In Spain

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

MADRID — For those of us who lived through the tumultuous prelude to World War II in the 1930s, there is a sad bit of irony in the steady stream of elderly Americans who are now seeking a calm retirement haven in Generalissimo Franco's Spain.

There is apparently no disputing the facts, however. Knowledgeable sources here say Americans of retirement age are coming to Spain by the thousands to take up a more or less permanent residence for their declining years.

Americans in Spain are not required to register with the U. S. Embassy, so there is no accurate total in this regard. One estimate, reliable if unofficial, is that between 30,000 and 50,000 Americans are now living here, in addition to those on government assignment and the 10,000 Navy and Air Force men who man U. S. military bases.

OBSERVERS HERE mention two factors by way of explaining this immigration. The first, of course, is economic.

As tourists from all over the world have discovered, Spain is one of the cheapest cost-of-living countries in Europe. The American dollar buys a lot of creature comforts for Americans who are trying to minimize the impact of inflation on their retirement incomes.

The other important factor, according to these reports, is law-and-order — in just the sense that the expression has created so much concern in the United States. Spain has not experienced the rioting and other disruptive outbreaks which have occurred in cities in the United States and elsewhere in the free world.

Large security forces — army and police — have long been the hallmark of authoritarian government. To many Americans they seem to mean more importantly, that it is still safe to walk the Spanish streets at night.

SPANISH AUTHORITIES claim that, for most Americans and the residents of much of Europe, the image of Franco Spain is still that of the civil war of the 1930s. They complain that it is a false image.

Certainly (and, again, as an annual flood of tourists have discovered), there are no outward signs of repressive government, though the police and uniformed military are much in evidence.

Spanish newspapers are not now censored in advance. Reporters, individually, and the newspapers themselves can be fined for slandering the state, however, and publications can be suspended with all of the economic penalties which such a suspension embraces.

Occasional editions of foreign newspapers, including the Paris Herald-Tribune, which circulates widely in Europe, simply do not reach the news-stands here when they contain reports which are considered objectionable by Spanish authorities.

In the law-and-order department, however, the authorities are very tough indeed, as two American newsmen discovered last week when they were detained briefly, in a case of mistaken identity, until the real fugitive was discovered hiding on the airliner from which they had just disembarked.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By C. P. McCarthy

Zunino Or Francois For Judge? It's Tough Choice For Voter

Choosing whom and what to vote for is sometimes fairly difficult. Yesterday, however, was without a doubt, the roughest election day this voter has gone through.

Trying to decide whether there should be an immediate cease-fire and immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam so that the Vietnamese people can settle their own problems, or whether the withdrawal should begin immediately and be completed no later than June 30, 1971 was a choice Solomon might have had trouble with.

It took hours and hours of soul-searching before reaching a choice among Robert A. Smallman, and Ernest C. Zunino, Agnes O'Brien Smith and Terry A. Francois for municipal court judge.

Of course, the biggest and most important decision of all was whether or not to change the name of Candlestick Park to O'Doul Stadium in memory of the late Francis O'Doul.

MOST MARIN voters didn't have the same problems.

My voting difficulties arose when one mistake was compounded by another, and I received two sample ballots and was officially registered to vote in San Francisco as well as Marin.

Peter C. Meyer, Marin County elections officer, naturally and probably correctly blamed the first mistake on San Francisco.

When I moved from San Francisco to Marin and registered to vote in Marin, one of the forms that had to be filled out was an affivadit of cancellation directing the San Francisco registrar of voters to remove my name from the San Francisco registration lists.

Somewhere between my signing the affidavit and the action being carried out, something went wrong, because my registration in San Francisco remained.

THIS HAPPENS occasionally, Meyer said, but the error is often invalidated because the envelope containing the sample ballot and polling place card is marked with a message to the postman not to forward the envelope.

This would in most cases prevent a sample ballot and polling place card from following someone who had moved.

In my case, however, I still get a lot of mail, mostly junk, at the San Francisco address, and the sample ballot was piled along with the rest and saved for me.

MEYER SUGGESTED I call the registrar of voters in San Francisco and ask for another affidavit of cancellation, just to keep things legal.

I made the call, but a worker at the San Francisco office said my name would be removed from the San Francisco lists after the election anyway.

He based his assumption on the fact that names of persons who don't vote in a general election, held every two years, are automatically removed from the lists.

Because of the San Francisco office's lack of concern, I remained registered in both San Francisco and Marin through yesterday's election.

I'm not saying I voted in both places but I never did like the name of Candlestick.

Youth Commission Chairman Resigns

The rapid turnover on the Marin County Youth Commission continued today with still another resignation — this time by acting chairman George Kewin of Mill Valley, who will move to Berkeley to attend the University of California.

L. Charles Smith, youth coordinator, announced that any youth in the third supervisorial district (South Marin) who is interested in joining the commission should contact him in Room 163 of the Hall of Justice.

Interested applicants will be interviewed at the next meeting of the youth commission on Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. in the Catholic Social Services Office, 179 Los Ranchitos Road, Terra Linda.

I-J In Error On School Report

The Independent-Journal erred in its report last Tuesday of the previous night's meeting of the Novato Unified School District board when the I-J said that foreign language teachers had asserted they should not have to teach English.

Actually, Simone MacKinnon, foreign language and English teacher, read a letter from teachers urging the district board to hire an additional English teacher in order to relieve foreign language feachers of some of their English classes in order to be able to devote more time to foreign languages.

There was no desire, the teachers indicated, to give up entirely their teaching of English.

Judge Who Ordered Integration Loses

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Alfred E. Gitelson, who ordered Los Angeles city schools integrated this year, lost his bid for reelection Tuesday.

In unofficial returns, Gitelson trailed attorney William Kennedy 55 per cent to 45 per cent.

In a 163-page opinion handed down in February, Gitelson found the nation's second largest school district had deliberately perpetuated segregation of its 675,000 students through policies on school construction and boundaries.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Court Upholds Schools' Control Of Publications

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The San Juan School District Student Union recently called on the board of that Sacramento County district to permit distribution on campus of any literature which is not obscene or libelous.

In Marin County, a student-faculty group called the San Rafael High School Student-Teacher Coalition sought to have board policies include blanket permission for distributing literature on campus.

Similar demands are popping up in other school districts throughout California. In each case, the proponents of uncontrolled distribution of underground newspapers and other material claim that a federal court has held it is unconstitutional for a school board to restrict what is circulated at the schools.

THE COURT decision they cite, however, did not do that at all. It reiterated no fewer than eight times that a school boards does have authority to place restrictions on campus distribution of printed matter.

The case was that of Edward P. Rowe vs. Campbell High School District in Santa Clara County. It attacked sections 9012 and 9013 of the California Education Code as violating the First Amendment.

Section 9012 says: "Except with respect to junior colleges, no publication of a sectarian, partisan, or denominational character shall be distributed, displayed, or used for sectarian, partisan, or denominational purposes on school premises . . ."

Section 9013 says: "No bulletin, circular, publication, or article of any character, whose purpose is to spread propaganda, shall be distributed or displayed to anyone, or suffered to be distributed or displayed to anyone, for propaganda purposes on the school premises during school hours or within one hour before the time of opening or within one hour after the closing of the school . . ."

THE THREE-JUDGE U. S. District Court for the Northern District of California held the sections are unconstitutional because "the scope of their prohibition is impermissibly broad" and Section 9013 is too vague, making no attempt to define what is propaganda.

The decision sad that the constitutional guarantee of free speech "applies within schools; subject of course to the 'special characteristics' of those institutions."

It quoted from another federal court decision (Tinker vs. Des Moines School District): "Reasonable time, place and manner regulations regarding expression of ideas orally or in writing are permissible, as they are in any other public institutional or facility."

Further, it said: "Standards of free speech for students in school are not identical with those of adults."

IT WENT ON: "We believe that a scheme of prior restraints, subject to appropriate safeguards, may be applied . . ."

Attempting to spell out what restrictions might be included, it said: "Littering can be prohibited and punished; the time, place and manner of distribution may be controlled. As to disruption caused by advocacy of violation of school rules, this may be prohibited, and like obscenity, may be part of a prior restraint scheme."

In another place, it emphasized: "All that Tinker and the other cases cited herein say is that school officials must show a specific and substantial justification in order to limit students' First Amendment rights."

FINALLY, to make sure there could be no mistake of its meaning, the court, far from saying the district must permit uncontrolled distribution, instead directed the district to present within 90 days a proposed regulation for court review.

It would pay school administrators and board members faced with demands for uncontrolled distribution of underground newspapers and other such material to read the full decision.

Indecent Exposure Case Is Reported

A Larkspur woman told police Monday a man between 50 and 60 years of age exposed himself to her as she was leaving her Cane Street apartment at 8 p.m.

Officers said today the man was described as heavy set, five feet, nine inches tall and wearing dark pants and white shoes.

HERE'S A COMPROMISE!

Looking for a home in a top area, with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, a fun family room, utility room, level front and rear patios AND a Bay view? Finding that for this type and quality of home the prices are astronomical? Here's the reason this home can be bought so reasonably — highway noise. Most of the problem has been solved, however, by a wrap-around, glass-enclosed deck. Consider it — a minor annoyance in return for so much quality living. $41,900.

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (UPI) —Initiative 256, a grassroots attempt to save the environment from no-deposit, no-return containers, was "trounced by big money interests and false advertising," according to the professor who started the drive.

Robert H. Keller, Jr., who began the project in a classroom at Western Washington State College, said Tuesday night he was reluctant to make a similar try in the future.

Fatal Mistake: Young Soldier Forgets Malaria Suppressants

Van Dellen

Our servicemen in Viet Nam take antimalarial drugs to suppress the disease. These products prevent symptoms from developing and when taken over a long period may eliminate some infections. Suppressants (chloroquine or amodiaquine) are usually taken before arrival in malarious areas and in weekly doses thereafter. The drugs must also be continued on leaving the area.

A 21-year-old serviceman returned to the United States for his father's funeral. According to report in Morbidity and Mortality, he did not bring his suppressant drugs with him. Three days later he developed chills, fever and weakness. The symptoms persisted, and the physician he consulted told him he had flu.

TEN DAYS later the man was hospitalized and tests showed that he had falciparum-type malaria. This form of the disease may be fatal if treatment is delayed or is inadequate. A few days later this man died.

P. falciparum caused eight fatalities in the United States last year. Almost 95 per cent of all cases of malaria reported in this country involve miliary personnel, but of the 1969 fatalities only 3 were Viet Nam veterans. Four of the civilians who died from malaria acquired it in Africa. The fifth civilian developed the disease after receiving a blood transfusion from a person probably infected in Viet Nam. This is why the Red Cross does not accept blood from ex-servicemen.

NONE OF the civilians who died had received antimalarial drugs. There were frequent delays in making the diagnosis because malaria is unusual among nonmilitary personnel and is not suspected during the early days of the illness. The lesson that we must learn is the need for suppressant drugs going into malarious areas. In addition, physicians should suspect the disease whenever patients develop an illness with fever after recent travel abroad or a transfusion.

PAIN OF PLEURISY

REPLY

Pleurisy is difficult to cure when it comes and goes in this way. The disorder usually follows a cold and is more noticeable when the weather is damp. Avoid these situations and your pleural pain will occur less frequently. Recurring bouts of pain in this area are more likely to stem from gas or spasm of the colon under the diaphram.

INSULIN NOT ADDICTIVE

Mrs. V.K. writes: Can the insulin used by diabetics become habit forming? My husband has taken insulin for years and although he has had no problems, I wondered if there was any possibility of his becoming addicted to it.

REPLY

There is no danger of developing addiction to insulin because the product is a hormone, not a narcotic. On the other hand, the diabetic is dependent upon insulin to survive.

GLOOMY DAYS

H.N. writes: On gloomy days I get a headache and feel depressed, drowsy, and irritable. Is there any remedy for this unpleasant condition?

REPLY

Weather has this effect on some people. There is no need for concern so long as the cause is known. Plan to do pleasant things on these days that take your mind off the weather.

Today's Health Hint — Children should not be allowed to spend hours in front of the television.

Prosecution Introduces I-J Pictures

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Pictures showing the paint-spattered exterior of the Independent-Journal and a damaged newspaper delivery truck outside the plant were shown today to a jury in Solano County Superior Court.

The vandalism was committed early Feb. 14 by a chanting group of pickets which had gathered at the I-J for a rally in support of striking printers.

The photos were introduced by the prosecution at the trial of seven men accused of 36 felonies and misdemeanors during the demonstration, which later turned into a violent confrontation with police.

San Rafael police officer Charles Brobeck, who observed the violence from a balcony of the Rafael Theater on Julia Street, identified the pictures but was not allowed to describe how the vandalism occurred. This was in complience with an earlier order by Judge William E. Jensen restricting his testimony.

Brobeck is the second prosecution witness in the 11-day-old trial.

Farewell Dinner For Prevo Set

Randall M. Prevo, former manager of the Marin County Employees Association, will be honored at a farewell dinner Friday night at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

The county employees will also welcome their new manager, Francis J. O'Connell, who took over the post last month.

A no-host cocktail hour from 5 to 7 p.m. will be followed by dinner.

Prevo, manager for more than two years, resigned on Sept. 1 to become personnel director in Napa County.

Agnes Fanning of the department of public social services is chairman of the dinner committee.

Evidence In Contempt Case Is Being Heard

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal judge yesterday began accepting evidence against four labor union locals charged with civil and criminal contempt of court in connection with San Francisco Typographical Union 21's strike against the Independent-Journal.

Judge William T. Sweigert of U.S. District Court earlier yesterday denied a series of defense motions and began the criminal contempt proceedings.

The typographical union, Teamsters locals 70 of Oakland and 85 of San Francisco and International Longshoremen's Union 10 of San Francisco and several of their officers are accused by the National Labor Relations Borad of illegal secondary boycott activity arimed at forcing neutral employers to cease doing business with the I-J.

The NLRB charges the boycott activity was in contempt of two injunctions previously issued by Sweigert.

Yesterday, two San Rafael police officers, representatives of two Marin supermarkets and I-J photographer Bob Hax testified as to picket activity at Marin businesses.

Sweigert took under submission defense objections to portions of affidavits of Richard A. Douglas, chief criminal investigator with the San Rafael Police Department, and police Sgt. Henry W. Ingeversen. Defense attorneys said union officials with whom the two officers talked were not informed of their constitutional rights.

John B. Tarrantino, vice president of Petrini's Meat Co. of Greenbrae, and Earnest Pacioni, store manager of Mayfair Greenbrae, and Earnest Pacioni, store manager of Mayfair Markets in San Rafael, both testified to alleged picket activity around their stores.

Hax testified about his affidavit and pictures he took of picket activity at the Lucky Store in Fairfax Oct. 12.

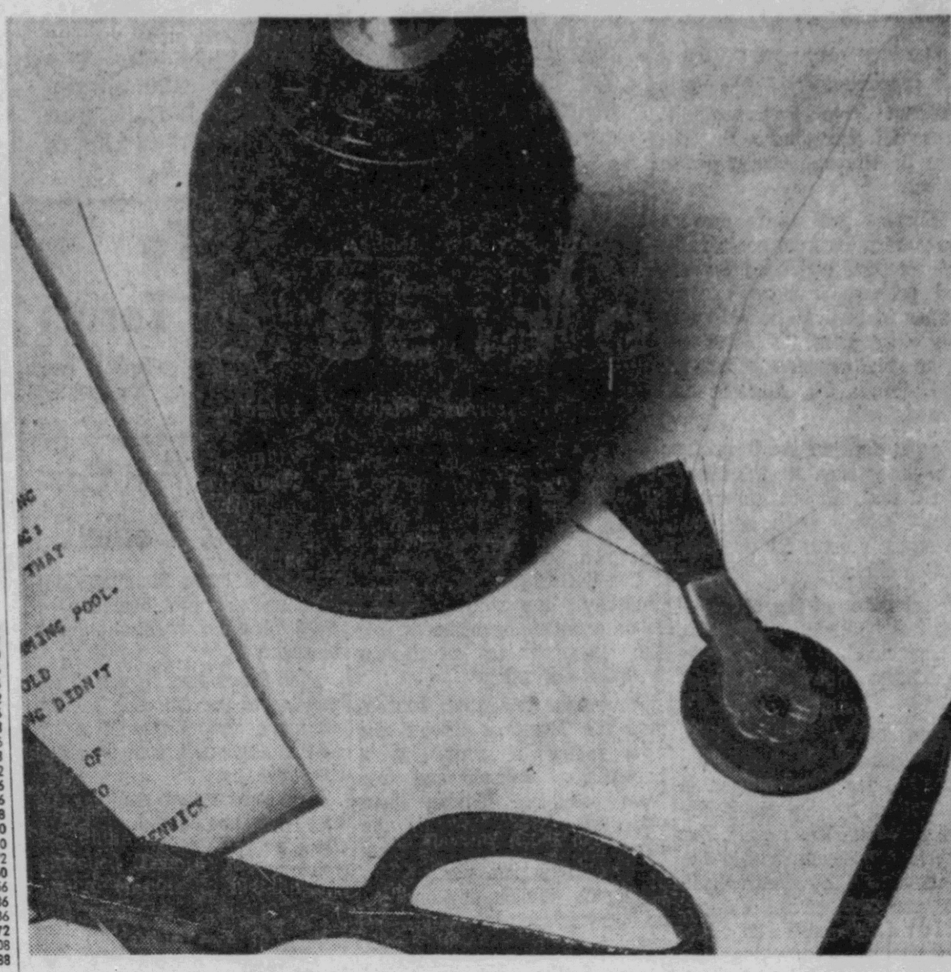
Prior to beginning the hearing of evidence yesterday, Sweigert denied defense motions to set aside records of service, to give the unions a jury trial, to grant the unions a continuance and to dismiss the charges of criminal civil intent.

In response to a defense request for severence of the criminal and civil proceedings, the judge ruled the criminal proceeding would be held first, but with the understanding that evidence submitted in the criminal proceeding would not have to be resubmitted for the civil hearing.

The criminal hearing will continue tomorrow.

Army Explosives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hercules, Inc., has obtained a $23 million addition to an Army contract to operate the Radford, Va., explosives and propellants plant.



By tomorrow the world will have changed . . .

Between today and tomorrow news which is unexpected and unforeseen will change YOU . . . your attitudes, your values, perhaps even your personal life. For all of us live on a turning world, on the very threshold - second by second - of the future.

We at the I-J can't know what the news will be but we DO know it will happen . . . and on a thousand fronts.

Which explains why we use the enormous "nervous system" of United Press International and the eyes and ears of its 6,000 reporters to keep us - and keep you - in sensitive touch with every country in the world.

Strange thing is that this vast network of words and wire is almost instantly connected to our newsroom in San Rafael. And even UPI's electronic magic which sends us photographs by tiny impulses over the wire.

The world will change but news of these "new" events will as inevitably reach us in time to reach you in every evening's I-J.

The point then, is that the strange and complex world of "what hasn't yet happened" will be reported to you when it does. The UPI and the I-J have their nerves ready . . . and plenty of paper for tomorrow.

Target Date For Rubella Shots Nears

Marin County health and school officials are toiling like military strategists planning maneuvers to prepare for a month-long campaign against rubella or German measles.

The target is at least 40,000 of the approximately 50,000 Marin children from 1 through 11 years old, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Ultimate goal is to prevent the youngsters from contracting the common childhood disease and passing it along to any women in their households who may be pregnant. Rubella is one of the chief cripplers of unborn children, Dr. Albrecht explained.

Target date for the campaign to begin is Nov. 16, the health official said. All but two school district boards have approved use of the schools for the innoculation clinics.

Exact dates of the clinics in each neighborhood school will be announced as soon as they are firmly set, Dr. Albrecht said.

Marin County officials are using a different plan from the mass, one-day effort staged in mid-October by five other Bay Area Counties. The reason, Dr. Albrecht explained, is that the one-day clinics attracted only 18 to 20 per cent of the eligible children. Hawaii and other areas that used campaigns obtained a much better percentage, the doctor said.

The innoculations are free to the recipients, although donations of up to one dollar each will be welcomed, Dr. Albrecht said. The vaccine is being furnished by the federal government; part of the staffing costs are paid through a new state law, and private Marin County groups are donating some labor and supplies.

Oregon harvested 9.1 billion board feet of lumber in 1969.

COMPUTER IN FRESNO DOES IT ONCE AGAIN

FRESNO (UPI) — Fresno County's vote counting computer did it again Tuesday.

For the third time in two years, the computer faltered, forcing a delay in ballot counting.

But this time the foulup was not as serious as the 96-hour delay in last June's primary and a 20-hour delay in 1968.

County Elections Supervisor Richard Jansen said Tuesday's 90-minute delay was caused by a key punching problem. The delay came shortly after absentee ballots were counted. It delayed subsequent counting of the precinct for two hours after the polls closed.

Soviets In No Hurry To Name Nuclear Arms Terms

HELSINKI (UPI) — Russia can be expected to hold back for some time before naming her terms for agreement with the United States on definitive curbs of nuclear weapons, diplomatic sources said today.

The Soviets returned to the resumed Strategic Arms Limitation TALKS (SALT) in Helsinki Tuesday, apparently still serious about doing business with the United States on nuclear weapons limitations.

American delegation sources said the Russians started the new round of SALT in a businesslike manner and free from polemics, leaving them with the impression that the Kremlin remains "serious about doing business here."

But the Soviets appeared in no hurry to spell out their ideas about the scope and nature of any concrete arrangements with the United States on limiting strategic arms.

The United States presented to the Russians a package last July outlining plans for numerical limitation of land and sea based rockets and of antiballistic missiles (ABMs). The Americans evidently expected to receive by now the Soviet response or counter proposals, as a basis for the start of concrete negotiations.

Instead the Russians appeared to have chosen to wait and see, possibly to seek more "clarification" of American intentions and also to mark time for strategic and political considerations.

Request For Car Wash Is Denied

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night denied a request for a car wash, citing lack of space.

Ples Crews had requested expansion of the Hancock service station at 296 Wilson Street to add a single-unit coin operated car wash.

The commission said it felt there was not enough space on the site for the car wash.

Antiwar Forces Win On Two Vote Fronts

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Antiwar forces won in a city and county and lost one in a state in the Tuesday elections.

San Francisco voters narrowly approved a city ballot measure calling for an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Marin County voters gave their so-called "peace measure" 54 per cent approval, 39,940 voters in favor and 33,827 opposed to the request that withdrawal of all U. S. military forces be completed by next June 30.

The Massachusetts electorate, given a referendum choice among "victory," "immediate withdrawal" and "withdrawal in accordance with a planned schedule," chose President Nixon's formula for a phased pullout.

In the San Francisco voting, with 99.75 per cent of the ballots counted, the cease-fire proposition — Proposition J — was ahead by 106,005 to 101,083.

With 51 per cent of the precincts counted in Massachusetts, the administration formula led by 392,866 to 247,216 for immediate withdrawal and 104,718 for the win-the-war proposition.

The San Francisco proposal said:

"Declaration of policy: It is the policy of the people of the city and county of San Francisco that there be an immediate cease-fire and immediate withdrawal of all U. S. troops from Vietnam so that the Vietnamese people can settle their own problems."

Edward J. Farley, who headed a committee favoring the proposition, called the outcome a "fantastic victory for the American people."

"It was a big win for the people and a smashing defeat for President Nixon's cynical attempts to fool people that he is ending the war," Farley added.

Injuries Minor In Auto Crash

Two young women, injured yesterday in a two-car accident on the Marina approach to the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, were to see their own doctors for unspecified minor injuries.

The California Highway Patrol identified them as Rosiland C. Christiansen, 26, of Daly City, and Annie Lew, 22, of San Francisco.

Officers said their car, northbound on Marina Drive at 10:50 p.m., collided with one driven by James C. Eschen, 48, of 34 Glenwood Avenue, Ross.

Juvenile Booked For Car Theft

A San Rafael youth was booked at Marin County Juvenile Hall yesterday on suspicion of car theft after he allegedly wrecked a stolen car on Highway 37 in Sonoma County.

San Rafael police said Donald Lee Trombley, 15, of 78 Novato Street, Apt. 18, was arrested by the California Highway Patrol after the car overturned at about 3:10 p.m.

The car, owned by Rockey M. Poole of 181 Scenic Avenue, San Anselmo, was stolen between 8 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. from a city parking lot in the 700 block of Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael.

Fairfax Boy, 7, Is Fair From Accident

A 7-year-old Fairfax boy was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion suffered when he fell from his bicycle yesterday.

Fairfax police said Todd Sheets of 42 Pine Drive fell in the 200 block of Cascade Drive at about 2:50 p.m.

Collective Bargaining Issues Becoming More Complicated

FRESNO (UPI) — The issues of wages and hours have given way to more complicated problems as the art of collective bargaining progresses, a federal mediation official says.

Lowell M. McGinnis, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said collective bargaining issues were "changing dramatically and will continue to do so in the years ahead."

He cited as some of the more complicated issues facing the negotiators the question of racial composition of the work force, pollution, dental plans and psychiatric help.

McGinnis said workers are as militant as they've ever been.

"We are seeing that even when there's an agreement at the bargaining table about 12 per cent is being rejected by the rank and file."

Parisians Invented Air Mail During Paris Siege

PARIS (UPI)—A hundred years ago this autumn the Prussian army held Paris under siege, successfully pinching off all ground communications.

But this didn't stop the enterprising Parisians. They took to the skies—inventing air mail and microfilmed letters long before the first airplane.

The story, a tale of ingenuity and derring-do, began Sept. 18, 1870, at 3 p.m., when the last regular mail car left the old Montparnasse railroad station. The Prussians, after smashing the French armies at Sedan and Metz, were at the gates of the fortified city. Emperor Napoleon III was a prisoner.

The Parisians, who declared a republic in face of the national disaster, held on. The government fled to Tours and later to Bordeaux. The Post Office tackled the job of keeping communications flowing between Paris and the rest of the country, despite the Prussian blockade.

First they tried balloons—thus inventing the air mail—to get news and mail in and out of the capital. It worked fine from Paris to the provinces, but balloons at the mercy of wind and weather often fell into enemy hands on the return journey.

The balloons were manned by sailors—the only servicemen at the time with a head for heights—who often piloted their frail craft through withering gunfire at low altitude and agonizingly slow speed.

To solve the problem of incoming mail, Post Office engineers secretly sank a cable in the bed of the Seine passing through enemy lines. The Prussians found it and cut it.

The next idea was the "spheres of Moulins"—circular zinc containers laden with mail which sank to the bottom of the Seine and were supposed to be dragged along the bottom by the current until they reached nets inside Paris.

Few of these got through and most were lost for years. One was dredged up from the mud this year, containing mail to Parisians long since dead.

Finally at the insistence of Rene Dagron, a Parisian photographer who had invented microfilm 11 years earlier but had not yet found a use for it, they created the microfilmed letter. It was carried by pigeon—and thus became the "pigeongramme."

Every time a balloon left Paris for the provinces, sailing safely over Prussian lines with passengers and mail, there was also a crate of homing pigeons aboard.

At Tours and Bordeaux the pigeons were fitted with little pouches carrying the official post office stamp and containing strips of microfilmed mail. The birds then were sent flying back to their home loft at Postal Headquarters in the Rue de Grenelle.

In a 100th anniversary exhibition, the Paris Postal Museum is giving the pigeon a place of honor among artifacts of siege mail service. One of the original carriers, preserved and stuffed after death, hovers with outstretched wings over one of its cargoes—144 tiny frames of microfilmed letters about the size of a modern book of matches.

Palestinian 'Reds' Gathering In Paris

By HAROLD KING
Toronto Telegram News Service

Paris is becoming the new European center for Palestinian revolutionaries.

An active organization consisting of 31 students' hostels (including one for Canada) has made its headquarters in the Morocco house of the University City.

The Moroccan students' residence is known as the Ben Barka Pavilion. It was named after Moroccan revolutionary Ben Barka, last seen three years ago when Morocco secret service agents picked him up and hustled him away in broad daylight here.

The Moroccan agents enlisted the help of two French secret service members who acted without authorization.

Ben Barka is believed to have been murdered shortly thereafter in a villa on the eastern edge of the French capital.

The Ben Barka pavilion is a four-story house. The ground floor has reception counters. Most walls are covered with inflammatory posters. The place looks unkempt and has the atmosphere of a besieged camp.

Groups of olive-skinned young men and women lounge around, a mapority of them attired in semihippie duds and dark sunglasses.

One door in the Ben Barka house is clearly marked "press office" — but any pale-skin European who approaches it is regarded with heavy suspicion.

The "press office" churns out stacks of pamphlets that call for war against imperialism, capitalism, and their reactionary agents.

The pamphlets carry this mention: "Printed by the special printing works of Vincennes, 12 Route de la Tourelle." This turns out to be a new university that has become a notorious fortress for French left-wing extremist professors and students.

Thus the revolutionary propaganda appears to be produced at the expense of the French taxpayer.

Vital To Government

Without popular education no government which rests on popular action can long endure; the people must be schooled in the knowledge and if possible in the virtues upon which the maintenance and success of free institutions depend. — Woodrow Wilson

Trophies Of Headhunters Still Around

By MAX VANZI

SIBU, Malaysia (UPI) —The headhunters of Borneo are gone but their trophies linger on as honored household decorations.

The lively people of the Iban tribe are proud of those ancestors of theirs who returned from battle with the heads of their enemies impaled on sticks.

They're so proud, in fact, they have preserved the grisly mementoes for as long as 100 years. Human skulls blackened with age hang from the rafters of the Iban longhouses along the Rejang River in Sarawak, Malaysia's Borneo state.

The longhouses closest to Sibu at the mouth of the Rejang are about 12 miles upstream. Ibans shy away from having their womenfolk photographed in their natural topless dress. But they openly and proudly preserve the ancient tradition of skulltending.

At the Igan Brasu longhouse, five skulls hang from the ceiling year around, except when taken down during an annual skull-feeding festival.

(A suggestion that they be removed from where they hang in darkness just long enough to be photographed was turned down on the grounds that anyone who moves them out of season will have his hands cut off.)

One longhouse Iban who speaks English, Jonathon Boon, 27, said that at festival time all the residents of the house gather around and the head man ceremoniously unhinges the skulls and places them on the floor.

Amid much merrymaking, he said, bottles of native rice wine and Scotch whisky are uncorked. The contents are poured into the portion of the skulls where an enemy's mouth used to be. Rice and bananas are also fed to the skulls.

While Boon, a logger in Sarawak's jungle timber industry, explained the ceremony, gales of laughter rang through the room from a dozen women and children.

"They know the outside world doesn't do this (with the skulls) so they laugh because they think you must think it is very funny," Boon said.

Boon said the skulls are at least a century old and were taken in a battle between the Ibans and another tribe.

The skulls hang in the longhouse vestibule with the stems of dead plants protruding from them. Beneath each jaw is suspended a porcelain bowl filled with gray rice grains.

"They must be fed and honored all year," he said.

EXAMINES SKULLS — UPI reporter Max Vanzi examines 100-year-old skulls handing from the ceiling of a longhouse at Igan Brasu, close to the port city of Sibu in Borneo's Sarawak state. (UPI Telephoto)

Siren Of The Silent Film Era Takes Backward Look

LONDON (UPI) — Dagmar Godowsky says all those who think the film stars of the silent era look very funny grimacing and gesturing from the screen ought to try this test: turn off the sound on the television net and try to guess what's going on from the action alone.

She says it isn't easy; the tube is mostly populated by wax figures striking attitudes that mean very little without the words. But in the days of, say, Rudolph Valentino, the most famous of all the lovers of the silent screen, there was no mistaking what was happening before the eyes of the audience.

"Love, hatred, jealousy, grief, happiness or any other emotion — it all had to be conveyed in pantomime," she said. "And pantomime is the true essence of good acting."

Madame Godowsky is not exactly unbiased in this judgment. She was a leading lady of the great Valentino. Once one of the most beautiful girls of her time she is now a woman of a certain age and, alas, a certain weight. But what the years may have stolen in beauty they have replaced with charm and wit.

Recently she came to London from her New York home to work on the second volume of her memoirs and perhaps find what has eluded her for decades—a workable diet. Her last attempt to reduce looked promising at first when she had the idea of pasting a photograph of the dazzling creature she once was over the door of her refrigerator.

It didn't help. Nothing has since a long ago operation when, she says, "I lost an appendix and gained a ton."

Since she is between diets Mme. Godowsky had no conscience about a brunch that included herrings in sour cream and scrambled eggs and salami. And, happily replete, she said she was thinking in her new book of making the point that the stars of the silent screen were more beautiful than the stars of the present day cinema.

"I don't know why it is," she said. "Maybe it's because we were chosen for beauty and the standards were more classic. I know it sounds conceited but when I was in Amsterdam as a girl they had to get police to protect me. This was before I was in films. Barbara La Marr, Corinne Griffiths, Margaret-Livingstone, Dolores del Rio—you don't see beauty like that on the screen today."

Mme. Godowsky is used to a glazed look in the eyes of interviewers as the names of the great, living and dead, trip from her lips.

It isn't name-dropping in her case. She was the daughter of a famous figure in music, Leopold Godowsky, pianist, teacher and composer. To their homes in Vienna and New York came "uncle" Franz Lehar, Serge Prokofiev, Gustave Mahler, Thomas Mann and Victor Herbert, a moon-faced man humming his pretty melodies to himself. Emperor Franz Joseph handled her on his knee. The children down the block were David and Nelson Rockefeller.

A vivid and striking brunette with a heart-shaped face and dark, glowing eyes, she found life too exciting for permanent relationships. Asked how many husbands she has had she smiles: "Two of my own and several of my friends." She was courted by Enrico Caruso, the great tenor; Charles Chaplin, the great comedian, Jascha Heifetz, the great violinist and all the millionaire playboys worth the name.

Caruso was much older than she.

"I always loved being with older people," said Mme. Godowsky. "Now they're so hard to find."

City Answering Service Popular

FRANKFURT, GERMANY (GF) — A unique city hall phone answering service for local citizen queries is giving Frankfurters a feeling of more direct participation in their city's government.

Launched a year ago, the service enables burghers to call city hall with any community questions they have. And currently, the young lady civil servant Barbara Schmidt assigned to the job is answering queries from about 80 of Frankfurt's 670,000 citizens everyday.

As further proof of city hall's concern about citizens' problems, Frankfurt Lord Mayor Walter Moeller recently shouldered the answering service himself an entire day. There was only one piece of information the mayor declined to give when callers asked: namely, to reveal his identity.

Series Hasn't Upset The Religious Ranks

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—When the British Broadcasting Corporation first heard the outline of a proposed new television series there was much fluttering in the executive suite. A story poking fun —albeit affectionate fun —at religious attitudes?

The basic plot, as they heard it, did little to reassure the brass: The hero was to be a 40-year-old Irish virgin in London determined to graduate from that class with the help of his willing Protestant secretary, Miss Argyll. Sternly pointing to the path of virtue week after week would be his devout mother, Mrs. Kennefick, determined to keep him pure with the help of a vast array of plaster saints.

Mrs. Kennefick would not be alone in her crusade. She would have the help of her priestly brother, Father Patrick, and cousin Edna, whose favorite reading would be a book titled, "100 Ways to Insult a Protestant."

At this point the BBC might have said no. But with the courage in programming that has helped give Britain among the finest television in Europe, they gave the series a go-ahead, if a subdued one. There was a minimum of publicity, yet simply by word of mouth audiences grew and grew until "Me Mammy," as the series was named, was high in the ratings when its second season recently ended.

Producer James Gilbert now has the third season in preparation and in an interview he explained how the show that some said couldn't be done not only came into being but became "hugely popular" even in Dublin where giant aerials pick up the programs. It is also arousing some interest in other places except, of course, the apprehensive United States.

"We've had virtually no protests from Catholics or others," Gilbert said. "It has proved our theory that when you put fun into a situation you tend to take heat out of it."

The BBC insisted on a little insurance, however. For the starring role of Bunjy Kennefick they chose a leading Irish actor, Milo O'Shea. Another distinguished Irish actor, Ray McAnally, plays Father Patrick. Anna Manahan, also Irish and nominated for a Tony when she appeared on Broadway in Brian Friel's "Lovers," is Mrs. Kennefick. And Cousin Edna is still another well known Irish actor, David Kelly.

All of these are in addition, practicing Catholics and so is author Hugh Leonard. Miss Argyll is played by one of Britain's better comediennes, Yootha Joyce.

"If, as happened from time to time, something in the script overstepped the line the cast pointed it out and it was changed," Gilbert said. "McAnally was trained for the priesthood, for example. Naturally we did not want to offend Roman Catholics any more than we do any religion. But there are funny things to comment on in all of them.

"Just before the series was about to premiere the whole Irish scene blew up. We sent two of the most controversial tapes to Belfast and they were played to Catholics and Protestants.

The comment was that something like it should have been done years ago."

Even then the BBC was worried and sneaked the series out at the late hour here of 10 p.m. Public reaction was so favorable it was soon elevated to the prime time.

Afficionados of "Me Mammy" have come to look for the props which provide so many visual laughs. In one segment the BBC workshop provided a "Build Your Own Atrocity Kit"; in another a monopoly-type game of papal preferment named "Popopoly."

"ME MAMMY" STARS — Milo O'Shea and Yootha Joyce, stars of a new British satire television series — "Me Mammy" — are shown from a recent scene. The story pokes fun — albeit affectionate fun — at religion. (UPI Telephoto)

Dope Sellers Ply Wares Despite War

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

BEIRUT (UPI)—Neither police nor laws nor civil wars can stop the hashish (marijuana) smugglers of the Middle East on their appointed rounds.

"In fact," said one Lebanese familiar with the hash trade, "War is good for the smugglers. It keeps the police and army distracted."

According to sources here, the hashish continued to flow along smugglers' routes through Jordan during the civil war in September, even when all other traffic was stopped. Most of the smugglers are Bedouins who know the desert and know how to avoid main highways and tank battles.

Some of the world's best hashish is grown in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, near the fabled ruins of Baalbek. There are two ways of getting it to the outside world.

The first is by boat from the Lebanese coastline to the Gaza Strip and thence to Egypt. Each boat carries four to eight tons.

The other route is over the Lebanese mountains into Syria, south across the desert into Jordan and then across the Israeli-occupied Sinai peninsula to Egypt. Trucks, mules or camels usrally carry the freight, which is passed from smuggler to smuggler along the route.

The traffic flows smoothly, despite genuinely tough police measures in Lebanon, Syria, Israel and Egypt. The desert is just too big and the smugglers too wily for authorities to catch much of the hashish as it passes through. Beirut coffeehouse gossip has it that some relatively high-level protection in Jordan makes life easier for the cameldrivers who carry the weed through that nation.

At each step of the road, the price of hashish goes up —from the 120 Lebanese pounds ($37) per kilogram (2.2 pounds) which the Lebanes farmer gets from his local buyer, to the 1,000 Lebanese pounds ($312) which it fetches on the Cairo market, according to sorrces here. This is a profit of nearly 1,000 per cent —and the price can easily increase another 1,000 per cent by the time it reaches the individual customer in the west.

Even at the low rates prevailing here, hashish growing means an income of 15 million Lebanese pounds ($4.7 million) for the Lebanese economy each year.

For the individual farmer, it's just as important.

"Eighty per cent of the peasants in the north work in hashish," said Bashir Kairouz, who used to represent Baalbek in Parliament. "These people want to be able to raise their children properly and send them to schools. The only children you find in schools are the ones whose parents work in hashish."

Kairouz said the government tried to discourage hashish growing by promoting sunflower seeds instead. But profit fell by two-thirds, he said, and profits from wheat are even less —only one-seventh that of hashish.

Nearly 100 foreigners are in jail here now on charges involving hashish but the growers, for the most part, are unmolested.

"I feel," Kairouz said, 'that as long as the government does not help our region and find new resources for the people to live, hashish planting will continue.

"Besides, few Lebanese actually smoke it, and it need not be smoked. It can be used for other things —for example, it makes excellent bird food."

Love Triumphs Over East-West Division

BERLIN, GERMANY (GF) — German division is not conducive to sweet amor. In fact, it does its best, or so it seems, to keep West German "Romeos" from getting together with their East German "Juliets." But love itself, at least sometimes, seems to have a way of averting the ultimate tragedy.

Hamburg sales director Peter Pickel, 31, fell in love with 24-year-old East German mapmaker Monika Friedrich seven years ago. Monika is from the Thuringian town of Gera, where Peter got to know her 13 years ago, four years before the Communists put up the Berlin Wall.

The love affair between Peter and Monika blossomed at first with the approval of Communist officials. They permitted Peter to meet his Juliet in East Berlin annually.

Peter was fond of his professional career in Hamburg. He wanted Monika to join him there. She was more than willing — a child in the meantime was an additional incentive. But Red officials wouldn't budge.

For seven years, Peter tried all the tricks devised, but to no avail. At last, he threatened to expose the East German indifference to love to Western news media, if the Communists didn't come through. The response was a ban of the annual trips he'd been making to Communist East Berlin to see his Monika.

It was May of this year — the month that West German Chancellor Willy Brandt met with his East German counterpart Willi Stoph, that an amourous dream finally came true. The East Germans, apparently intent on at least some show of goodwill came through with approval for Monika to move to the West.

Recently, she arrived at West Germany's Wolfsburg railroad station with son Heiko, the "all-German" child, to join the man of her life. Peter was waiting with open arms and not a small touch of gratefulness.

In one case, at least, German division had given amnesty to amor.

NEW STYLE FORE AND AFT

Usual Music Teacher Is A Woman Pianist

The typical private music teacher is a married woman age 36 to 55, who lives in a town with an under-50,000 population and who is a virtuoso on the piano. At least this is the "model" as seen from a nation-wide survey conducted by a group comprised largely of private teachers.

Of the hundreds of music teachers who participated in the study, 80 per cent are women. Almost 55 percent have a college or conservatory degree. Piano is the main teaching instrument of 86 percent.

Evidently, music is the language of true love, or patience, or both. Only 3.7 percent of those answering the quiz are divorced.

German Writes Wild West Novels For Fun

BREMEN, GERMANY (GF) — When West German Lt. Col. Hans Uwe Wilken comes home from duty, the best part of his workday is just b e g i n n i n g. Wilkne, who lives near Bremen, writes wild west novels a large share of his off-duty time. And not only for his own amusement.

To date, he's authored over 100 with a total printing of 20 million volumes. Millions of Germans, Belgians, Norwegians and Brazilians are avid readers of Wilken's shoot-'em-up westerns.

The 33-year-old army officer wrote his first book at the age of 16 and it was published by a Viennese book compnay. Now nearly everyone of his works appears in as many as three languages.

Wilken's formula is pretty simple. He strives to make his settings and action as realistic as possible by studying documents and collecting historical information from U.S. universities and the America House and occasionally makes trips across the Atlantic, including one military tour to El Paso, Texas.

"The original settings in my books are accurate down to the finest details," says Wilken. "Once I have them down in my mind, the stories seem to roll out by themselves."

Some were content to sit in the aisles to hear witness after witness speak successfully against ordinances aimed at communes and homes on wheels.

College Bonds Defeated

Marin voters yesterday elected a new Republican senator and a new judge, and reelected all but one of nine incumbents.

A junior college bond issue lost, but a water bond issue passed, as did a countywide measure calling for complete withdrawal of all U. S. forces from Southeast Asia by next June 30.

78,736 BALLOTS

A total of 78,736 voters balloted, just over 77 per cent of the 102,003 registered in the county. Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, had predicted an 83 per cent turnout, but heavy afternoon rain cut into the usual swell in voting at the end of working hours.

Meyer's operation of the election was flawless, and all ballots were counted by 11:25 p.m., more than an hour faster than the previous record set in the June primary.

The county's new Burroughs computer system spun out its count so fast that Meyer put a half-dozen of the company's technicians to work on the ballot processing board across the hall to speed the feeding of punch cards into the computer.

BEHR, BENNETT

Elected as state senator was Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, who racked up a strong vote against his opponents, Democrat Michael Peevey of San Rafael and Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, American Independent nominee.

Voters Reject Prop. 18 On Road Funds

LOS ANGELES (UPI)-California voters Tuesday rejected Proposition 18, the controversial ballot measure to spend state highway construction funds for smog research and public transit systems.

The measure was defeated 2,546,203 to 2,171,907 on the basis of returns from 82 per cent of the 21,700 total precincts statewide.

The proposal, bitterly opposed by the "highway lobby," jumped off to a fast lead toward passage as ballots from Tuesday's general election were counted but the margin fell off drastically and finally disappeared as more returns were tallied during the night.

Meantime , voters rejected several other propositions including one authorizing the Legislature to approve school finance bills in advance of the state budget bill. The constitution requires that the budget be approved before any appropriation bills can be passed by the leigslature.

A $250 million bond issue to help finance construction and improvement of local sewage treatment works and a separate $60 million bond issue for development of recreation sites along facilities of the State Water Project sailed to easy approval. They were Propositions 1 and 20, respectively.

Proposition 18, which cleared the Legislature after an agonizing fight, proposed tapping the state highway for the first time and spending some of its contents for smog control research and development of mass public transportation such as rapid transit systems.

A local government could — subject to voter approval — spend up to 25 per cent of its share of state highway construction and maintenance funds for public transit. The constitution since 1938 has

Younger Leading; Brown In

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Gov. Ronald Reagan coasted to an easy reelection victory, but fellow former actor George Murphy was defeated in his bid for a second term in the Senate by Democrat John V. Tunney.

And sharing the political spotlight was the upset victory scored by Wilson C. Riles, a Negro, who ousted veteran state Supt. of Public Instruction Dr. Max Rafferty.

With more than 95 per cent of the vote tabulated, Tunney led Murphy by 3,281,655 to 2,714,089. Reagan led Democrat Jess Unruh 3,240,140 to 2,750,297.

Both President Richard Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew had pumped Murphy's election right up to election eve, emphasizing the "law and order" issue in appearances throughout the state.

Murphy declined to concede late Tuesday night, but Tunney claimed victory and told wildly cheering supporters "this election represents a solid, overwhelming rejection of the politics of fear."

"This represents a defeat for the President," he said. "There's no question about that."

It appeared Republican attempts to capitalize politically on the rock throwing demonstration which greeted Nixon at a Murphy campaign rally in San Jose may have backfired.

Murphy placed a strongly worded "law and order" ad in

TOO MANY ORDINANCES

Supervisors To Let Life Styles Stand

By LARRY MOWELL

More than 250 persons, both straight and hip,turned out yesterday to ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors not to pass an ordinance regulating the life styles of Marinites. They went away happy. (Another supervisors story, page 11.)

The board declined to act on proposed ordinances that would have banned communes and mobile dwellings in unincorporated areas. The decision brought applause from the overflow crowd none of whom spoke for the measures.

However, the supervisors served notice that rolling homes and communes that violate existing ordinances can expect a crackdown.

Chairman John F. McInnis ordered the staff to report back on more stringent enforcement of existing ordinances controlling nuisances and fire protection and health code violations.

The move to sidestep the ordinances came after more than two hours of criticism mostly directed at the housing ordinance.

The opposition by about 30 speakers was kicked off by Albert W. Solnit, county planning director after County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said of the housing ordinance, "almost assuredly, it will be litigated."

Solnit said, "The planning department is going to take the position that the multiple occupancy ordinance is a misuse of the police power."

He said the county building codes and state Health and Safety Code contain adequate provisions to abate overcrowding, unsanitary conditions, noise and drugs.

"We have legislation and laws on the books which will curb

Marin's new senator

Marin Voters Boost Behr To Victory

Marin County voters yesterday balloted heavily in favor of Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley for state Senate, giving him the big Marin margin he needed to win in the three-county district.

Behr's victory climaxed a two-year drive for the seat held for the past 20 years by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael. McCarthy did not seek reelection.

Losing to Behr were Democrat Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael and Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, nominee of the American Independent Party.

Behr won with a district-wide margin of 9,047 votes, with 7½,142 gof Behr and 67,095 for runnerup Peevey.

The vote in Marin was Behr, 43,915; Peevey, 29,769, and Smart, 2,219. The approximate percentages were Behr, 58 per cent; Peevey, 39 per cent, and Smart, 3 per cent.

In Napa County, the figures were 14,875 for Behr, 13,753 for Peevey, and 675 for Mrs. Smart. Behr's strong showing in Napa was unexpected, given the county's edge in Democratic registration.

In Solano County, which has

Bennett Off In Marin But Wins Election

Democrat William M. Bennett of Kentfield, former state public utilities commissioner, yesterday was elected to the State Board of Equalization.

He defeated Republican Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo, former Marin County supervisor, for the Third District seat covering 25 Northern California counties, including Marin.

With nearly all returns in, the unofficial count was Bennett, 244,263, Kettenhofen, 224,080, and American Idependent Teresa E. Mortara, 12,317.

In Marin, Kettenhofen had a narrow margin over Bennett, 36,516 to 36,161, the two men splitting the vote in their home county. Mrs. Mortara had 1,808 votes in Marin.

In Sonoma County, the unofficial count was Kettenhofen, 35,083, Bennett 34,005 and Mortara, 1,911.

Bennett will succeed Paul R. Leake, a Woodland newspaper publisher, who didn't seek relection after holding the post for 18 years.

The 52-year-old Bennett and the 53-year-old Kettenhofen waged a vigorous campaign for the $25,000-a-year post.

Bennett charged that large corporations, such as public utilities, railroads, banks and oil and gas companies, had favored tax status and advocated changes in the taxing of large corporate interests.

During the campaign, Gov. Ronald Reagan made several personal appearances for Kettenhofen.

Smallman Defeats Zunino For Judgeship

Atty. Robert A. Smallman of Kentfield yesterday was elected Marin Municipal Court judge in a decisive runoff victory over Ernest C. Zunino of Fairfax, senior deputy district attorney.

Smallman garnered 40,801 votes, 60.58 pr cent of the total, to Zunino's 26,552. He was elected to a six-year term.

The 47-year-old Smallman, a former deputy district attorney and a former deputy county counsel, will succeed Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., who didn't seek reelection.

Smallman and Zunino survived a 13 man field in the June primary election when Zunino was the top vote-getter.

During the campaign Smallman promised to "be a strong

Marin Helps To Reelect Veteran GOP Congressmen

Marin County voters yesterday helped reelect two veteran Republican congressmen, Rep. William S. Mailliard, Sixth District, and Don H. Clausen, First District.

Mailliard, who supported the Nixon's administration's policies in Vietnam, defeated his Democratic challenger, Russell R. Miller, who called for quick withdrawal of troops, by a handy margin.

In Marin the vote was Mailliard, 34,077, representing 54.65 per cent of the county vote, and Miller, 28,276. In San Francisco the vote was Mailliard 62,210 and Miller 55,880.

Mailliard's district includes most of Marin south of Hamilton Air Force Base and the western portion of San Francisco.

Clausen defeated his Democratic challenger, Dr. William M. Kortum, a Petaluma

77 Per Cent Cast Ballots In Sonoma

Sonoma County voters — totaling 76,325 for a 77 per cent turn out — yesterday elected Donald Striepeke as sheriff, Ernest L. Comalli as assessor and Philip L. Joerger as Southern Sonoma Supervisor.

In the race for Southern Sonoma Supervisor, Petaluma City Councilman Joerger maintained an early lead over Richard R. Day and went on to a 1,400 vote winning margin.

The unofficial vote tally gave Joerger 7,302 votes to 5,796 for Day, a Rohnert Park attorney.

Joerger, a businessman, was elected to his second term on the city council in June, 1969. It is expected that the council will appoint someone to fulfill his term through to July 1, 1973.

In his campaign, Joerger stressed the need for independence in local government and advocated the formation of a citizen's advisory committee to meet monthly with the supervi-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Free Of Pier

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Sea Land freighter Panama was pulled free Tuesday after she rammed a concrete wharf at the Port of Oakland's Seventh Street pier.

The Panama had 64 feet of steel plates ripped from the prow and damage was estimated at over $100,000. Water tight compartments kept the ship from sinking.

The ship enroute from Japan was 685 feet long and weighed 17,000 tons. It had 609 containers aboard when she sliced into the pier during a fog Monday.

Missile Fired

VANDENBURG AFB (UPI)—An Air Force Minuteman III rocket was launched Wednesday down the Pacific missile range at 1:05 a.m. from the space and missile test center at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

The 38-ton rocket, the latest model in the Minuteman arsenal, was lofted toward the target zone near the Marshall Islands in the Pacific Ocean.

Dynamite Explosion

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) —A car parked outside the Carson City Nugget was rocked by an explosion Tuesday night.

Sheriff Robert Humphreys said what appears to have been one stick of dynamite was placed either in or near the car, a two-door Thunderbird which was parked on the street at the south side of the casino. It went off about 8 p.m.

"There were no injuries, thank God," said Humphrey.

He said the car suffered very little damage and there was no damage to the building, about 14 feet away.

Humphrey said the owner of the car was contacted, but it is not known if he was a target of the person who set off the dynamite.

Honor To Frost

LONDON (UPI) — Television personality David Frost, 31, received the Order of the British Empire (OBE) Tuesday from Queen Elizabeth in a ceremony at Buckingham Palace. "I'm surprised you are in England today," the Queen told him, in a tongue-in-cheek reference to his busy schedule on both sides of the Atlantic.

Treaty Near

WARSAW (UPI) — The West German and Polish foreign ministers went into detailed negotiations today to smooth over final differences in the text of a goodwill treaty expected to herald diplomatic relations between the two former enemy nations.

West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel and Polish Foreign Minister Stefan Jedrychowski met to resume talks begun Tuesday when both said final recognition of Poland's Oder-Neisse border and Bonn's request for Germans living in Poland to be reunited with their families were the key problems still to be resolved.

Space Session

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Science ministers from 12 European nations and Australia opened two days of talks today to examine U.S. proposals for joint space efforts following the American Apollo moon program.

It was the second conference in less than six months since the United States invited Europe to participate financially and technically in the construction of a 100-man space station, a reusable space shuttle bus and a small space tug.

Free Of Cholera

SEOUL (UPI)—The Health-Social Affairs Ministry declared South Korea free of cholera Tuesday, 87 days after the disease broke out in southern sections of the country. The epidemic struck a total of 206 persons, killing 12.

Cambodians Launch Sweep On Communists

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A large Cambodian government force left the village of Tang Kauk today for a sweep of suspected Communist positions to the east, field officers reported.

Tang Kauk, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh, is where 20,000 government forces have been stalled since mid-September on their drive to Kompong Thom, 28 miles further north.

It was not known if today's sweep, involving several battalions, was the resumption of the government drive to the north. The communist forces which have stalled the drive were reported massed in wooded areas east of the village.

The Communists staged a shelling attack and a ground probe against two positions in the outer ring of Phnom Penh's defenses Tuesday, government spokesmen said today.

A Communist force of undetermined size moved against a government position at Krauch Soeuch 15 miles northeast of the capital, the spokesmen said, but thtre were no casualty reports and few details. Artillery fire was called in against the Communists Tuesday night, the spokesmen said.

Fifteen miles to the southeast, Communist mortar fire harassed a government position near the village of Tuk Khleang. There were no reports of casualties.

In South Vietnam, regional forces militiamen fought two battles seven miles south of Da Nang, the country's second largest city, Tuesday afternoon. They killed 45 Communists and captured 21 others, according to government spokesmen.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu hinted Tuesday night he might not run for re-election in 1971, but today he acted like a campaigner.

Today he took a flying trip to his country's flood-stricken northern provinces. The trip, to last two or three days, was believed to be at least partially political in nature.

Dutch Crime Wave

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Crime in Amsterdam rose from 14,326 cases in the first six months of 1969 to 15,714 cases in the first half of 1970. Thefts accounted for most of the rising crime rate, police said.

Thieu Hints He Wants Replacement

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese President Nugyen Van Thieu hinted Tuesday night he might not run for re-election in 1971. Only hours later he was acting like a campaigner on a tour of flood-devastated northern provinces.

Thieu flew to the north today for what spokesmen said would be a two or three-day visit to a region where 193 persons died and 100,000 others were in refugee camps following the worst floods in six years.

The trip was believed partly political. His departure came only hours after Thieu told newsmen, "This job takes so much out of one. I have been looking for someone else to do it."

The comment on the September elections was considered significant in light of a statement Sunday by Maj. Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh in which he hinted he might challenge Thieu.

Actress Jane Fonda Back To Campuses

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (UPI) — Actress Jane Fonda, only hours after her release from the Cleveland city jail where she was held on charges of smuggling and assaulting a policeman, resumed her campus tour by telling students, "We must win back our country."

Miss Fonda was arrested at Hopkins International Airport in Cleveland Tuesday after allegedly kicking and slapping a policeman and screaming: "Get out of here, you pig."

She was accused of smuggling into the country 105 vials of pills, she later described as "Health food."

"If this can happen to me," Miss Fonda told an audience of about 2,000 at Central Michigan University Tuesday night, "You can imagine what happens to less visible people who are trying to do something constructive about this country."

Miss Fonda, on a tour of colleges and universities in the United States and Canada to speak against the war in Indochina, arrived Tuesday at Hopkins on a flight from Toronto. During an appearance at Fansaw College in London, Ont., Monday night, she had charged that "there is only repression and prison for anyone trying to do anything in America."

During her stay in jail Tuesday, Miss Fonda said, she learned one thing: "I kept thinking that if I were nobody, if nobody knew I was in jail, they (the police) could do anything they wanted with me."

Marseilles, France, was once a Phoenician trading port.

Israel Warns: Ready For Any Contingency

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel warned today it is more powerful than before the cease-fire and is "prepared for any contingency" if the truce due to expire Thursday night is not extended.

Acting Prime Minister Yigal Allon said Tuesday night "Israel has not rested on her laurels during the past three months and she is now stronger than before the cease-fire ... Israel is prepared for any contingency."

In the United Nations, African, Asian and Arab diplomats were trying to scrape together the necessary two-thirds majority in the general assembly to pass a Middle East resolution opposed by Israel and the United States. The resolution condemned Israeli occupation of Arab lands but did not refer to alleged Egyptian violations of the military standstill in the Suez Canal zone.

The vote on the resolution probably will come Thursday, although it could come today.

In Amman, the central committee of guerrilla organizations said today 15 persons were killed in fighting between Jordanian soldiers and Palestinian guerrillas Tuesday. A goverment spokesman said three people were killed and blamed "armed elements in civilian clothes" for starting the fighting.

There has been sporadic fighting in Amman ever since the truce was signed between King Hussein and the guerrillas last month.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat held a series of talks with military and political leaders in view of the Thursday expiration of the cease-fire with Israel.

Allon's reference to Israel not resting on her laurels was one of the few references by an Israeli official that the country might have taken some measures to counteract the Egyptian missile buildup during the cease-fire. It was coupled with a report published in the Jerusalem Post on how Israel had strengthened its fortifications along the Suez Canal.

The Post said measures have been taken to protect Israeli soldiers from Egyptian shelling.

Operations At Quentin Normal

San Quentin inmates resumed normal working schedules this morning without incident, according to Associated Warden James W.L. Park.

An unsigned flyer distributed at San Francisco State College campus Monday said that inmates of 13 California prisons would go on strike yesterday, and called for rallies to support the convicts.

Parks said the prison was on election day holiday schedule, and there was no hint of strike. He said two dozen young demonstrators paraded outside San Quentin's gate from 9 a.m. to 11:45 a.m., with signs backing convicts' purported demands.

Man Bound Over On Burglary Charge

Richard Anthony Alonzo, 18, of no known address, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing the Planned Parenthood Association office in San Rafael on Aug. 30.

He is to be arraigned tomorrow.

College District Name Is on Agenda Again

Marin Junior College District trustees are expected to act again tomorrow night to change the district's name to Marin Community College District.

The item is on the agenda for the trustees' meeting at 8 p.m. in Room 96 of Olney Hall, on the Kentfield campus. The board previously decided to change the name, but found it premature; the new state law permitting the change does not take effect until Nov. 23, according to business manager Norman Bird.

Other agenda items include possible action to accept a $15,500 gift from the Oakes Foundation to provide a classroom trailer for nursing students at Marin General Hospital, an offer of a $25,000 collection of rare and out-of-print books from Newton K. Gregg of Kentfield and reports on construction timetables for the Harlan Center and Science Center buildings.

Labor costs for auto repairs are up 14 per cent, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

Guide Dogs School Will Graduate

Ten students at the Guide Dogs for the Blind School in San Rafael will be graduated at 2 p.m. Saturday, formally receiving the dogs with which they have trained for weeks.

The 4-H members who raised the dogs from puppyhood until they were a year old, will make the presentations. Following the public graduation rites will be an obedience demonstration and tour of the school's kennels.

Marin's Dimes Chapter Honored

The Marin Chapter of the March of Dimes has received an outstanding performance award for 1970 from the National Foundation-March of Dimes.

The award honors Marin Chapter support of the genetic counseling and evaluation clinic at Ross General Hospital, as well as community education and fund raising efforts.

Mrs. Walter F. Johnson, Marin Chapter president, received the award last week at a regional March of Dimes conference in San Francisco.

Adopts U. S. System

SINGAPORE (UPI) — The University of Singapore will change to the American system of designating lecturers as associate professors and readers as instructors, effective Jan. 1, 1971. The Chinese language medium Nanyang University already has adopted the system.

Bagley Sweeps To A Strong Victory

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, yesterday swept to a strong victory over his Democratic challenger, Joseph A. Forest of Novato.

Bagley's reelection to a sixth two-year term, however, was with a smaller margin than in 1968.

Bagley got 44,280 votes in Marin to Forest's 28,809, giving Bagley 59 per cent of the votes and Forest just over 38 per cent. A third candidate, Glenn A. Bernd of Sebastopol, nominee of the American Independent Party, got 1,853 votes in Marin, or almost 2.5 per cent of the votes.

In Southern Sonoma, the figures were 16,681 votes for Bagley, 11,918 for Forest, and 1,286 for Bernd.

In 1968, when Bagley faced a challenge from Democrat Robert E. Mertle of Santa Vynetia, Bagley got 57,370 votes in Marin and 20,786 in Sonoma, and Mertle got 19,328 in Marin and 8,006 in Sonoma.

Bagley, 42, of Sleepy Hollow, is an attorney practicing in San Rafael. Forest, 37, is Marin's senior deputy county counsel. Bernd owns a health food store and health club in Sebastopol.

College Tax Hike Winner; Bond Booted

The Marin Junior College District gained a split at the polls yesterday, winning a tax rate increase, but failing on a $16.9 million bond measure.

Voters approved increasing the district's operating tax rate 25 cents by a vote of 45,115 to 25,128, a 64 per cent favorable vote, where only a majority was needed.

The unofficial count on the bond measure was 44,667 "yes" and 26,809 "no," a 62.49 per cent favorable vote, where 66 per cent was needed.

(The California State Supreme Court has ruled that the requirement for a two-thirds vote is invalid, since it violates the "one man-one vote" section of the U.S. Constitution's 14th amendment, but the decision is under appeal.)

Although the operating tax rate in the district will be increased, there will be a temporary dip in the overall tax rate, since a 35-cent override for building will be canceled.

The district's present 35-cent operating tax and 35-cent building override, a total of 70 cents, will be replaced with the 60-cent operating levy.

However, the district will gain in the long run because the 35-cent override was due to expire in 1972, and it would have been left with only a 35-cent operating levy, if voters hadn't approved the increase.

In seeking an increase in its operating tax rate, the district pointed out that the operating rate hadn't been changed since 1937, while enrollment had quadrupled in that period.

The bond funds would have been used to complete development at the Kentfield campus, and at least half of the funds were to be pledged to build first phase development of the planned Novato campus.

Marin Voters Support Deadline In Vietnam

The most controversial of the local measures on yesterday's ballot, Measure A calling for total withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Southeast Asia by next June 30, passed with a moderate margin of 54 per cent.

With 94 per cent of the 78,736 who went to the polls voting on the measure, it passed, 39,940 to 33,827.

The measure requested the President and the Congress "to begin immediately the total withdrawal of all United States military forces from Southeast Asia and to complete such total withdrawal no later than June 30, 1971.

Opponents of the measure, calling themselves the Committee to Stop Helping America's Marxist Enemies (SHAME), attacked it as Communist-inspired and a move to divide the American people.

Its proponents argued the measure was needed "to provide the moral support for the President and Congress to extricate us from our military involvement in Indochina.

The proposal originated with Anne West of San Anselmo and was authorized for the ballot by a unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Hong Kong Gambling

HONG KONG (UPI) —Hong Kong police made 9,670 raids on illegal gambling establishments in the second quarter of 1970, resulting in the prosecution of 11,398 persons. The number of raids was an increase of 499 over the preceding three months.

Incumbents On Hospital Board Win

Three incumbents on the Marin Hospital District board were re-elected yesterday, winning out over two challengers.

Re-elected were George W. Folsom, a Sausalito industrial consultant, with 33,681 votes; Marion C. Ibach of Mill Valley, 32,777 votes, and Thomas K. Procter of Belvedere, senior vice president of a real estate firm, 32,765.

The strongest challenge came from Dr. Robert W. Schrier of Mill Valley, an assistant professor of medicine, who garnered 29,068 votes, while Winston R. McCall of San Anselmo, an airline captain, had 14,476.

Africa has an area of about 11.5 million square miles.

Two Blacks Lose In Oregon Bids

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Two blacks seeking to become the first of their race ever elected to the Oregon Legislature were overwhelmingly defeated in the election Tuesday.

Jimmy "Bang Bang" Walker a former prize fighter who is now editor of a weekly newspaper in north Portland, was beaten by Ken Maher, a former legislator who switched from the Republican to the Democratic party. Walker, 38, was a Republican seeking to win election in a predominately Democratic district.

William Sterling, 33, a Democrat and student at Southern Oregon College in Ashland, was defeated by Republican Rep. Don Stathos.

MMWD Bond Issue Is Winner; Veteran Out

Voters in Marin Municipal Water District yesterday approved by a hairline an $11.5 million bond measure and replaced a 24-year veteran member of the board of directors.

The bond measure, with 63 per cent of the 88,149 registered voters balloting, just passed with 37,119 "yes" votes to 18,378 "no" votes. Passage required two-thirds approval, and the measure got 66.88 per cent approval.

In District I, Ray W. Foreaker Jr. won his challenge of Dr. Leo L. Stanley. With 54 per cent of the 17,453 voters registered in the district balloting, Foreaker got 58.4 per cent of the vote, 5,518 to 3,926 for Stanley.

The bond measure, Measure H on the ballot, will finance the first three years of a 10-year improvement program as well as the first stage of a project to bring Russian River water to Marin. The bonds are to be repaid from revenue from water charges.

The new facilities will include a large pipeline from Novato to Hamilton Air Force Base, a reservoir in the Corte Madera area, pumping plants and piping, improved water distribution for fire protection, modernizing the San Geronimo water treatment plant and other new equipment and installations.

It also included $250,000 for maintenance and improvement of trails, picnic areas and water and sanitary facilities.

Foreaker, 43, of Santa Venetia, is a civil engineer. He has served as a consultant to water districts on planning and designing water systems, and is Tiburon's city engineer on a consulting basis. He is a partner in the San Rafael firm of Copple and Foreaker.

He also is chairman of the Marin County Aviation Commission and the Marin County Board of Appeals.

Dr. Stanely, 84, of Fairfax, was chief surgeon at San Quentin Prison from 1913 until retiring to private practice in 1951.

District I includes Lagunitas, Forest Knolls, San Geronimo, Woodacre, Fairfax, Sleepy Hollow, Terra Linda, Marinwood, Hamilton Air Force Base, Santa Venetia, and Los Ranchitos.

A native of Oregon, he came to California in 1895 and was graduated from Stanford University and Cooper Medical College in San Francisco.

He is the author of two books on his prison experiences: "Men at Their Worst," published in 1940 and "My Most Unforgettable Convicts," published in 1967. He is working on several more books, including a history of Marin County.

Dr. Stanley lives on his 10-acre Crest Farm above Fairfax and adjacent to the water district's watershed lands.

Election Gives Nixon More Friendly Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon came out of Tuesday,s election with a slightly more friendly Senate but the Democrats kept control of both houses of Congress and won at least nine more governorships.

(See related stories, pages 10, 17 and 24.)

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Herbert G. Klein, the administration's communications director, both said the Senate shifts would help Nixon get his programs approved. But, Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien scoffed at their claims.

The question was whether the strategy employed by the White House to win increased Senate support for administration defense and foreign policy programs might backfire. With a presidential election coming up in two years, some observers thought moderate Democrats might be forced into a more partisan stance on some issues.

The White House also stirred resentment among liberal Republicans by supporting Conservative Party candidate James L. Buckley's successful campaign against Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y.

The GOP liberals may draw closer to the administration in an effort to protect their own political futures. Or they may react with defiance and split the GOP much as the Democrats were split after Franklin D. Roosevelt's purge effort in 1938.

The biggest surprise in Tuesday's voting was the sweeping Democratic pickup of governorships, giving them important new power bases for the 1972 presidential campaign. The GOP kept the two greatest prizes, however, by re-electing Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

several newspapers on election eve referring to the San Jose vilence. Tunney labeled it "the most horrible, rotten ad I've ever seen."

Unruh went to bed without conceding, but vowed "win, lose or draw—Jess Unruh will be in California politics for a long time to come."

Riles, a 53-year-old educator born in the pine woods of Louisiana and who campaigned on a theme of "getting people to work together," becomes the first black superintendent of public instruction in California history.

For Rafferty, a free-swinging campaigner endorsed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and a majority of the State Board of Education, it was the second defeat for office in as many years. He failed in a 1968 attempt for the U.S. Senate.

Riles, an assistant superintendent under Rafferty, stepped off to an early lead and during the night built it into a margin of 10 percentage points that seldom was threatened.

With most of the 21,700 statewide precincts reporting, the soft-spoken Riles rolled up 2,679,084 votes to 2,245,151 for Rafferty.

Edmund G. Brown Jr., son of the former governor, defeated Republican James L. Flournoy for secretary of state.

In the closest race, Republican Evelle J. Younger and Democrat Charles O'Brien exchanged the lead in the attorney general's contest several times during the night before Younger opened up a narrow margin early today and built it into a small but solid lead.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke scored an impressive victory over State Sen. Alfred E. Alquist in winning in his own right election to the office to which Gov. Ronald Reagan appointed him.

Republican state Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest was returned to office by easily outdistancing Democratic challenger Milton Gordon, a San Diego hotel executive in their race.

Mrs. Priest was the first woman ever elected to a statewide California public office. She formerly served as U.S. treasurer during the Eisenhower administration.

GOP State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, who feared name confusion with the Republican secretary of state candidate with the same surname, soundly thumped Democratic Ronald Brooks Cameron.

sors to keep government close to the people.

In the race for Sonoma County Sheriff, Striepeke, a law enforcement officer for the State Division of Forestry, received 35,067 votes to 30,202 cast for Sgt. Winfield Thibodeau of the sheriff's department.

The candidates' views differed little on a law and order theme during the campaign, but Striepeke stressed the need for a general reorganization of the sheriff's department.

Assistant Sonoma County Assessor Comalli overcame an early vote deficit to defeat rancher George L. Crane by a margin of 33,021 to 31,523 for the post of assessor.

Comalli has served as assistant to retiring assessor Robert J. McMullen for four years and said during the campaign that he would continue efforts to streamline the operations of the department.

In northern Sonoma's fourth supervisorial district, Henry Spomer will succeed Supervisor defeat Dale Spencer with 5,370. Spomemer will succeed Supervis Arthur R. Ruonavaara who was defeated in the June primary election.

Sonoma County voters largely followed the pattern of state voting. They took a strong stand against Proposition 18 which would permit gas tax funds to be diverted from highway contruction to rapid trnsit studies.

The proposition was defeated by a margin of 42,628 to 24,563.

an even heavier edge in Democratic registration, the figures were 17,352 for Behr, 23,573 for Peever, and 1,006 for Mrs. Smart.

Behr survived a bruising primary contest against three other Republican candidates, and steered a careful course during both campaigns to hold onto both Republican and Democratic support.

Jubilation erupted early in Behr's San Rafael campaign headquarters last night as first returns showed Behr leading strongly. His lead started out at 66 per cent in Marin ballot counting, and never eroded seriously as counting quickly reached the final figures.

Campaign workers joyfully answered telephones at the headquarters, "Senator Behr's office."

Behr, 55, an attorney, long has been a leader in Marin's many conservation battles, and sparked the Save Our Seashore campaign that helped win additional federal funds to complete acquisition of Point Reyes National Seashore. He also led a citizen's campaign last year that convinced the Legislature to make permanent the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Behr served as a Mill Valley City councilman for four years and as a county supervisor for seven years before stepping down in 1968 to start his campaign for the 1970 Senate race. At that time, it appeared he would run against McCarthy.

veterinarian, by a 45,617 margin, or 107,978 to 62,361 votes.

In Marin the vote was Clausen, 8,713 and Kortum, 3,864, giving the incumbent 69.28 per cent of the county vote.

The unofficial results in other counties in the First District were: Del Norte: Clausen, 3,336, Kortum, 1,356; Humboldt, Clausen 19,297, Kortum, 11,957; Mendocino, Clausen 10,357; Kortum, 6,464; Napa, Clausen 19,747, Kortum, 10,159; and Sonoma, Clausen, 46,528, Kortum, 28,561.

Clausen's district includes North and West Marin, north of Muir Beach, and extends to the Oregon border.

The 53-year-old Mailliard, ranking GOP member of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee and second senior GOP member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, was elected to a 10th term.

During the campaign he proposed creation of a Golden Gate National Recreation Area using surplus forts in Marin and San Francisco.

prohibited use of gas tax revenue for other than highway purposes.

The "highway lobby," the term generally applied to the trucking industry, certain segments of the construction industry, oil companies and automobile clubs, fought Proposition 18 with a massive advertising campaign.

Measures rejected included:

Prop. 8 —Empowers the state superintendent of public instruction to appoint two non-civil service deputies instead of one.

Prop. 9 —Authorizes the 47 non-charter counties to decide whether their county superintendents of schools shall be appointed by the county board of education rather than chosen by the voters.

Prop. 10 —Exempts loans of more than $100,000 to corporations and partnerships from the constitutional restriction limiting the interest rate to 10 per cent.

Prop. 2—Gives the state supreme court sole jurisdiction to resolve all questions of vacancy in the offices of lieutenant governor, attorney general, controller, treasurer and secretary of state, was apparently defeated by a slim margin.

Prop. 2 had apparently been approved until a surge of "no"votes in the late counting wiped out the margin of endorsement.

The voters approved:

Prop. 3 — Requires the governor to send his proposed state budget to the legislature within the first 10 days of regular sessions and the lawmakers to approve it two weeks before the start of the new fiscal year.

P.op. 5 — Requires the University of California board of regents to hold most of its meetings in public the same as most other local and state government agencies.

Prop. 6 —Authorizes the investment of teachers' retirement funds into certain common and preferred stock in specified management investment companies.

Prop. 7 —Makes the speaker of the Assembly an exofficio member of the state college board of trustees.

Prop. 11 —Authorizes the state Board of Chiropractic Examiners to write certain new rules for chiropractors, including a requirement that they continue their education as a condition of license renewal.

Prop. 12 —Allows county supervisors to set their own salaries instead of the legislature.

Prop. 13 —Doubles from $5,000 to $10,000 the property tax exemption a totally disabled veteran receives on his home and extends the tax break to his unremarried widow. It also extends the $5,000 exemption for homes to blind veterans to dwellings in cooperative housing projects.

Prop. 14 —Revises technical provisions governing civil service and removes certain employes in the lieutenant governor's office from the civil service list.

Prop. 15 —Deletes from the constitution the prohibition against dueling which currently is contained in the state Penal Code. It also makes general technical revisions in provisions governing the location of the state capital, minimum wages, sexual discrimination and public works.

Prop. 16 —Empowers the legislature to withdraw or rewrite a proposed constitutional amendment after it has been adopted by the lawmakers but before it is submitted to the voters.

Prop. 17 —Strikes from the constitutional obsolete provisions governing the administration of aged and blind welfare programs.

Prop. 19 —Makes loan sharking a felony instead of a misdemeanor punishable by up to a year in jail or not more than five years in prison.

MARIN

nett of Kent Woodlands defeated former Marin Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen of San Anselmo and American Independent candidate Teresa E. Mortara in their contest for the state Board of Equalization.

Elected as a Marin Municipal Court Judge was attorney Robert A. Smallman of Kentfield, who swamped Ernest C. Zunino of Fairfax, a senior deputy district attorney.

Winning reelection were Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, and Reps. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and Don H. Clausen, R-First District.

The only incumbent voted out of office was a 24-year veteran member of the Marin Municipal Water District board of directors, Dr. Leo L. Stanley of Fairfax. He lost his District 1 seat to Ray W. Foreaker of Santa Venetia, a civil engineer.

Other incumbents reelected included three in the Marin Hospital District contest for the board of directors, George H. Folsom, Marion C. Ibach and Thomas K. Procter.

In the Strawberry Recreation District, incumbents Carl L. Schaefer and Arthur R. Senter, as well as Conrad von Blankenburg, were elected to the board of directors.

In the Fairfax School District, high school teacher Thomas A. Truchan was elected to a board vacancy, and in the Ross School District, Dr. Justin L. Williams was elected to a board vacancy.

In local measures, voters approved an increase in the operating tax rate of Marin Junior College District,but defeated its $16,920,000 bond measure to start development of its Novato campus and complete development of the Kentfield campus.

Novato's $3,250,000 bond measure for street improvements was defeated, as was a 9-cent levy in San Anselmo for street repairs.

San Anselmo voters, however, approved a separate 9-cent property tax to buy a fire engine and cut the maximum pay for a city councilman from $75 to $50 a month.

Marin Municipal Water District's $11.5 million bond measure squeaked through with only 66.88 per cent approval, barely over the two-thirds needed for passage.

In Inverness and Point Reyes Station, voters approved a $250,000 bond measure to buy and improve two private water companies.

The ballot count was smooth despite the fact it was literally under a cloud that threatened to give the computer pneumonia. A leak in the air conditioner in the computer room caused a spray of water vapor to settle on the machinery, raising the possibility of a short circuit.

The air conditioner, however, had to be kept running to cool the computers, thus it was impossible to repair the leak.

Heavy security and stormy weather apparently cut into the usual crowd attracted to the counting, and few persons were seen outside the computer room.

JUDGE

judge, who is fair too," to enforce the law and to stop court delays.

Zunini, 38, blamed an increase in lawlessness on judges' laxity in sentencing and favored starting a night court. Smallman, who has practiced law for 18 years, is a partner in the San Rafael law firm of Smallman and Robbins.

Smallman who backing from six attorneys who were defeated in the June primary, including A. Leonard Bjorklund and Jack L. Blaine, who had substantial support then.

Smallman has contended that all three muninipal judges have to work out a uniform system of justice, and has opposed night court on the ground it would cost more than $100,000 while a state study has showed it would be used by only seven per cent of the defendants.

Eighty-three per cent of those who voted in Marin cast ballots in the race for judge.

Only Standard Oil gives you two advanced cleaner air gasolines–

...both with F-310.

New Chevron Low Lead

joins Chevron Unleaded

Get the gasoline best for your car–best for cleaner air:

Many oil companies are offering just one . . . or the other, an unleaded or a low lead gasoline. But now, as new Chevron Low Lead joins Chevron Unleaded, only Standard Oil Company of California gives you two advanced cleaner air gasolines—both with the remarkable additive F-310*.

Removing or reducing the lead in gasoline, helps toward cleaner air—now. In addition it opens the way for future emission control devices which according to car manufacturers will make a significant contribution toward minimizing automobile exhaust pollution.

Standard Oil now offers both new Chevron Low Lead and Chevron Unleaded to give even more motorists an opportunity to do their part toward cleaner air. And, to make sure you get the gasoline that's best for your car—best for cleaner air.

New Chevron Low Lead is for cars designed to run on regular grade gasoline. Chevron Unleaded is for those '71 cars designed for lower octane unleaded gasolines, and many pre-'71 cars with lower octane requirements. It is not recommended for cars under heavy loads—such as trailer hauling—or for small cars that run at high speeds.

Both Chevron Low Lead and Chevron Unleaded have the added plus of F-310. And compared to other unleaded and low-lead gasolines, F-310 is the important difference in helping to achieve cleaner air.

For cleaner air, better mileage: New Chevron Low Lead for cars which use regular grade gasoline . . . Chevron Unleaded Gasoline for those 1971 model cars and many pre-1971 cars which can use lower octane unleaded fuel . . . and Chevron Supreme for cars with high-compression engines. Three great Chevron Gasolines—all with F-310.

ONLY STANDARD OIL GIVES YOU THREE CLEANER AIR GASOLINES WITH F-310

Hub Voters Back Two Ballot Issues

San Anselmo voters yesterday balloted to buy a new fire engine and to cut the salary of city councilmen, but defeated a measure to finance street improvements.

Each of the measures required a majority to pass.

Measure E authorized a special two-year property tax of nine cents per $100 assessed valuation to buy a $52,000 fire engine. With 71 per cent of the city's 7,496 registered voters balloting on the measure, it barely passed with 50.44 per cent approval, 2,681 to 2,634.

Measure G cut the maximum salary of a city councilman from $75 to $50 a month. Salaries are set by state law, and must go to a vote of the people to be changed. With 67 per cent balloting on this measure, it passed with 57 per cent approval, 2,846 to 2,163.

Measure F, which would have authorized a two-year special property tax rate of 9 cents to raise $52,000 for street repair, lost with only 42 per cent approval. With 70 per cent balloting on this measure, it lost 2,206 to 3,014.

Measures E and F were put on the ballot by the city council because the city's general fund tax rate was scraping the legal limit.

Novato Voters Dump Street Improvements

Novato voters yesterday rejected for a third time a bond measure to finance street improvements in the city.

The proposal, Measure D, would have authorized $3,250,000 in bonds over the next five years. With 73 per cent of the city's 11,161 registered voters balloting on the measure, it lost, 5,125 to 3,034.

The vote gave the measure a 62.81 per cent approval, short of the two-thirds needed for passage. The state Supreme Court has ruled that the two-thirds requirement in the state Constitution is invalid, but the requirement still stands while the ruling is being appealed.

The maximum tax rate to repay the 20-year bonds would have been 48 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The city's public works director, Clifford E. Temps, said last month that if the measure failed, "we'll try again every six months until it does pass."

Inverness, Point Reyes Voters Approve Bond Issue

Voters in Point Reyes Station and Inverness yesterday approved a $250,000 bond issue in a special improvement district so the North Marin County Water District can buy and improve water systems of two private companies in the two communities.

The measure passed, 197 to 86, or rust under 70 per cent approval. Two-thirds approval was needed for passage.

Eugene S. Churchill, general manager of the county water district, reported that 333 were registered to vote in the special district. Of this number, 85 per cent balloted on the measure.

The county elections office previously reported that 343 were registered in the special district, but Churchill said a later check deleted 10 found to live outside the district boundary.

The Point Reyes Water Co. and Inverness Park Water Co. are owned by James J. Downey. Improvements will include drilling new wells, installing new treatment equipment and pipelines and expanding the system.

The communities have suffered at times from impure water and inadequate supplies to fight fires.

The water district will take over the companies by March 1.

Strawberry Incumbents Reelected

Two incumbents were reelected to the Strawberry Recreation District board yesterday, and a challenger, Conrad Von Blankenburg, gained a third seat by a two-vote margin, according to unofficial returns.

The incumbents, Carl L. Schaefer with 629 votes, and Arthur R. Senter, with 591 votes, led the four-man field vying for three seats. Conrad Von Blankenburg, a 30-year-old carpenter and director of the Strawberry Swim Club, with 550 votes, had a two-point margin over Tom Miller, a 29-year-old computer salesman.

Marin City Meeting On Fire Station

Representatives from most Marin City organizations will meet with county officials tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Manzanita Center to discuss the proposed county fire station in Marin City.

According to Reba Mason, secretary for the Marin City Community Services District, individuals from the county fire department and county administrator's office will attend. She said representatives of the services district, Marin City Council, tenants' union, housing authority and redevelopment agency have been invited to attend.

2 Senators' Sons Elected To House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two sons of incumbent U.S. senators were elected to the House Tuesday, but the son of the House Republican whip lost his election bid.

Rep. James Symington, D-Mo. and Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., each won second House terms. However, Thomas H. Boggs Jr., son of Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., was defeated in an attempt to unseat Rep. Gilbert Gude, R-Md.

Symington's father, Sen. Stuart Symington, of Missouri, also won reelection, returning to the Senate for a third term.

Truchan Leads Fairfax School Trustee Field

Thomas A. Truchan, a 31-year-old San Rafael High School teacher, yesterday led a field of seven to gain election to the Fairfax School District board.

Truchan will succeed Trustee Priscilla C. Gray who resigned. The term expires June 1971.

During the campaign Truchan, chairman of the social science department at San Rafael High School, said he would work to establish a permanent citizens committee to advise the board.

In the unofficial returns Truchan had 778 votes while his nearest competitor, Stanley W. Little, former chairman of the Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission, had 563.

Voting in the rest of the field was Marilyn J. Birks, 441; Paris B. Simmons, 383; David R. Seyler, 357; Joann Ruth Walla, 188, and Harry Murphy, 167.

Most Ballot In Favor Of Justices

A majority of Marin voters indicated yesterday satisfaction with 13 Supreme Court and District Court of Appeal justices, but a significant percentage showed dissatisfaction by balloting against the incumbent justices.

State law does not permit filing for office against a justice, thus balloting is limited to an affirmative or negative vote. In theory, justices are appointed by the governor to 12-year terms, but most in fact are appointed to fill unexpired terms.

But for reappointment, they must submit their names to the voters.

Affirmative votes ranged from 80 to 85 per cent, and negative votes from 15 to 20 per cent.

Chief Justice Donald R. Wright, a Reagan appointee, got 46,374 "yes" votes to 8,411 "no" votes. In balloting on associate justices of the state Supreme Court, the count was as follows: Louis H. Burke, 39,806 to 8,662; Raymond E. Peters, 38,799 to 9,604, and Raymond L. Sullivan, 38,884 to 9,251.

Balloting on justices from the District Court of Appeal was as follows: John B. Molinari, 46,221 "yes" to 8,121 "no;" Norman Elkington, 43,072 to 8,742; James R. Agee, 42,560 to 8,607; Murray Draper, 42,876 to 8,665; Harold C. Brown, 40,908 to 9,481; Thomas W. Caldecott, 37,195 to 8,719; Preston Devine, 41,637 to 8,509; Winslow Christian, 39,186 to 8,815; Joseph A. Rattigan, 37,795 to 8,863.

Ross Selects Williams To School Board

Dr. Justin L. Williams, 39-year-old director of a medical corporation in San Francisco, yesterday was elected to the Ross School District board by a narrow margin of 10 votes.

In unofficial returns, Williams had 675 votes while his opponent, John W. Larson, an attorney, had 665.

Williams will succeed L. G. Maclise, who resigned in June, and will complete his term which expires in June 1971.

Dr. Williams, who lives at 1 Allen Lane, advocated a better long-range planning program in the district. He was a member of the district's finance study committee for the past two years.

There was a 77 per cent turnout of district voters.

Arraignment Set On Burglary Count

Stanley Wade Weaver, 20, of San Rafael yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing Marin Terrace School in Almonte Oct. 25.

He is to be arraigned Monday.

Weaver was arrested after deputies who went to the school because of a report of unusual noise found him inside carrying a projector down a hall.

The Pawnee Indians went on a big buffalo hunt each June.

BRINGS A SMILE — A sign made by two young supporters brings a smile to the face of Rev. Robert F. Drinan of Boston, who has become the first Roman Catholic priest ever elected to the House of Representatives. He ran on an anti-Vietnam ticket.

Boston College Jesuit Becomes First Catholic Priest Elected To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An unprecedented number of clergymen sought Congressional seats in Tuesday's elections, but most lost.

Of 13 priests and ministers who were candidates in House or Senate races, the only two winners were:

Father Robert F. Drinan, a Jesuit priest and longtime dean of Boston College Law School and Vietnam foe, elected to the House from Massachusetts' 3rd district. Drinan, a Democrat, is the first Roman Catholic priest elected to Congress, and

Rep. John H. Buchanan, a Baptist minister already serving in the House, re-elected in Alabama. He is a Republican.

Three clerical candidates for Senate seats were defeated: the Rev. Joseph Duffey, a United Church of Christ minister running as a Democrat in Connecticut; the Rev. John C. Danforth, an Episcopal priest nominated by the Republicans in Missouri; and Father John J. McLaughlin, a Catholic priest who was the GOP senatorial candidate in Rhode Island.

The only black clergyman nominated for Congress, the Rev. Andrew Young, was defeated in Georgia's 5th district. Young, a United Church of Christ minister, was a close friend and trusted lieutenant of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

An incumbent clergyman-congressman, Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., was defeated for re-election. Schadeberg is a Congregationalist.

Fatter Robert Cornell, a Catholic priest who was the Democratic nominee for Congress in Wisconsin's 8th district, ran well behind his Republican opponent.

Other clerical losers were George McClain, a Methodist minister running as the Liberal Party candidate in New York's 16th Congressional District; the Rev. Jay Wilkinson, a young Episcopal priest who was the Republican nominee in Oklahoma's 4th district; the Rev. Richard Fullerton, a Church of the Nazarene evangelist bearing the GOP banner in Georgia's 7th district; the Rev. Fred Casimir, a Church of Christ minister nominated by the Republicans in California's 31st district; and H.D. Shuemaker, an Assembly of God pastor running as a Republican in Florida's 1st district.

Gay Liberation Drops Alpine Idea

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The Berkeley Gay Liberation Front held its own little election Tuesday, and rejected a proposal to try a takeover of Alpine County in the Sierra.

The front, largest homosexual group in the San Francisco Bay area, denounced the plan as "sexist," "racist" and "impractical."

The vote was on a resolution calling for a mass gay movement into the county, whose population of 430 includes 384 registered voters, and seizure of political power.

Demos Tighten Grip On House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrats recorded a net gain of at least seven seats in the House Tuesday, tightening their already firm control.

With a handful of races unsettled, Democrats had won 253 of the 435 seats and were leading in two others. Republicans had elected 177 and were leading in one other.

The current House makeup (including vacancies) is 246 Democrats and 189 Republicans.

Among the new winners were three women, Democrats Louise Day Hicks, who was elected to the seat of retiring House Speaker John W. McCormack in Massachusetts, Ella T. Grasso in Connecticut and Mrs. Bella S. Abzug, 50, a lawyer-women's liberation advocate running as a Democrat, who won a House seat in New York's 19th congressional district.

Also elected were two heirs to inlustrial fortunes, Republican Pierre S. Du Pont IV in Delaware and Democrat John F. Seiberling Jr. in Ohio.

Democrats captured both the House seats in traditionally Republican South Dakota.

Among Republican seats captured by Democrats, from Connecticut to Washington, were those of veteran Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, senior GOP member of the Education and Labor Committee, and Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., a senior member of the Agriculture Committee.

Also knocked off was Rep. E. Ross Adair, R-Ind., top minority member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, by former Democratic member J. Edward Roush.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, dean of the House of Representatives and chairman of its judiciary committee, defeated an opponent who made Celler's age — 82 — an issue.

The Democrat-Liberal beat Republican-Conservative Frank J. Occhiogrosso, 45, in the 10th Congressional District in Brooklyn. Celler will be serving his 25th term in Congress.

Republicans captured the gerrymandered district of freshman Rep. Allard Lowenstein, D-N.Y., who helped crank up the Democratic dump Johnson movement in 1968.

Democrats overall captured six seats whose Republican incumbents had sought other office or retired, and knocked off five who had won the last election by minimal margins.

Black candidates won a total of 12 house seats, against the 9 they hold in the current congress. In addition to seats now held by Negroes, black winners were Parren J. Mitchell of Baltimore, George W. Collins of Chicago, and Ronald V. Dellums of Berkeley, Calif. The Rev. Andrew Young, who was right hand man to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and one of the nation's best-known Negroes, lost in his attempt to unseat Republican Rep. Fletcher Thompson of Atlanta.

The balloting left both houses under Democratic leadership, although as usual the Democratic margin in the House is more apparent than real, due to southern defections on many social and economic issues.

Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., becomes house speaker with the start of the new Congress. Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., continues as Senate Democratic leader.

Charles R. Rangel, a Democratic New York state assemblyman, easily won the House seat filled for a quarter of a century by Adam Clayton Powell. Rangel defeated Powell by a scant 150 votes in the Democratic primary.

There were some unusual contests in New England, including the election of the Rev. Robert Drinan, on leave as dean of Boston College's law school, to the House. He campaigned as a Democratic antiwar candidate and became the first Roman Catholic priest ever elected to Congress.

Another Massachusetts Democrat running on an antiwar platform, Gerry Studds, battled Republican Rep. Hastings Keith in a contest that was still undecided by early morning.

Virginia became the first southern state to have a GOP-dominated congressional delegation with State Sen. J. Kenneth Robinson's capture of the seat of retiring Rep. John O. Marsh Jr., D-Va., changing makeup to six Republicans and four Democrats.

Republican congressman William C. Cramer lost to State Sen. Lawton Chiles in the race for the seat of retiring Sen. Spessard Holland, D-Fla.

Elsewhere in the south, such veterans as house majority whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana, and South Carolina congressmen L. Mendel Rivers and John McMillan won re-election. Republican Floyd Spece beat Democrat Heyward McDonald for Watson's congressional seat.

The Democrat sweep in Texas extended into the congressional delegation. Republicans barely managed to hold on to the three seats they now have. Democrats kept their 20 seats.

From Florida To Oregon—To Vote

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (UPI) —Retired miner Herman D. Wood, 81, is proud that he never misses an election.

So when he went off to visit a son in Miami, Fla., last month he applied early for an absentee ballot.

Late last week the ballot had not arrived in Miami. Wood decided to come home and vote in person.

Fog and rain caused rerouting of his flights — but he arrived in time to vote here early Tuesday.

Warrant Out For Burglary Suspect

A bench warrant with bail set at $2,500 was issued yesterday for Robert Dean Allen, 26, of Fairfax, when he failed to appear in court.

Allen along with Stephen Robert Carrino, 22, of San Rafael, is charged with burglarizing a San Rafael residence on Sept. 16. They were arrested when they were found hiding under a bed in a house at 90 Irwin Street.

Carrino, who has been hospitalized with an illness for several weeks, is to come to court again on Nov. 17 for setting of a date for a preliminary hearing.

San Diego Loss For Indicted Man

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Republican Assemblyman Tom Hom, indicted by the county grand jury on charges of bribery and conspiracy, was defeated for re-election Tuesday by Democrat Peter Chacon.

The victor said the indictment had little to do with his win.

"The voters were concerned with economic issues such as unemployment," he said.

"It's my obligation to serve everyone," he said. "People will know me as Peter Chacon, not just a Mexican-American," the former school teacher said.

Supervisors Reverse Stand On Houseboats

Donlon J. Arques, whose new houseboat plans were trimmed by 65 berths last month, won all 65 back late yesterday before the Marin County Board of Supervisors. (Another supervisors story, page 1)

On a motion by Michael Wornum, the supervisors voted 4 to 0 to allow Arques to build 265 houseboat berths to take care of 200 existing houseboats and about 50 others scattered in Richardson Bay. Supervisor Louis H. Baar had left the meeting just before the 5:35 p.m. vote.

The decision reversed a previous county planning commission action, which cut 65 berths from the Aques plan.

Hugh G. Lawrence, attorney for Arques, argued successfully that the 265 berths comply with the county's houseboat ordinance including the open water requirement and the Richardson Bay Specific Plan.

The new docks will jut out into the bay just south of George Kappas Harbor, forming a horseshoe-shaped cluster of houseboats with the center in open water. He will also provide a pedestrian-bicycle path along the waterfront.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

GREENBRAE OFFICE — Authorized a letter asking Coldwell Banker and Co., new owners of the former Greenbrae Co. office at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and La Cuesta, to limit the use of an access road into Sir Francis Drake. Supervisors asked Coldwell Banker to use the driveway only for entry from Drake, not exit onto Drake Boulevard.

SECRET WITNESS' — Heard a rebuke from William R. Cannon Jr. against the Independent-Journal, Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales for launching a system whereby tips on major crimes can be turned in without revealing the tipster's identity. Supervisors told Cannon to complain to the two elected officials or to the Independent-Journal, which is a private enterprise.

DRY DOCKS — Authorized the calling of bids for demolition or removal of the huge drydocks mired off Sausalito, and asked the sheriff to provide protection to bidders who want to inspect the drydocks.

FILL — Asked the county Department of Public Works director to work out a solution with Jack E. Martin, who has been filling his property on the east side of Almonte Boulevard just north of Dolan's Corner without a permit. Supervisors will review the case again on Nov. 17.

SEPTIC TANKS — Put off action on a new county septic tank ordinance until 1:45 p.m. Dec. 1. Supervisor William A. Gnoss insisted on a delay to give homeowner groups a chance to review the new ordinance, which would increase installation fees and raise minimum requirements.

Tiburon To Apply For Plant Grant

Directors of the Tiburon Sanitary District have decided to apply to the federal government for a grant to build a tertiary sewage treatment plant, secretary Robert A. Sterling reported.

The plant would produce potable water that would meet any possible effluent standards established by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The board Monday approved applications for grants under two programs, Sterling said. The first, a demonstration grant, would construct the plant entirely with federal funds.

Under the second, the district would pay part of the cost and the government the rest. Zimpro Inc., a Wisconsin-based designer and manufacturer of treatment plants, said the facility will cost $1.13 million.

A Zimpro representative attended Monday's meeting and told directors that his firm may be willing to pay part or all of the district's cost if the second type of grant is approved, according to Sterling.

In other action, the board agreed to spend up to $2,800 to buy an electrical generator to provide standby power in the event of electrical failure at the district's treatment plant.

Sterling said the move was prompted by indications that the water quality control board may require districts to have such fail-safe generators before long, to prevent the discharge of raw sewage if power fails.

"We thought we might as well jump the gun on the water board," Sterling said.

102 Strep Cases In Marin Last Week

There were 102 cases of streptococcus infection reported in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Dr. Albrecht said there were 31 cases of gonorrhea reported, 23 of infectious hepatitis, four of syphilis and two of tuberculosis.

Delay May Be Asked On Courthouse Land

A group of Marin businessmen, who have offered $7[illegible],000 for the old Courthouse Square property in San Rafael, may ask for an extension of time on its option to buy.

Robert A. Roumiguierre, who with Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Independent-Journal publisher Wishard A. Brown has the option, told the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday he needs more time to draw up plans for development.

Roumiguierre said the option expires next Tuesday but since plans are incomplete, "we may not pick up the option."

Roumiguierre's group put a $37,000 down payment when it made the bid last Frebruary. Of this amount, $10,000 would be forfeited to the county if the group withdraws from the purchase.

Roumiguierre presented a sketch plan for the Courthouse Square development.

Redesign On Inn's Proposed Addition Ordered By Panel

The Petaluma Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday ordered the redesign of a proposed addition to the Petaluma Inn at 200 South McDowell Boulevard.

Plans include an additional 41 units to the motel and an addition to the Old Adobe Room Restaurant to bring the seating capacity to 205.

The board said that the plans should be reconsidered because of a possible conflict with plans to widen the freeway off-ramp at East Washington Street and suggested that more off-street parking be provided.

In other action, the board approved an Entrance sign for Petaluma Estates Mobile Home Park at 901 North McDowell Boulevard and granted a home occupation permit to Zaven Hagopian, 2001 Sultana Drive, to service electrical refrigeration and air conditioning units.

Man Enters Bedroom, Beats Woman

A robber who wore a stocking over his head threatened a Kentfield woman in her bedroom today, robbed her and knocked her unconscious, sheriff's officers said.

Carole B. Berg, 31, of 20 Quisisana Drive, was treated at Marin General Hospital about 4 a.m. for a badly swollen and blackened left eye and bumps on her head.

She told deputies that she was watching election returns on television in an upstairs bedroom about 2 a.m. when the man entered the room. Her husband, Jerome, was asleep in a downstairs bedroom, she said.

The man said, "Take off your robe and give me your money and jewels," Mrs. Berg told officers.

She said she gave him $25 from her purse, but when she told the man she had taken off her rings and didn't remember where she had put them, he hit her in the face. He then told her he didn't want credit cards and hit her again and kicked her in the face when she fell down. She said she then lost consciousness.

Supervisors To Let Life Styles Stand

any complaints that come to the department," the planner said.

The supervisors accepted this stance although McInnis and Louis H. Baar said they were annoyed to learn that the ordinances were unnecessary after they had been told by the county sheriff and fire department that existing statutes are inadequate.

Each said he had received "many, many complaints," most from West Marin and the San Geronimo Valley, about hippie living arrangements.

The commune ordinance, as presented by Maloney yesterday, would have limited occupancy of a single family dwelling to six unrelated persons. The companion legislation suggested by the sheriff's department would have forbidden use of vehicles for living purposes on county roadways.

Solnit said, "The problem is not getting people out of houses, but into homes". The arguments tacked from there into theological, legal, moral and political waters.

Attorney Robert B. McReadie of the American Civil Liberties Union summarized arguments made at the Oct. 6 meeting and concluded, "We feel that the proposed ordinances are unconstitutional and, more important, unnecessary."

James Kovacks of the Marin County Legal Aid Society doubted the constitutionality and humanity of the measures which he said discriminate against the poor. "Can you deprive a person of the fundamental right to shelter which this ordinance will invariably d asked.

Michael i, vice president of the Marin County Social Workers Union, charged that the regulations were designed to chase welfare recipients from the county. "We think this is just another step to reduce the welfare roles in this county and it is basically inhumane. What you are doing here if you pass this ordinance is create a criminal class that did not exist before," he said.

He said high rents and continued scarcity of housing would continue to force communal living in spite of the law. His opinion was echoed by many other sueakers including the student body president of College of Marin, Chris Arend, who said students cannot afford to live otherwise.

Michael Perry, speaking for the One World Family of Larkpsur which has taken the city to court over an anti-commune ordinance, brought the Bible into the fray. He quoted from the teachings of Jesus in the Book of Acts to justify communal living.

"What we really want to do in this county is to encourage people to maintain a high environment," he said.

Several speakers indicated that communes are to be encouraged, not banned. One said the "shotgun solution" would lead to rapid construction of the"ticky-tacky boxes that I fled from in L.A."

Applause from the packed house was heard after each speaker heaped opposition to the ordinances on the supervisors, but the loudest clapping was for Kenneth Van Leuven, 51.

"This is against the young and the poor and the idea is to drive them from Marin County," he shouted. "This society is falling apart and no such ordinance will shore it up."

He concluded the young "will make a better society whether you drive them out or not."

Other speakers ranged from a San Anselmo attorney who called communes a "highly efficient way tolivetogether efficient way to live together at minimum expenses" to a White Panther Party member, a Larkspur property owner and Planning Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo.

Winifred Frederick of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin also opposed the ordinances. She said it would take a great deal of money to enforce the ordinances and determine their constitutionality.

A better use of the money, she suggested, would be to enforce laws now on the books.

The supervisors agreed. However, they made it clear they feel there is a problem still to be dealt with.

"I have been deluged by the people in my district (West Marin) where these people have been subjected to a tremendous number of health hazards," Baar said.

To alleviate the health hazards, McInnis said, "I am going to try my level best to enforce on staff the obligation to enforce regulations."

Supervisors Michael Wornum, Peter R. Arrigoni and William A. Gnoss stated they would oppose passage of the two proposals, but that they could be resurrected if existing laws prove inadequate.

McInnis said he didn't want to discriminate against life styles, but warned the crowd, mostly young and long-haired, that it must adapt to living with the rest of soicety without being a nuisance.

"Look to yourselves. Unless you do, there will be continual pressure for this sort of thing," Wornum advised.

Almost without comment, the rolling homes ordinance shared the fate of its successor in the discussion. Arrigoni suggested asking staff how to maintain fire truck access and sanitation standards without banning mobile dwellings.

The county counsel said the vehicle ordinance would have been "extremely difficult, if not impossible to enforce."

Berkeley Student Shot By Assailant

BERKELEY (UPI)—Darryl Haston, 31, a University of California student, shot in the chest by an unknown person who fired through the window of his home, was in serious condition at Cowell Hospital today.

Neighbors reported hearing the single shot Tuesday night and said they saw a woman running from in front of Haston's home.

Lowry Seeks To Spur Recreation

The San Anselmo School District board last night was told delay in its proposed recreation agreement with the City of San Anselmo is jeopardizing needed recreation programs within the district.

Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry told the board that a joint committee of legal counsels and members from the district board and city council have failed to meet since formed in October. The committee was directed, when formed, to study the proposed contract between the two agencies and recommend changes.

Lowry said he told the board after-school drama and sports programs should be initiated immediately at Red Hill and Hidden Valley schools.

He also suggested that the district begin unilateral planning for ann "Adventure Play-Ground at Wade ThomasSchool in absence of an agreement with the city.

The board, which was to have considered the agreement last night, voted to begin the drama program but deferred action on the superintendent's other proposals until Nov. 17, Lowry said.

The two agencies have been considering an agreement as a means of utilizing the school district's community service tax without duplicating recreation activities offered by the city.

Deer Park Land Talks To Continue

Fairfax School District officials will continue talking with county and Marin Municipal Water District officials to seek more land for expansion of Deer Park School, District Supt. H. Reginald Hammond told the district trustees last night.

Proposals to trade an acre of land at the White Hill School for an acre of MMWD land next to Deer Park School, require further meetings with the water district and with Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director, Hammond said.

The trustees ordered minimum days ending at 2 p.m. next week for fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils so teachers may have report card conferences with parents. The following week, classes will end at 2 p.m. for the balance of the district pupils but they will be given special programs while their parents attend conferences, Hammond said.

The Fairfax School District board also:

POLICY — Reviewed proposed revision of the district goals and objectives, to be published in January for a public hearing probably in February, Hammond said.

PLAYGROUND — Ordered $300 worth of Safety Surf resilient ground covering installed around playground equipment at Central School.

Witness Called For Manson Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The prosecution today summoned a 17-year-old female member of the "Manson Family" as its final witness in the 21-week-old Tate-LaBianca murder trial.

Defense attorneys have challenged the admissibility of the story of Dianne Lake, who spent two years with the hippie cult, claiming that she was appearing under duress and out of fear.

Out of the presence of the jury, Miss Lake testified defendant Leslie Van Houten told her of being present at the Leo BaBianca home the night of the slayings there.

"She (Miss Van Houten) said she stabbed someone who was already dead and the more she did it, the more fun it was," Miss Lane testified.

Phase 3-A Of Corte Madera Creek Project Nearing Completion Mark

Despite controversy and dire predictions that cement would never be poured, Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project is nearly complete.

Today marks Army Corps of Engineers dead-line for project completion, and all that remains unfinished are minor projects which do not affect the channel's ability to carry off flood waters.

Completion of those projects, says an Army spokesman, may take the contractor, J B and C Co. of Arizona, another two weeks. However, the Army is not disturbed.

"The Corps considers the project now functionally complete," Eugene Huggins, public information officer, said yesterday. That is, he explained, the concrete channel and its drainage system are finished and operable.

Unfinished construction includes the laying of gravel and asphalt for service roads adjacent the creek, the placing of fences along the channel and the grading of spoils at the disposal site along Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur, Huggins said.

"The contractor can complete the job in 10 to 12 days if he wants," said Huggins, adding that J B and C has requested a 15-day extension for project completion. The extension has not yet been granted, Huggins said, but it probably will be.

Jack Butler, project manager for the construction firm, said yesterday he estimated the project could be completed with "three days of sunshine."

"We can't pour the asphalt on wet ground," Butler said. "It will take us about three days once the ground dries."

He said the Army will not make its final inspection until that time.

Phase 3-A, which was started June 22, this year runs through the College of Marin from the College Avenue Bridge to a point 600 feet down-stream of Laurel Avenue in Kentfield.

Next year the project will continue up-stream to within 200 feet of the Ross Post Office.

Phase 3-A, for which the contractor will be paid $1,333,333, has been marked by controversy, setbacks, charges and countercharges.

The first flareup occurred in July when the county public works department charged the contractor was already four weeks behind schedule on the project which was then only 36 days old. The delay, the county said, was the contractor's inexperience in working with soil conditions found in Marin. Other contractors agreed saying any progress made by the contractor would be washed away with the first rains.

The contractor rebutted saying he was using new construction methods which allowed him to work more cheaply. (He underbid the next highest bidder by $500,000.)

On Aug. 10 and 11 a second controversy flared, this time between the Army and the contractor. What precipitated the fight were two channel wall cave-ins caused by broken water pipes and resulting in a five day setback. The contractor said it was the Army's fault for refusing to allow wall bracing. The Army said it was the contractor's fault because of improper construction methods.

Then about a month later, strained relations between the two snapped and the contractor stopped work, idling dozens of workmen, for a day. Negotiations were hurriedly begun and the Army agreed it may have been "oversupervising" the contractor.

Finally, on Oct. 20, the season's first rains hit backing up six feet of water in the newly completed channel and stalling work for another day.

The College of Marin, which is the single largest property owner affected by this year's work says it is now satisfied with the construction of the project.

The corps of engineers say it is satisfied (though it wasn't to begin with) with the project. "The contractor now knows what has to be done to satisfy his employer," said Huggins.

Proposals For Nature Areas Made At Reed

Proposals for a natural preserve and a recreational development at two Reed district schools were made last night to the district's trustees.

No action was taken, according to interim Supt. Stanley H. Friese, but the matters were referred to the board's facilities and transportation committee.

Under the first proposal, a plot of land behind Reed School on Tiburon Boulevard would be designated a natural area by the board and would be held without development, Friese said.

"The area contains two nice creeks and lots of trees and plants," he said. "It's a great chance for children in the district to study nature and the environment first-hand."

The committee also will study the second proposal, which would build tennis courts and other recreational facilites on about two acres of the Granada School site.

Friese said the town of Corte Madera first proposed the development and said it would pay for construction if the district would donate the land. The site lies within the town limits.

The board approved a recommendation of the Reed District Teachers Association that nine teachers be appointed to the certificated employees council, which will meet with the board's negotiating committee on salaries and other matters.

Appointed to the group were Harold Bickle, Jane Birenbaum, Marge Burns, Nancy Cook, Seymour Feldman, Doris Hunker, Louise Koolhaven, Marty Magid and Allen West.

The Reed School District Also:

GIFT — Accepted a $900 gift from the Reed School Parent-Teacher Club which will be used to purchase instructional equipment.

LEAVE — Granted maternity leave effective Jan. 4 to Kathleen King, Reedland Woods teacher.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired teacher Frank Bullentini for Del Mar School at a $7,775 yearly salary, and Colette Dernoncourt as a clerical worker for $5,688 a year.

REPRESENTATIVES — Appointed trustee representatives to district committees: James Richwagen to the drug abuse committee, Kenneth G. Wells, finance committee, Thomas S. Price, facilities and transportation committee, and Gordon C. Wright, research and instructional assessment committee.

Contract Let For Big Tank In N. Marin

The North Marin County Water District board awarded a $189,730 contract last night to Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co. of South San Francisco, lowest of four bidders, for construction of a five-million gallon storage tank on Atherton Avenue and Bugeia Lane, according to Manager Eugene Churchill.

The price of the tank site is still being negotiated with Frank and Mary Pinheiro, Churchill said. The district has offered $14,000 for two acres plus a 15-foot pipeline and road easement to the site, he said. The Pinheiros have given the district access to the site pending final negotiations, Churchill said.

The board awarded a $6,476 contract for a dump truck and a $3,281 contract for a four-wheel drive pickup truck to Schuman Chevrolet Co. lowest of four bidders.

The board approved an extension agreement with the marin County Humane Society for a 360-foot main extension and a fire hydrant. The estimated cost of $3,715 will be paid by the society, Churchill said.

A special meeting was called for 8 pm.. next Tuesday at the district office to canvass the votes of the successful bond election yesterday in Point Reyes Station and Inverness Park.

Sheriff's Patrol Issue On Tap

Should the cost of sheriff's patrol services be reapportioned so that unincorporated areas will carry more of the burden?

This question will get another public hearing tonight before the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission. The meeting is set for 8 p.m. at Ross Town Hall.

Executive officer John F. Barrows will present reports on the cost of sheriff's services and the revenues such as property tax and sales tax generated in cities and in unincorporated areas.

Computer Sale

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Data 100 Corp. announced it has sold 25 computer terminals previously rented, to Chandler Leasing Co., a Pepsico subsidiary.

Judge Reduces Walker Bail; Still Unposted

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday reduced bail for former San Quentin inmate Tommy Lee Walker Jr., saying he thought it possible Walker had been "used" by the Soledad Brothers Defense Fund Committee.

Walker, who had been free during his recent trial on bail posted by the committee, was remanded into custody last week when the collateral for the bail bond was withdrawn.

Walker's first trial ended with a hung jury and he is due to be tired again Feb. 8 on charges of battery against two San Quentin guards.

Judge E. Warren McGuire, who heard the first trial, yesterday reduced Walker's bail from $10,000 to $5,000, noting that Walker had made all court appearances while out on the earlier bail.

The judge did not elaborate on how the Soledad Brothers committee might have "used" Walker, only commenting that this looked like what had happened.

Walker's attorney, Robert Birkie of San Rafael, had attempted to call Soledad Brother George Jackson as a witness during the trial but the judge would not allow this, saying Jackson had not been at the prison on the date of the alleged offenses.

Jackson is the brother of Jonathan Jackson, the youth who smuggled guns into the courtroom of Judge Harold J. Haley, precipitating the Aug. 7 shootout in which the judge and two convicts died.

Walker today still had not been able to post the lower bail and remained in Marin County Jail. His attorney will probably ask an earlier trial date if he cannot post it.

Lindsay's Wife: Poll Is Right

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mary Lindsay said Wednesday the London Daily Sketch was absolutely right when it named her husband, Mayor John V. Lindsay, "the world's sexiest man."

"I totally agree. Nobody asked me but I could have told them that," she told newsmen before flying to London with her husband for a private five-day visit.

"Well, I'm glad to know how to do something right," Lindsay commented, grinning at his wife.

Bradgon To Fill County Planner Job

Harvey M. Bragdon, Mill Valley planning director since 1964, will quit his post to become head of current planning for Marin County.

Bragdon, 38, will assume his new duties as head of the 11-man department Nov. 17. He was appointed by County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell to fill the post Von Gundell himself held until promoted by the Marin County Board of Supervisors in July to replace Paul C. Zucker, fired by the supervisors in June.

His salary at the county is under negotiation, Bragdon said today. He earned $17,000 yearly in Mill Valley.

Bragdon moved to Mill Valley in September 1964 from Salinas, where he was planning director. From 1960 to 1963 he was a member of the Fresno planning staff, first as head of current planning and later in the advance planning section.

During his stay at Fresno he worked with Bert A. Balmer, then assistant city manager, on development of that city's downtown mall. Balmer later was hired as Mill Valley city manager and Bragdon followed him to Marin.

Bragdon said he intends to continue living in Mill Valley, at 4 Barrie Way with his wife, Cynthia, and a daughter.

Crank Call Tells Mom 'Son Dead'

A Corte Madera woman yesterday spent two and a-half hours "of sheer hell" following a prank phone call that her 18-year-old soldier son had been killed in Vietnam.

Katherine M. Trau of 6 Echo Avenue, said she received the call at 11:30 A.M., five minutes after receiving a long-awaited letter from her son, Louis.

She said a man identifing himself as a sergeant with the Department of the Army in Washington, D.C., told her "I regret to inform you that your son, Louis, is missing in action and presumed dead."

Mrs. Trau said the man was very sympathetic before he hung up.

Remembering she had never heard of the Army notifying survivors by phone, Mrs. Trau phoned the American Red Cross for confirmation. A Red Cross check of casualty files at the Petagon failed to located young Trau's name. Further checking with the soldier's unit in Vietnam also failed to find a record of his being missing.

It was a hoax, the Red Cross informed the distressed soldier's mother.

"I can't imagine why anyone would do such a thing," Mrs. Trau said. "Why was I singled out?"

A spokesman for the Army survivers' assistance office at the Presidio of San Francisco said such hoaxes have been played before but are uncommon.

The spokesman said all notification to families of soldiers missing or killed in action is done in person by an Army representative. Person receiving such crank calls should check with Sixth Army Casualty Branch in San Francisco, the spokesman said.

Young Trau entered the Army in August 1968 and volunteered for duty in Vietnam in June. He is attached to Company C, 54th Infantry at Pleiku.

Prior to entering the service, he attended Redwood High School.

Cahill To Speak At Boys' Banquet

Thomas Cahill, former San Francisco police chief, and Bay Area telecaster Belva Davis will speak at the annual banquet of the Marin City Boys Club, Nov. 18 in the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club.

Cahill, now chief special agent for the Pacific Telephone Co. in San Francisco, will discuss "Problems of Youth and Communications Today." Miss Davis will tell of "Behind the Scenes in TV Newscasting."

Reservations may be made through the Marin City Boys' Club, 640 Drake Drive, Marin City.

Bike Safety Clinics Slated Saturday

The bicycle safety clinics sponsored by the Novato Jaycees and police department will be held on Saturday, not Sunday as incorrectly reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The hours will be 9 a.m. to noon at Novato High School and San Marin High School and 1 p.m. until completed at Lu Sutton and Marion schools.

150 Enlist, More Needed For Volunteer Education Group

About 150 San Rafael citizens — mostly mothers of children in school — have volunteered their services to the schools through San Rafael Volunteers in Education.

The number is not nearly enough, though, according to Mrs. John L. Levinsohn, who heads the organization.

San Rafael Volunteers in Education was organized as result of a suggestion by the San Rafael Schools Citizen Advisory Committee that volunteer services need to be utilized to maintain personalized education.

The volunteers, working without pay, do such chores as posting attendance records at the high schools, manning desks in offices, working in high school bookstores and in school libraries, helping to supervise children on field trips, etc.

"Anyone with two hours or more a week who enjoys being with students qualifies to volunteer," according to Mrs. Levinsohn.

Particular need exists, she said, for people who have pursuits on which they could conduct "mini-courses" at the high schools — 18-minute classes made possible by the "modular scheduling" adopted this year.

Training for the volunteers is being directed by Mrs. Lee S. Heise, coordinator of special education for the San Rafael city schools. A session of training workshops already is under way, with others planned to begin in January and April.

It is not necessary that the volunteer attend the sessions, however, said Mrs. Ray K. Bolinger, publicity chairman for the organization.

Anyone wishing to volunteer may call the city schools office.

Demos Regain Control Of Both Legislative Houses

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Democrats rolled over Republicans today to regain control of both the state Senate and Assembly and assume the dominant voice in a key legislative reapportionment year.

Democrats took a 21-19 lead in the upper chamber while coming up with a 43-37 margin in the lower house. The 1970 Legislature ended with the GOP in front 21-19 in the Senate and 40-39 in the Assembly with a single vacancy.

The 1971 Legislature will have the responsibility of redrawing district lines in accordance with the U.S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" guideline for apportionment. Traditionally the party in power carves out districts in their favor.

The new political lineup will force Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan to bargain with the Democrats in an effort to obtain approval of his programs —including revision of the state's tax structure.

Former state Sen. John W. Holmdahl, an Oakland Democrat, returned to the upper chamber by upsetting incumbent Lewis F. Sherman, R-Berkeley. Holmdahl served two terms before stepping out of the Legislature in 1966.

Peter H. Behr, a 55-year-old Mill Valley lawyer and a Republican, defeated San Rafael economist Michael Peevey, a Democrat, to replace the retiring John McCarthy, a member of the GOP, in another Senate race.

Assemblyman George Zenovich, D-Fresno, made a successful bid to replace the retiring Sen. Hugh M. Burns. He defeated Earl S. Smittcamp, a Republican from Clovis.

Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, was elected to his first full term by defeating Democrat Dwight W. Mize of Garden Grove. Carpenter, also Republican state chairman, won a June primary election to fill the unexpired term of Sen. John Schmitz, R-Santa Ana, elected to the U.S. House of Representatives.

A key fight in the opening of the 1971 Legislature will involve selection of president pro tem of the Senate. Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, currently holds the position but the Democrats were certain to replace him with one of their own.

William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who scored an easy victory for reelection, will be one of the veteran Republican assemblyman in a position of minority power.

A top prospect will be Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, who was re-elected in Tuesday's balloting.

In the Assembly, the Democrats will have the power to replace Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, who was re-elected in the Tuesday voting.

Assemblyman Tom Hom, R-San Diego, met defeat in his bid for a second term in the wake of his indictment by the San Diego County Grand Jury for allegedly accepting bribes in connection with Yellow Cab Co. fare hikes. The charges stemmed from Hom's tenure on the San Diego City Council.

Democrat Peter R. Chacon, a San Diego school administrator, will replace Hom.

A 13-year Assembly career ended for Don Mulford, R-Piedmon, when he lost to Democrat Ken Meade, an Oakland attorney. A hard-driving Democratic registration drive in the East Bay was given partial credit for Meade's successful challenge.

Democratic businessman Jim Keysor, Granada Hills, defeated Assemblyman Henry Arklin, R-Mission Hills, in his attempt for a second term.

Britschgi was succeeded by Redwood City Councilman Dixon Arnett, a Republican, who defeated Democratic Attorney Arie G. Schoorl (cq) of San Mateo.

Assemblyman George Milias, R-Gilroy, did not seek reelection and was defeated in the June primary in an attempt to get his party's nomination for secretary of state. Sunnyvale City Councilman Richard D. Hayden, a Republican, downed J. Ken Croft, a Democrat from Palo Alto, to succeed Milias.

In other races: Republican attorney Kenneth L. Maddy, Fresno, will succeed Zenovich; Inglewood City Councilman David C. Pierson, a Democrat, will replace Jess Unruh who made an unsuccessful attempt at the governorship; and Robert C. Cline, a Republican from Canoga Park, was elected to replace the late Assemblyman Patrick McGee, R-Van Nuys.

Narrow Abortion Win In Northwest

SEATTLE (UPI) — In the first election trial of abortion in history, Washington state voters Tuesday narrowly approved a referendum legalizing abortion virtually on demand.

But no abortions can be performed lawfully until Dec. 3 when the measure takes effect.

Only a few restrictions inhibit a woman desiring an abortion.

She must have permission of her husband if they reside together; permission of her guardian if under 18, and she must be less than 16 weeks pregnant when the operation is performed.

Re-Run Costs Smith Judgeship

DOWNIEVILLE (UPI) — Sierra County Superior Court Judge John F. Keene was re-elected Tuesday over challenger Gordon I. Smith, erasing a tie vote in the June primary.

Keene got 771 votes to 497 for Smith. In June the first count showed Smith ahead by 14, but a recount showed the vote was tied.

(Smith, who is district attorney of Sierra County, is a former San Rafael attorney who served as a deputy district attorney in Marin County in 1950-52 and was practicing law in San Rafael when appointed Sierra County Superior Court judge by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight in 1957. He was defeated for election to the judgeship the following year.)

Vote On Major U.S. Senate Posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three potential candidates for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination rolled to easy victories in Tuesday's balloting for U.S. Senate seats.

Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachussetts were re-elected by impressive margins. Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the unsuccessful Democratic presidential nominee in 1968, began a political comeback by capturing the Minnesota Senate seat vacated by retirement of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Adlai E. Stevenson III, who unseated Republican Senator Ralph Tyler Smith in Illinois, emerged as a prospect for vice presidential consideration by the party which twice nominated his father for president.

In California, Democratic Rep. John V. Tunney beat Republican Sen. George Murphy. In New York, Conservative James L. Buckley won the Senate seat from Republican Sen. Charles Goodell, the target for Vice President Agnew's wrath. Goodell ran third behind Buckley and Democratic Rep. Richard L. Ottinger.

Kennedy, who campaigned hard for re-election, received between 60 and 65 per cent of the vote cast in defeating Josiah A. Spaulding, a liberal Republican—a victory margin exceeded by only two Senate candidates in Massachusetts over the past three decades. It was Kennedy's first ballot test since the auto accident 16 months ago that took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne.

The 38-year-old Senate Democratic whip got 71 per cent of the vote in winning election to his first full term in 1964—the year of Lyndon B. Johnson's presidential landslide.

With 35 per cent of 2,019 precincts reporting, Kennedy had 63 per cent of the vote--934,558 to Spaulding's 555,847.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., who said he was the "No. 1 target" of the Nixon administration, was defeated.

The Senate battle between L. Roudebush in Indiana continued to seesaw today with the prospect an official vote canvass might be needed to pinpoint the outcome.

With 4,341 of 4,442 precincts counted, Roudebush held a narrow lead, 869,824 to 869,770.

Republican Rep. J. Glenn Beall Jr., unseated liberal Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., in an upset victory for the administration in Spiro T. Agnew's home state.

With only absentee ballots left to be counted, Beall had 479,985 votes to 450,233 for Tydings.

Following in the footsteps of his famous father, Robert Taft Jr. won a new U.S. Senate seat for the Republicans in Ohio.

Taft, 53, son of the late Robert A. Taft—the Senate's "Mr. Republican" of the late '40s and early '50s — defeated his Democratic opponent, Howard M. Metzenbaum, a wealthy industrialist, by about 70,000 votes on the basis of complete, unofficial returns.

Taft, now a member of the House, won the seat being vacated by retiring Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young. The Republican victory gave them both Ohio Senate seats. William B. Saxbe was elected in 1968.

Final, unofficial returns from all of Ohio's 13,318 precincts:

U. S. Senate: Taft 1,559,114; Metzenbaum 1,489,644.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., steamrolled Lenore Romney's campaign enroute to his third Senate term.

Hart won a third term in such convincing fashion the wife of Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney conceded just over two hours after the polls closed, saying she had "every good wish" for Hart.

Hart, labeled a "radical liberal" by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew during the campaign, said in his victory statement, "I hope I'm not presumptuous in reading the results of this race as an indication that the people of Michigan have not turned sharply to the right."

In Connecticut, Rep. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., 39, an heir to the Squibb Drug fortune from Greenwich, turned back Sen. Thomas Dodd and Rev. Joseph D. Duffey, 38, a Protestant minister who is national chairman of the Liberal Americans for Democratic Action.

Weicker won the Senate race with 439,891 votes, 42 per cent, to Duffey's 358,849, 34 per cent.

Dodd received 24 per cent, 259,153 votes.

Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., swamped Republican Harold "Bud" Wallace, a political newcomer, to retain the seat he has held since 1953.

Returns from less than three per cent of the state's 1,014 precincts gave Mansfield a 1,692-vote lead over Wallace, a Missoula sporting goods dealer.

The early returns showed Mansfield leading, 3,048 to 1,356.

Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss beat back a highly-organized Republican challenge and won re-election for a third term.

President Nixon personally requested the challenger, Rep. Laurence J. Burton, to try to unseat Utah's junior senator. The President and a number of high ranking Republican officials appeared to support Burton during the campaign.

However, Moss captured 56 per cent of the ballots while Burton got nearly 43 per cent. Others went to other parties.

Moss asserted that Burton's campaign against him was "the most lavishly financed and heavily organized senatorial campaign in Utah's history."

Democratic Sen. Howard Cannon, who blames Republicans for unemployment and inflation, won a third term despite attacks from President Nixon and Vice President Spiro Agnew.

Both the president and Agnew campaigned in Nevada for William Raggio, Reno district attorney who opposed Cannon.

With votes from 749 of 794 precincts counted:

Cannon led Raggio by 71,180 to 48,368.

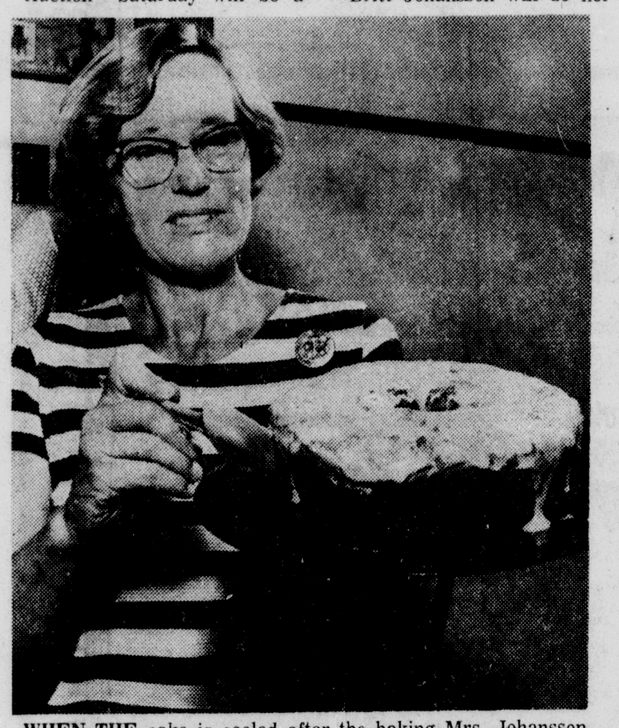
MEASURING OUT the potato flour, Mrs. Britt Johansson prepares to make a Swedish Brandy Cake in her Terra Linda kitchen. A native of Sweden, Mrs. Johansson will prepare some of her cake specialties as one of the Marin Symphony Guild's auction awards.

(I-J photos by Jim Kean)

A Brandy Cake In Authentic Style Of Swedish Cookery

Marin cooks are good cooks, and one of the auction items for the Marin Symphony Guild's giant "Whole Works Auction" Saturday will be a "cake of the month" done by Swedish cooking specialist Mrs. Sven Johansson of Terra Linda.

Britt Johansson will do her Swedish Brandy Cake for the prize, and she shares the recipe from her native country with I-J Food Page readers:



WHEN THE cake is cooled after the baking Mrs. Johansson smoothes on a glaze of butter, powdered sugar and brandy flavoring.

SWEDISH BRANDY CAKE

1¼ cups potato flour
¾ teaspoon baking powder (not double acting)
2 sticks butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
⅛ cup good brandy

(All of the ingredients must be at room temperature.)

Stir butter, potato flour and baking powder in large mixing bowl, until soft and white.

Beat eggs and sugar in a separate bowl until thick. Stir small amounts of the egg mix into the potato flour mix, until all is consumed. Stir in brandy.

Put mix into a well greased and floured angel-food-cake pan. Bake at 350° for 45 minutes. When cool top with glaze.

Glaze:

1 cup powdered sugar
1½ tablespoons brandy
½ tablespoon water
1 tablespoon melted butter

Mix all of the ingredients, except butter, until smooth. Mix in the melted butter. spread glaze over cool cake.

Galveston Gumbo Teamed With Rice

Because Texas is No. 1 in the production of shrimp and rice and produces many of the oysters enjoyed in the United States, it is appropriate to name a shrimp, rice, and oyster recipe in honor of a principal coastal city.

GALVESTON GUMBO

2 pounds raw shrimp, frozen
2 cans (10 ounces each) frozen oysters, undrained
1½ cups chopped onion
1½ cups sliced celery
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
⅓ cup cooking oil
⅓ cup flour
1 can (1 pound, 12 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
1 can (13¾ ounces) chicken broth
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 to 3 dashes liquid hot pepper sauce
1 bay leaf
1 package (10 ouncen) frozen sliced okra, partially thawed and broken apart
6 or 8 servings hot cooked seasoned rice

Thaw frozen shrimp, peel, devein, and wash. Thaw oysters. Cook onion, celery, green pepper, and garlic in oil in large Dutch oven until tender. Blend in flour. Add tomatoes, chicken broth, Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper, and bay leaf; mix and heat. Add liquid hot pepper sauce; cover, simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Uncover. Add shrimp, oysters, and okra; simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until shrimp and okra are tender and mixture is consistency desired. Serve over hot rice. Six to 8 servings.

Name Game

Rib eye steak has many names. A few are Delmonico, Spencer, Boneless Rib, Club, Boneless Club and Country Club. But no matter the name, rib eye steaks come from the meaty eye muscle which is part of the standing rib. Tender and juicy every time, they're a top choice for broiling on the grill.

Make Those Fruit Pastry Desserts Now For Use During The Holidays

During the cool crisp days of fall, it is a good idea to make up delicious pastry desserts with the flavorful fruits of the harvest season, and store them in the freezer for use during the busy holiday season that is approaching. They will be heartily enjoyed on days when you return late from a shopping spree or an afternoon meeting, since you can put them quickly from the freezer into the oven with no work involved.

Many pastry desserts and pies with fillings freeze beautifully and pie shells without filling are equally good for this purpose. Their flavor is usually considered best when they are frozen before baking. And to protect their freshness and flavor, they should be wrapped in heavy foil and sealed tightly. Label the package, too, so the contents won't be forgotten.

The technique of wrapping pastry desserts is a simple one . . . put the pie or tart in the freezer until it is firm, then remove and place on a long sheet of heavy duty foil. Bring two ends of the foil up over the dessert and double fold. Seal sides in the same way and return to freezer.

When the time comes to take the dessert from the freezer and bake it, put it into a preheated oven, using the temperature ordinarily used for that dessert. Just allow an extra 20 to 30 minutes longer than the usual baking time. Test the fruit filling with a toothpick or cake tester to make sure it is soft, and the pie will be ready to be brought forth and be served with all the wonderful aroma and flavor of "fresh from the oven."

Here are recipes for a delicious rosy pear tart and a pie to make and freeze for use weeks ahead.

FRESH PEAR TART

pastry for a 9-inch single crust pie
½ cup finely chopped almonds
1 cup soft stale bread crumbs
4 fresh pears—Bartlett or Russet
⅔ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
½ cup water
2 tablespoons tart red jelly

Line a 9-inch pie plate with the pastry and make a decorative border. Sprinkle the almonds and crumbs in the bottom. Peel, core and halve the pears. Place them in a saucepan with the sugar, lemon juice, rind and water. Simmer, covered for 10 minutes, or until pears are slightly glazed. Remove slices from syrup and cool. Arrange in pie shell. Simmer the syrup until reduced to about ½ cup, add jelly and continue cooking gently until jelly is melted. Cool. Drizzle over the pears. Place pie in freezer. When firm, remove and wrap in heavy duty foil. Label and return to freezer. To serve, remove from freezer, remove foil and place in a 425°F. oven. Bake 40 minutes. If top begins to overbrown, cover with the foil.

A Cook's Tour Of Dairy Case

Dairy foods are vital to meal planning day in and day out and account for almost one-sixth, roughly 17 per cent, of our food dollars.

Butter, cream, cheese and milk are important to menu-planning.

When shopping or cooking, you'll do well to know these facts:

1 pound Cheddar cheese makes 4 cups grated.

1 pound butter equals 2 cups . . . 1 stick equals ½ cup.

1 pint (2 cups) cottage cheese makes 4 servings.

½ pint (1 cup) coffee cream makes 8 to 12 coffee servings.

½ pint (1 cup) whipping cream makes 2 cups when whipped.

1 quart ice cream makes 6 average servings.

Sensibly Below The Knee

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sensible but pretty dress with its hem at or an inch or two below the knee is what's out front in the fashion race for sales this spring. At some dress houses, that is.

Glenn Tompkins, president of Mr. Mort Inc., said it's the look that's been selling well for fall and winter and it's the look that stays for spring, as far as his concern is concerned. Other fashion firms, closing out a marathon series of shows this week for store buyers, have dropped hemlines at least to midcalf.

TOMPKINS IS among the fashion executives who has been out to the stores across the country talking to customers and retailers. And that's one reason he said he reached that fashion stand.

Another reason is money.

"Charge accounts are backed up everywhere," he said. "We've all had a rude awakening in this business."

Evidence of the awakening is the third floor at 498 Seventh Avenue, headquarters of Mr. Mort.

The floor has room for four fashion houses. Three recently folded. Tompkins decried the economics of the business and said the three firms that closed used to do $150 million in sales annually.

In addition to the to-the-knee dress, the Mort collection for spring, designed by Stanley Herman included ankle length novelty dresses for patio wear, the floor length for after five and jumpsuits, some looking like "hard hat" uniforms in striped seersucker.

"We don't want women to talk length," Tompkins said. "We just want them to look pretty — at a price they can afford. Mr. Mort prices, retail, go from $75 to $130. A separate division of the firm repeats many Mr. Mort looks at from $45 to $75.

Among sensible dresses in the collection: a navy white dotted one with jumper look, complete with long white sleeves. Another, also navy, had a raised waist, portrait neckline and three-quarter sleeves.

NECK AND sleeves were rimmed with one-inch wide dainty lace.

A longer dress, to the shoetop, was navy with white accents. It had three decks of ruffling around the hem. The fitted bodice bared the collarbone.

In the Cuddlecoat collection designed by Victor Joris there were lots of mild coats with matching trousers, navy being the favorite color. Others were in novelty prints, including huge abstract swirls in navy and red on white.

Novelties in the collection included an orange floral knicker suit with vest and cape. Also: a brown rainsuit with hooded midi length coat, fringed a la frontiersman's jacket.

"PRAY FOR RAIN," said a sign in the showroom.

Joris also advanced a grass green suit consisting of short shorts and an Ike jacket. "Short shorts are the answer to the mini," he said.

From V. and J. Inc., a separate enterprise, Joris showed a purple matte jersey long dress with bare back.

It clings to the body. "It is impossible to wear anything under this," he said.

IN A MARATHON of New York spring fashion openings the first bare knees appeared in the Cuddlecoat collection, left, by designer Victor Joris, who says that short shorts are the answer to the mini. The collection also included the orange floral knicker suit with vest and cape, center. Stanley Herman, designer for Mr. Mort, featured the knee length, right. (UPI photo)

Don't Call Sebastian Cabot Just A 'Television Actor'

By BARBARA HOSMER

"It's boring to do the same thing over and over. I'm forgetting how to be an actor," said Sebastian Cabot yesterday as he sat spicing up his Bloody Mary and exploding a few myths about himself over lunch at West End Villa in San Rafael.

Cabot the actor was describing his work as "Mr. French," the butler in the high-rating television series, "Family Affair," now in its fifth season.

When offered the chance to do a pilot for the series, he said emphatically "No."

"I'D BEEN fighting my image of the perfect British or New England gentleman for two years after playing Dr. Hyatt in the 'Checkmate' series," Cabot explained," and I said 'no, I don't want to be a fat Arthur Treacher!"

Besides, he was about to leave for Canada, where he often enjoys salmon fishing and hunting. But, he recalled, just before he left his agent called for one last try, promising that the series would never sell anyway.

"I said okay and 10 days later it had sold," Cabot related, and he has yet two years to go on his contract in "Family Affair."

"I do wish we could get some sex into it — neither Brian Keith nor I am allowed to have a real love affair on the show," he remarked, adding that it wasn't realistic. "But of course it's supposed to be a family show."

Calling him either "Mr. French" or a "television actor" is a sure way to anger the London-born Cabot, who is known in England as "Butch." He's not the portly, urbane gentleman his TV fans would believe.

CABOT PROUDLY announced that he has lost 80 pounds in the past year or so, though "I've put back about 15 recently."

Instead he is now a modest eater who likes to tinker with the engines of classic cars, likes to play his clarinet when he's feeling down, claims to be a woman-chaser "just like any normal person," and once considered becoming an operatic tenor. But most of all, Sebastian Cabot is an actor.

Describing himself as "a London Cockney," he worked as a garage mechanic for six months, as assistant chef in a French restaurant in London for two years, and then played the full gamut of roles in repertory theater in England, touring and doing London shows, as well as 60 films.

First it was bit parts, then feature roles over a period of 10 years in road shows, tours and then London theater, playing everything from farce to Restoration comedy to Shakespeare. Among others, he did "The Cherry Orchard" with Peter Ustinov, worked with Orson Welles on BBC radio theater and John Gielgud. He now lives with his wife and children in Los Angeles.

Of film, television, radio and stage work, Cabot chooses radio as his first love.

" YOU HAVE only a voice to convey every emotion," he explained. "On the stage you show it but on radio you can do tricks with the voice. Orson Welles used to say 'you can eat the mike' by moving in very close and using a very quiet tone. And you can do things with the voice that you may not be able to do with the hands or face."

Doing television series, he says, is taking a chance as an actor because it happens so fast. If the actor fluffs a little, the take goes into the can anyway.

"It doesn't matter how poorly the actor performs. So to protect ourselves, if we muff a little then we blow it good — forget lines or something — so they can't go ahead and use it.

"In television today it is all

London Paper Chooses World's Sexiest Female

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Sketch of London said Monday the world's sexiest woman is Jenny Hanley.

Most Americans probably will react by asking "Jenny who?" Up there, ahead of Brigitte Bardot and Raquel Welch, and with Sophia Loren not even in the top 10?

Miss Jenny Hanley is the daughter of British film star Dinah Sheridan and the newspaper—picking its own highly arbitrary list of the "World's Sexiest Women"—said Jenny inherited her mother's grace and poise plus the natural charm of her father, the late actor Jimmy Hanley of British television.

"Stir in her own orange-juice generation's glowing health and uninhibited appetite for life, and you're left with quite a girl," the Sketch said.

The Sketch's list, selected by Shaun Usher, leaned heavily on the entertainment world, with some surprising omissions. They included in numerical order:

2. Diana Ross, American singer.
3. Brigitte Bardot
4. Raquel Welch
5. Nyree Dawn Porter, South African-born British actress.
6. Julie Christie, British actress.
7. Dina Rigg, British actress.
8. Baroness Van Pallandt, "Nina" of the one-time Nina and Frederick singing duo.
9. Betty Anderson, in the "Barbra Parkins" character she played in the American "Peyton Place" television series. 10. Princess Paola of Italy, "a dishy Italian chick . . . (who) keeps getting in hot water and doesn't give a damn."

The newspaper offered readers a chance to disagree with its listing with a postcard poll to be published later.

Good Students Lose Sleep Doing Busy Work, The Unruly Then Copy

DEAR HELEN:

I wish those teachers who assign excessive or extra homework to students as punishment, or "to keep them busy and off the streets" would realize they are missing their mark by a mile. The unruly student won't do the homework. At best, he copies it from the "grind" who dutifully tries to cope with all assigned work, often at the cost of needed sleep.

Each teacher states he is the only one giving homework. Or say "It's not more than a half-hour's assignment" — which stretches into an hour and a half for the conscientious.

I've stopped permitting my child to sit up late on this busy work. Office workers are through after their seven or eight-hour stint. Why must children spend up to 12 hours a day studying? And on non-essentials? Why can't we invoke the child-labor law? — PARENT OF A RED-EYED GRIND

DEAR PARENT:

You'll be happy to learn that more and more teachers are agreeing with you, even though they don't live in your area.

Busy work and those four-hour home grinds are no longer required in a number of schools, because they turn off more students than they turn on.

And so parents are beginning to worry because "Johnny doesn't have enough homework." It's "can't win" time again. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband is a part time policeman. I was surprised and heartbroken at the number of women who throw themselves at cops. Other wives on the force say the same. Even the Captain's wife.

Our home nearly fell apart two years ago because of these dames, and now it's starting again. I always thought policemen were to keep the peace. Why do women pick them for their fun or to break up homes? — MAD WIFE

DEAR MAD:

Don't blame your husband's "peace-work" on his part time job. Women only throw themselves at men who are easy catches. And I rather imagine a policemen has less opportunities than does a fellow in an office full of secretaries. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

For 20 years, I worked for a woman who was worth millions. She often said she was going to remember me in her will. Also the housekeeper and nurse.

It's been three years since she died, and I still haven't got anything. Her son took over the estate and I work for him now. He says nothing was left to us.

Should I believe him, or talk to a lawyer about this? — CHAUFFEUR

DEAR CHAUFFEUR:

You'd better believe him. Had you been included in the will, the executor of the estate would be duty-bound to notify you.

There's a great difference between promises and action. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm shocked at that 67-year-old "practicing Christian" who thinks going naked is acceptable conduct. He sounds like a dirty old man to me. People should be clothed, and that means skirts well below the knee for women and girls. — PROTECTOR OF MORALITY

DEAR PRO:

I'll let another correspondent answer you. He writes: Some people say 'No nudes is good nudes,' but I say nudity is all in the way you look at it. It doesn't stir up bad thoughts unless you've been trained to react that way. — MIKE — H.

money and budget that counts."

Movies, he says, are better for an actor, as there is time to rehearse and do it well.

CABOT, TOO, has going what he calls "my love affair the English language — It's bloody marvelous, really" — and that's why he likes doing the "Sebastian Cabot Calling" in person series of dramatic programs, such as he will present Friday in San Anselmo to open the A.M. Series of the Family Service League at the Tamalpais Theater.

"It's a group of my favorite readings — bits and pieces that are beautifully written.

They include scenes from "Falstaff," "The Importance of Being Earnest," and 'Secret Life of Walter Mitty," — "I'm a great daydreamer, really," the actor added.

SMART SHOPPER

Buying Foods With Nutrition

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Did you know . . .

That you get more calories from a 3½-ounce glass of dessert wine than from two four-inch pancakes or two and a half chocolate chip cookies?

That you get more protein (and calories) from a cup of lima beans than from one hot dog? That you get only 9 to 13 ounces of cooked meat out of a pound of fresh ground beef?

These are a few of the goodies contained in a newly revised booklet of nutritional data published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture under the title, "Nutritive Value of Foods."

Within the 42 pages of this publication are detailed data on 615 common food products. The information includes the percentage of water and quantities of other ingredients in a typical serving.

THE OTHER ingredients include food energy (calories), protein, fat, carbohydrate, calcium, iron, vitamin A value, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and ascorbic acid (Vitamin C).

As an attraction, fatty acids are also listed, with a breakdown for saturated and unsaturated kinds.

In addition, there is a table of Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances listing the chief nutrients for people of varied ages and sizes and a table showing the amount of shrinkage that occurs when meat is cooked.

With the information in this booklet, a consumer theoretically can figure out the exact daily nutritional needs of a family and make up a shopping list to reflect those needs as well as personal tastes.

FEW SHOPPERS have the time or inclination to go this far largely because it would make the task too boring. Shopping is already boring and difficult enough, especially at a time when prices are rising so steadily.

But the publication nevertheless has enough information to surprise most consumers about how much water, fat, protein and other ingredients are hidden behind fancy packages and labels that say as little as possible without violating state and Federal laws.

With this information, a smart shopper can learn quite a few secrets that could save money. The principal device is the art of substituting less expensive food items for more expensive ones of comparable nutritional value.

This usually boils down to a search for cheaper sources of protein, such as the substitution of fish, cheese, eggs and poultry for red meat when price levels dictate such action.

Eating habits and personal tastes, however, often stand in the way of efforts to vary menus and cut household expenses. This booklet could provide a housewife with the ammunition to support such changes and convince others of their value in relieving the pinch on pocketbooks.

MANY PEOPLE prefer to fill in the hit-or-miss nutritional gaps with vitamin and mineral pills. But this can be more expensive than getting them naturally through carefully selected foods.

Iron tonics, for example, are consumed by countless thousands of people without realizing that they are also buying as much alcohol as they would get in an equal amount of champagne, at more than champagne prices.

If you are looking for cheaper sources of vitamins and minerals, your first step should be to send 30 cents to the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, for a copy of "Nutritive Value of Foods"

Jet Age Turkey

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Turkey is keeping pace with the jet age, as it goes for the top place in meat consumption in the nation, say a poultry science technologist.

Dr. Glenn Froning of the University of Nebraska said that today the per capita consumption of turkey has leaped more than 300 per cent over what it was just 25 years ago.

Demos Hold State House Edge

By WILLIAM B. MEAD

NELSON ROCKEFELLER
To a fourth term

DALE L. BUMPERS
Defeats Nelson's brother

JIMMY CARTER
Succeeds Lester Maddox

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats won a majority of the nation's governorships Tuesday in a sweep bound to affect the 1972 presidential election and the makeup of Congress for a decade.

The Democratic statehouse gains covered every region of the country, reversed a virtual GOP monopoly on governorships of the largest states and retired well known Republican Govs. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas and Claude R. Kirk Jr. of Florida.

The GOP went into the election with 32 governors to the Democrats' 18, but the results nearly reversed the margin.

Of the 35 governor races, Democrats won 20 and were leading in two. Republicans won 12 and were leading in one. Not counting the three undecided races, the net Democratic gain was 10 governorships, enough for control of 28 statehouses.

Former Gov. George C. Wallace, running as a Democrat with no Republican opposition, easily defeated two independents to regain the governorship of Alabama.

Democrat William Egan was leading in Alaska while Republican Gov. William G. Milliken led in Michigan. The third undecided race, Rhode Island, was so close the outcome hung on absentee ballots, although Democratic Gov. Frank Licht held a slight edge.

Democrats won Republican-held governorships in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Florida, Nebraska, Arkansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Idaho, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Nevada. The GOP took Connecticut and Tennessee from the Democrats.

Democratic governors also were elected in Maine, Maryland, South Carolina, Texas, Alabama, Georgia, Kansas and Hawaii, seats the party already held. The seat in Georgia went to Jimmy Carter. Incumbent Gov. Lester Maddox, who could not succeed himself ran successfully as lieutenant governor.

GOP victories retained the governorships of New York, California, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Iowa, Colorado, Wyoming, Arizona and Oregon.

The gains strengthened Democratic organizing power for the 1972 presidential elections and meant that in a majority of states, Democratic governors will be able to approve or veto redistricting of congressional and state legislative districts. New districts must be drawn next year in line with the 1970 census. Tbse population figures will control districting for 10 years.

Republicans went into the election holding the governorships of all the seven most populous states except Texas.

But the Democrats held Texas while ousting the GOP in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Florida. Republican incumbents Ronald Reagan of California and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York were re-elected in two most populous states.

Philadelhpia industrialist Milton J. Shapp defeated Republican Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick for the Pennsylvania governorship. In Ohio, former rep. John J. Gilligan, a Democrat, beat Republican State Auditor Roger Cloud.

Kird, hurt by feuds with fellow Republicans, lost the Florida race to Democratic State Sen. Reuben O'Donovan Askew. Winthrop Rockefeller, seeking a third term in Arkansas, was ousted by Dale L. Bumpers, a country lawyer who first upset former Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the Democratic primary.

'Otello' Due Review At Ross Center

Verdi's opera "Otello" will be previewed by Stephanie von Buchau tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the Francis Young Art Gallery at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

This is the final program in the fall series of perviews sponsored by the San Francisco Opera Action of Marin under the chairmanship of Mrs. Carl G. Brimmekamp of Kentfield.

A native of San Francisco and resident of Larkspur, Miss von Buchau is a graduate of San Francisco State College. Music and dance critic of "San Francisco" magazine since 1964 and music critic for "Contact" since 1962, she has written program notes for the San Francisco Opera and articles for "Opera News and other magazines such as "Hi-Fidelty — Musical America."

She plays classical guitar and has special interest in opera, Japanese music and rock 'n' roll.

Refreshments will be served and libretti, opera records and opera tickets will be sold.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Edmond C. Ward of Kentfield.

MUSIC REVIEW

'Lovely Ladies' All Tinsel And Glitter

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — As a lavishly mounted production, "Lovely Ladies, Kind Gentlemen" is a real winner. But I can't give two cents for the musical's "innards."

The musical, based on "Teahouse of the August Moon," arrived last night at the Curran Theater. It is the kind of Christmas tree ornament that best typifies San Francisco Civic Light Opera productions — all tinsel and glitter. It's a shame, too.

"Lovely Ladies," does offer just a little more — namely a sterling performance from Kenneth Nelson as Sakini, also a few haunting musical numbers, enchanting choreography in the Oriental style, dazzling costumes, swift moving sets and equally fine lighting. Save for Nelson, these really are the naments on the tree.

Where the musical really fails is in its story line. John Patrick, who won a Pulitzer Prize for "Teahouse" in 1953, has written the musical book, but it seems tied to another time when a kooky team of occupation soldiers brought prosperity to a tiny village on Okinawa.

Consequently, composer Stan Freeman and lyricist Franklin Underwood had a nearly impossible task, turning out a lot of nostalgic fluff instead of real musical winners. Only five or six of the numbers are really first rate — Nelson's big three, "With a Snap of My Finger," "One Side of World," and "Lovely Ladies, Kind Gentlemen."

Also the other big production numbers "Find Your Own Cricket" and the teahouse scene come off very well.

As I have mentioned earlier Nelson is the real bread winner. Save for him the rest of the cast — all unknowns which is somewhat of a puzzler in such expensively staged production — is mediocre. Granted Ron Husmann as Captain Fisby and Remak Ramsay as the kooky psychiatrist do have a few memorable moments — such as Ramsay's "Garden Guaracho" routine and the pair's "Call Me Back" with Nelson.

While Eleanor Calbes is as pretty as a picture as Lotus Blossom, the Geisha who has been given to Fisby by Sakini, her voice has just too much vibato and Bernie West as Col. Wainwright Purdy III has been ruined by a poor amplification system.

But somehow, despite all of its faults, "Kind Ladies" is the best of the season's offerings since it is the only original production — the others are from successful runs elsewhere primarily Broadway. But the major disappointment, why not an original book for the first big West Coast musical in a couple of seasons?

How it fares when it leaves the Curran for an intended Broadway booking late in December will be interesting to observe. Several of the numbers should be cut to keep the two-act musical within two and one-half hours.

More Money Means Much More Meat

TOKYO (UPI) —Japan's meat consumption has been increasing 10 to 15 per cent annually for several years, the government's Agriculture-Forestry Ministry reports.

Japan consumed 876,000 tons of meat in 1965. In 1969 the consumption reached 1.3 million pounds in this nation of 100 million people, averaging 26 pounds per person. The ministry said Japanese are eating more meat because their salaries are increasing.

Washington Loss For Lower Voting Age

SEATTLE (UPI) — Washington voters Tuesday declined to give 19-year-olds the right to vote even though the proposal had been backed by both Democrat and Republican leaders.

With 97 per cent of the precincts reporting, the measure was rejected by 54 per cent of the voters. The vote was 409,165 to 346,356.

Dellums Wins Race Despite Agnew Blast

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California's 35 incumbent congressmen easily were returned to office today while two Democrats and a Republican won in open districts giving the GOP a one-seat increase in the House of Representatives.

Ronald Dellums, a Democrat and Negro member of the Berkeley City Council; George Danielson, also a Democrat and state senator, and GOP Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey of Brawley were elected to Congress.

Dellums had been singled out for attack by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. In his victory speech Dellums thanked the Vice President for the "national publicity" Agnew gave the campaign when he accused Dellums of being an apologist for the Black Panthers.

Dellums' GOP opponent was 25-year-old John E. Healy, the youngest congressional candidate in the nation in either party. He is a veteran of the Vietnam War.

Danielson was elected in a heavily Democratic district represented by Rep. George Brown. He was challenged by Republican Tom McMann. Brown did not seek reelection because he was the unsuccessful candidate in the June primary for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination. He lost the nomination to Rep. John V. Tunney of Riverside who defeated GOP Sen. George Murphy Tuesday.

A special election will have to be called to fill the state Senate vacancy created by Danielson going to Congress.

Veysey defeated David A. Tunno, a former administrative aide to Tunney, for the seat given up to Tunney in his bid for the U.S. Senate.

Veysey's victory increased the GOP congressional delegation to 18 and reduced the Democratic margin to 20.

Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Arizona senator, was elected in a special 1967 contest to fill the vacancy created when Rep. Ed Reinecke was named lieutenant governor, and was re-elected Tuesday.

Reinecke replaced Robert H. Finch who resigned as lieutenant governor to become secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in the Nixon administration.

Reps. John Rousselot and John G. Schmitz, both members of the John Birch Society, easily were elected over their Democratic opponents.

Rousselot was challenged by Mrs. Myrlie Evers, widow of murdered civil rights leader Medgar Evers. The East Los Angeles County district is overwhelmingly Republican.

Schmitz represents President Nixon in the heavily Republican Orange County district which includes the Western White House at San Clemente.

Soprano Is Excellent In Benefit

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A well performed program of French, English, German and Argentine art songs was offered by mezzo soprano Claudine Carlson last night as the annual benefit for Dominican College Music Department's Isaac Stern Music Scholarship Fund.

The second half for me was better than the first half, partly because the Schubert and Richard Strauss lieder and Ginastera's Argentine songs seemed to show her capacities to greater advantage, and partly because in moving to the front of the Angelico Hall Auditorium after intermission I found better acoustics.

In her opening group of three of Debussy's Chansons de Bilitis — works of unparalleled French genius in the art song form — Miss Carlson revealed a voice of exceptionally rich quality in the low register — so much so that she sounded almost like a contralto. However, though she has the sensitivity to handle the innumerable subtle shadings of Debussy's musical idiom, these songs would have been more effective in an intimate setting than in this large hall.

These songs, immediately followed by three more Debussy songs from his "Fetes Galantes," Set II, made for too much delicacy for beginning numbers in a recital. More variety might have been achieved through a livelier interpretation of "The Innocents" and "The Faun."

Miss Carlson's third group of contemporary American composer Samuel Barber's Hermit Songs — 10 of them ranging from religious to folksy in mood — was remarkable for showing a surprising high register and ability to glide easily through the wide intervals in her whole register.

Not evident until she sang the Schubert and Strauss lieder was the full volume of her quite powerful voice and her dramatic potentialities, the last most notable in Schubert's "Gretchen Am Spinnrade" and "Der Doppelganger."

The high point of the evening for me was her group of Strauss lieder, which she sang exceptionally well.

In the final group of the Argentine composer Alberto Ginastera's impressionistic songs inspired by popular themes, the lullaby "Arrano" was enchanting for the fine spun threat of tone she achieved.

The singer made a pleasing appearance, had poise and expressed mood well through facial expression as well as voice, but she needs more freedom in hands and arms.

For an encore she sang so well a popular French song telling the good and bad side of Paris that I believe she could be a success as a chanteuse!

Miss Carlson's very good accompanist was the kell-known pianist Alden Gilchrist.

Youth Referred To Probation

The case of Mark Christopher Saterlie, 19, of Mill Valley has been referred to the probation department for a report on whether he is acceptable to Marin Juvenile Court.

Saterlie was arrested Oct. 25 at the Pepperland dance hall in San Rafael on suspicion of possessing hashish. The youth had fallen outside the dance hall and was being treated for a cut head when the suspected drug fell out of his pocket.

He is to return to municipal court Nov. 17.

'Toast' Tradition In Medieval Times

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UPI) — Ever wonder why you "toast" someone?

It started this way:

In medieval England the wassail bowl was the classic drink for the Christmas-New Year's season, and for nourishment and decoration slices of toasted bread were always a part of the bowl, according to researchers at Rheingold Breweries. Since it was customary to drink to the good health of all those present soon these good wishes were referred to as toasts.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Most greeting cards have a retail lifetime of 12 to 18 months, but one simple little one has been going strong for 29 years.

The card has sold more than 12 million copies reports Hallmark. And the price is the same today —a nickel —as it was in 1941. The card is die cut in the shape of a cart loaded with flowers and the ouside caption reads, "To let you know I'm thinking of you." Inside, their's a folksy verse.

Stumbling Blocks To Property Fraud Policy

By PAT ANGLE

The Sausalito City Council ran into a wall of legal and practical problems last night when it attempted to provide some protection against fraud for buyers of property in the city.

The council looked with favor on an ordinance which would require a seller of a residential building to provide a prospective purchaser with a record of any city action which would affect the property.

And the council's enthusiasm for the regulation was seconded by Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt who agreed with suggestions from councilmen that the ordinance be expanded to include unimproved land and commercial property.

The intent of the ordinance, according to Borgwardt, would be to give the buyer "greater assurance that the property (he buys) can be used for the purpose he intends."

The report would include any action by the council or planning commission affecting land use, such as zoning and authorized use. For example Borgwardt said that if a seller tried to sell a piece of property which was zoned only for duplexes, the report would show this fact, so the buyer could not be led to believe he could use it for apartments.

Borgwardt suggested the city also include whether or not a lot is a legal subdivision in the record. "This ordinance will go a long way toward eliminating some of the problems we have experienced in the past," the planning director said.

The cities of Tiburon and San Anselmo have enacted similar regulations, Borgwardt said.

He also assured the council that the basic information which the reports would contain would be readily available and would not take much time or expense to compile.

Bpt, as the council's enthusiasm appeared to be growing, City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr put a damper on the proceedings by saying Tiburon and San Anselmo have found the ordinance unenforceable.

"Property can be exchanged without the city's knowledge," St. Cyr said. "A person who would comply with the ordinance would be the individual with nothing to hide," the city manager continued. "It would be the person with something to hide from the buyer who would not comply."

A suggestion that notice of the ordinance — if it is adopted — be sent to all Marin real estate firms would not be effective, according to St. Cyr, since land in Sausalito is sold by firms out of the county and state.

The city manager said the county recorder's office which does record all changes of title has refused to provide the checkpoint which would be necessary to put teeth into the ordinance.

In addition, Attorney Philip Torre, substituting for Leland H. Jordan, said the state law which allows such ordinances states only that residential buildings can be included. Torre said he did not know if the city could extend the protection to commercial and unimproved land.

"In other words," Councilman Robin Sweeny commented wryly, "it is just better to let people gouge each other. We've had case after case where abuses are just dreadful, but it doesn't seem we can do anything," she added.

The council, still approving the intent of the proposed ordinance, asked the city staff to study the problems involved and come up with recommendations at its Dec. 1 meeting.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

POLICE STATION — Awarded the contract for remodeling and expansion of the city's police department to Hartmann Building Contractors of San Rafael whose low bid was $56,666. Since the price of recent fire department renovation and the police station improvements was considerably more than originally estimated, the council agreed to take $17,666 from city reserve funds to complete the work. In addition, the council voted to add $15,000 earmarked for corporation yard expansion, to the station renovation.

YACHT CLUB GATE — Approved the design of a security gate structure for the Sausalito Yacht Club.

PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT — After considerable discussion, continued until Nov. 17 a hearing on a planning commission recommendation that planned unit development (condominium-type developments) be included as a conditionally-permitted use in a single family residential distrct.

MORE STUDY — Referred back to the city staff for more study a proposal from the plannng commission that the city council handle only appeals of planning commission decisions and planning items which have great impact on the city. At present all commission decisions must have council approval.

RIGHT-OF-WAY — Set Nov. 17 as the date for a public hearing on a conditional use permit request from Northwestern Pacific Railroad to provide parking on the railroad right-of-way located between Johnson and Pine streets.

Petaluma Voter's Purse Snatched

A 66-year-old Petaluma voter's purse was snatched yesterday at 12:20 p.m. as she left the polls at the Petaluma School Administration Building, Fifth and B streets.

Harriet M. Donnelly, 4 Fifth Street, told police a young man grabbed her purse from behind and fled through the school district parking lot. The purse contained her November Social Security check for $110.

She described the thief as being 18 or 19 years old, with long brown hair and wearing a short, blue jacket.

Flood Signs Senators Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Outfielder Curt Flood, who dropped out of baseball last season to bring legal suit against the reserve clause, has signed to play with the Washington Senators, owner Robert Short announced today.

Short said Flood, the former St. Louis Cardinal star, signed his new contract Tuesday night at a meeting in New York. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn approved the signing. The contract was a standard one signed by players with the reserve clause binding Flood to the Senators included, but it was stipulated that neither side would be prejudiced in future legal action on Flood's suit.

No money figure was given.

After signing, Flood left for Copenhagen, Denmark, where he has business interests. Short said he plans to return to the United States next week and then immediately report to St. Petersburg, Fla., where the Senators have a team in the Florida Winter Instructional League.

In Florida, the 32-year-old outfielder, who has a lifetime batting average of .293, will work out on his own, getting in shape for next season.

Short said Flood was confident his year's layoff would not create a problem.

He quoted the new Senator as saying, "Maybe being away a year has done me a lot of good. I'll be fresh and ready for action. Part of my hangup was mental fatigue. I don't see any problem in getting in stride again."

Washington manager Ted Williams was pleased at getting Flood, Short reported.

He quoted Williams as commenting, "I am delighted to have a player of Flood's stature. He is going to be a great asset. The fact he is going to Florida to get in shape is proof he's eager and ready to go."

Flood refused to play last year after being traded by the Cards to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Flood was officially traded yesterday to Washington for three rather obscure minor league players. Going to the Phils were outfielder Greg Goossen, first baseman Gene Martin and pitcher Jeff Terpko.

KEY TO THE OFFENSE

T inda High School's hopes for a fifth conse Marin County Athletic League football ch onship depend largely on the running of tailback Matt Bowman, shown breaking into the open against Novato earlier this year. Bowman, who will lead the Trojans against San Rafael Friday night for the league title, has gained at least 100 yards in each of his last two games.

FOR SAINTS

Minor Leaguer Replaces Fears

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The New Orleans Saints, the most successful expansion football team in the National Football League history until they began stumbling this year, start over today with a 37-year-old minor league coach.

J. D. Roberts, coach of the Richmond, Va., team in the Atlantic Coast Football League, was hired Tuesday to replace Tom Fears.

Young oil millionaire John Mecom Jr., owner of the Saints, telephoned Fears to relieve him of the job he has held since the Saints started in 1967.

Roberts, a former Oklahoma all-America guard, was a surprise replacement since he had coached only the Richmond farm club and the Quantico Marine team and had a 1-7 record this season. His only other pro experience was as a player for one year in the Canadian League, as a scout for the New York Jets for two years and as assistant coach in the Saint organization.

"It was the biggest shock of my life," Fears said after being fired. "I had no inkling of a change."

But rumors of a shakeup were widespread as the Saints lurched along with a 1-5-1 record this season after winning a record 12 games in their first three years.

Roberts' appointment was effective immediately. The ex-Marine, known as a tough disciplinarian, was scheduled to take over the team today and get it ready for Sunday's game with Detroit.

Fears said he would "just sit back and think for a while."

"I'll be gone for the next few days," he said. "I just want to be by myself."

He said he did not want to join any other team this season. "It's too late in the year," Fears said.

The dismissal came just two days after Fears had been persented his Football Hall of Fame ring during halftime ceremonies of the New Orleans-Los Angeles game. He was named to the Hall of Fame this year in recognition of his receiving when he and Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin, playing for the Los Angeles Rams, made up one of the most feared passing combinations in football.

Fears, who was an assistant at Atlanta and earlier under Vince Lombardi at Green Bay, got his first head coaching job here. In three and a half seasons he had a 13-33-3 record.

CY YOUNG WINNER

Gibson Looks For Another Big Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, the National League's Cy Young Award winner for the second time in three years and already signed to a $150,000 contract, believes he can achieve the sixth 20-victory season of his career in 1971.

"It's a great honor," said the 34-year-old right-hander who posted a 23-7 record during the 1970 season. "Im' looking forward to winning 20 games — at least that many — next season. My arm is fine and I just like to keep on winning as much as I can."

IN 1968

Gibson, who won his first National League pitcher of the year award when he had a 22-9 record in 1968, was the first-place choice of 23 of the 24 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America who participated in the voting. He also received one second-place vote for a total of 118 points.

Gaylord Perry, who had a 23-13 record for the San Francisco Giants, received the other first-place vote and finished second with 51 points. He was followed by Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs with 16 points, Dave Giusti of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Jim Merritt of the Cincinnati Reds, each with eight points; Gary Nolan of the Reds with five; Tom Seaver of the New York Mets with four, Wayne Granger of the Reds with three, Carl Morton of the Montreal Expos with two and Luke Walker of the Pirates with one.

SECOND BEST

"I think 1970 was the second best season of my career — second to 1968," said Gibson, who signed his 1971 contract on the final day of last season. "The season was somewhat disappointing because we were never in the race and winning the pennant and getting into the World Series is what it is all about. But you can't win all the time. You just have to keep trying."

Gibson needs only 10 victories to reach the 200-mark for his career but is unimpressed at the approaching milestone.

"I don't have any special goals along those lines and winning 200 doesn't mean too much to me," he said. "It's not the statistics that count. It's winning as many games as you can."

TWO OTHERS

Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who won the award in 1963, 1965 and 1966, and Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers, who won the AL Award in 1968 and shared it in 1969, are the only other pitchers honored more than once.

Perry, carrying an extra-heavy load because of an injury to Juan Marichal, pitched 329 innings last season while Jenkins' 22-16 record made him the only major league pitcher to win 20 games in each of the last four seasons.

DIFFERENT VERSIONS

Rush Is Out As Coach

BOSTON (UPI)—Coach Clive Rush has left the Boston Patriots, but there's a question over how.

Team President Bill Sullivan made the announcement Tuesday: "We're granting him (Rush) a leave of absence to preserve his health and not to damage it further."

Rush, who had to miss half of last Sunday's contest with Buffalo because of a fast heartbeat and dizzyness, had a different version.

"I'll never coach this football team again," Rush told UPI. "I resigned totally as of midnight last night. The club announcement is incorrect."

Top assistant Johnny Mazur was picked to head the Pats.

The Pats sport a 1-6 record in Rush's second year of coaching. Their last loss was a 45-10 whipping at the hands of the Buffalo Bills. Rush was stricken with tachycardia Sunday morning and was told by his doctor to rest during the game.

He returned to the bench just before the half with the Pats losing 24-0.

The decision was made Monday night in a meeting between Rush and Sullivan. When it was announced, Sullivea said Rush "doesn't feel he should give up," although he said the coach would also give up his position as Patriot vice president.

"If you want to know why I resigned, you'll have to ask Dan Marr," Rush said. Marr is one of 10 Patriot owners who has been closely following the club's activities.

Mazur, a 40-year-old former Marine officer, said he wouldn't fool around in his management of the team. "I'm probably not intelligent enough to use big words," Mazur said, "so I use my little short words. They usually get the job done."

A one-time Notre Dame quarterback who was offensive coordinator for the Bills seven years, he said Joe Kapp and Mike Taliaferro would remain his regular quarterbacks "in that order for now."

"I don't have time to change everything," he said. "We'll go with what we have."

Mazur admitted "every assistant wants to be a head coach," but added, "I feel I'm still his friend" in reference to Rush.

38-Year-Old Boivin Retires From Hockey

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—The Minnesota North Stars announced Tuesday that defenseman Leo Boivin, sixth among active National Hockey League players in longevity, has retired after 19 seasons as a professional.

Minnesota General Manager Wren Blair said Boivin, 38, will join the North Stars' executive staff in the scouting department.

"Though Leo spent only the last 1½ of his 19 years in the game with us," said Blair, "He made a fine impression with the North Stars. I feel a personal responsibility to assist him in developing a career in the executive end of the sport."

Boivin was traded by Pittsburgh to Minnesota midway through the 1968-69 season. He played exactly 100 regular season and playoff games with the Stars and was voted most valuable Minnesota defenseman last season by newsmen who cover the squad.

Lamonica Laughing At Bruises

OAKLAND (UPI) — Daryle Lamonica has a lot of bruises these days and he says they feel great.

It's just that pain is a relative thing and the big Oakland Raiders quarterback last week had back spasms that almost kept him out of last Sunday's game with Kansas City, a hysterical contest that wound up in a 17-all tie.

"I had to laugh," he said Tuesday as the team drilled for Sunday's game here with Cleveland. "Everybody was complaining about their bruises today and all I could think of was how glad I was just to have them to worry about. Those muscle spasms were murder. I didn't sleep for three nights."

With Lamonica back in high gear, the Raiders are seriously concerned only about Hewritt Dixon, who has bruised ribs. He hopes to go against the Browns.

His replacement, Marv Hubbard, rambled for 98 yards against the Chiefs. But Dixon is so versatile with his blocking and pass-catching that the Raiders still need him in there.

Senior Bowl Players Get $250 Pay Increase

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Players in the Senior Bowl college all-star football game, who lose the remainder of their college scholarships, will get a $250 pay increase for the second consecutive year.

Members of the winning team in the North-South All-Star game Jan. 9 will receive $1,500 and the losers will get $1,250 each, Rea Schuessler, Senior Bowl general manager, announced Tuesday.

Schuessler said players who participate in the annual classic forfeit the remainder of their college athletic scholarships because of an NCAA ruling. The Senior Bowl is, for most players, their first participation in professional football.

"We feel that this NCAA regulation is unjust," Schuessler said. "After all, players who are invited to the Senior Bowl have completed their obligation to their schools and plan no further competition in spring sports."

The increased payments will allow the players to complete their final college academic semester even without benefit of the aborted scholarships, the Senior Bowl manager said.

Schuessler also took his annual jab at the American Bowl All-Star game, played in Tampa, Fla., and the Hula Bowl, in Honolulu, which conflict with the Senior Bowl.

Although the Senior Bowl is 21 years old, the NCAA refuses to recognize it but certifies the American Bowl and Hula Bowl, Schuessler said.

"We have no quarrel with either the Tampa or Honolulu games," Schuessler said. "But, if the Senior Bowl . . . has to be penalized by the various NCAA rules and bylaws, I think it only fair that any other . . . all-star contest should have to play by the same rules."

Nolan: 49ers Vulnerable To Big Play

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nobody is driving much on the San Francisco 49ers this season, but they're still vulnerable to the big play.

In the last two weeks, for instance, Floyd Little went for an 80-yard touchdown scamper for Denver and Donnie Anderson went 54 yards on a quick opener for Green Bay.

Forty Niners this Sunday go into the madhouse called Wrigley Field to play the Chicago Bears, who are 3-4 after beating Atlanta. The Falcons are the one team that has beaten San Francisco. The Prospectors have won only one of their last 10 games in Chicago, with one tie.

And Coach Dick Nolan is worried that the big play could trip up his team. He especially noted Dick Gordon, the speedy Bear outside receiver, and Cecil Turner, who turns a lot of runbacks into touchdowns.

The Chicago offense, moreover, presents a lot of shifts and changing formations also geared to the big play.

Warriors In Cow Palace

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors, who play at home in many arenas, journey to the Cow Palace tonight at 8 o'clock to tangle with tough Baltimore.

They were at the Oakland Coliseum for Monday's clinker against New York—their third straight loss.

Coach Al Attles has "walking pneumonia" and won't even suit up for tonight's encounter.

San Francisco won its only previous game against the Bullets, 125-115, but that was when Nate Thurmond was going well.

"We watched our videotape of the New York game," said Attles, "and Nate didn't play that badly. He didn't get many shots, just tips when he didn't control the ball.

"He's trying too hard. He's having a bad time right now, and everything is going wrong. He wants to prove he deserves his salary."

Britain's Bugner Wins Decision Over Scrap Iron

LONDON (UPI)—Joe Bugner, Britain's 20-year-old heavyweight hope, gained his 29th victory in 31 bouts Tuesday night by easily outpointing George "Scrap Iron" Johnson but failed to please a 5,000 crowd at the Royal Albert Hall.

The crowd, which greeted the appearance of the rotund American from Los Angeles, with a certain amount of laughter, cheered Johnson as he left the ring after having given Bugner some of the warmest rounds of his short career.

Johnson stands only 5-feet-9 and conceded every physical advantage except weight to the 6-3 Hungarian-born Bugner. The American weighed 225-1-4 pounds to Bugner's 213-1-2 pounds.

Welsh referee James Brimmell scored the 10-round bout 49-3-4 to 47-3-4 in Bugner's favor —a margin of nine rounds to one.

Aaron Wins Gehrig Award

ATLANTA (UPI) — Outfielder Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, who became the eighth player in major league history to reach the 8,000-hit plateau this season, was named today as winner of the Lou Gehrig Memorial Award by Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Aaron, a 17-year major league veteran, is the 16th winner of the award named in memory of Hall of Famer Gehrig, who was a member of the fraternity at Columbia University.

Healthy Cal Bears Work Out In Rain

BERKELEY (UPI) — The California Bears worked out in the rain Tuesday while getting ready for Saturday's tiff at Oregon State.

Coach Ray Willsey said all starters came out of the upset win over USC in good condition.

Foreman Knocks Out Foe In Third Round

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—George Foreman, the world's third-ranked heavyweight boxer, knocked out Lou Bailey of Peoria, Ill., in the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder Tuesday night.

Foreman, a 6-3, 215-pounder who won the 1968 Olympic championship in Mexico City, is unbeaten in 23 fights.

BOATING

Stretching Season For You, Your Boat

By STAN DAVIES

The boating season in the northern states is so short that care of boats and motors becomes a major consideration. Costs must be kept down, because the price of maintaining a boat, pro-rated against the time available for its use, gives the distinct impression that boating is an expensive sport.

To get full worth from a boat it must be used as early as possible in the spring and as late as possible in the fall. One way to accomplish this end in the fall is to take it along if you go hunting. Water skiers keep in shape much later now by wearing "exposure suits" or scuba divers' "wet" suits to keep warm.

Stretching the boating season into a chilly autumn is a topic many people must think about, because here are some of the questions I've been asked:

Q. Now that the mosquitoes and flies have gone, I want to take a wilderness trip in Northern Minnesota. What motor do you suggest for a canoe?

A. Why take a motor at all? There's a strong move afoot to ban outboards in many areas to try to preserve their wilderness qualities. You'll find this in many state and national parks. If you feel compelled to take a motor it should not be anything more than the lightest 1½ hp kicker.

Q. I've got an 11-foot aluminum boat. Will it carry a deer carcass, if I get one?

A. Just be very careful. I've been keeping unofficial statistics (from 1949) of such accidents. Since then, 28 deer hunters have lost their lives doing what you plan.

Q. I have a canvas "camper top" for my big runabout for use in cold weather. I'm told it's illegal to operate with it up. Is this so?

A. As long as you can keep a proper lookout for other boats, the regulations don't care if you are carrying a circus tent. But if you should get into an accident and someone proves that you couldn't see out properly, you could be in trouble.

Q. How do you get "nonskid" paint for the inside of an aluminum boat?

A. First the aluminum must be coated with zinc chromate primer, available at aluminum boat dealers or airplane supply houses. This gives other type paints something to stick to. Then apply two coats of exterior boat paint, and before the second coat dries sprinkle it with well washed, fine sand. One aluminum boat manufacturer uses a popular brand of fleck paint. His non-skid surface is just flecks of paint on paint.

Q .There's a long stretch of river to our camp. Often we are held up by slow boats. What can we do?

A. You can be patient. The guy you are overtaking has the right of way, and if you do him any harm in passing, you are responsible. You might buy a loud hailer and ask him . . . very courteously . . . to let you pass. But it's certain you will run into someone who'll refuse.

Q. I want to hide an old aluminum boat in the woods, but it leaks. The rivets are loose. How do you tighten them?

A. Get an auto-body type dolly block, or any other heavy piece of iron for backing, place it on the head of the rivet and tap the expanded end (usually inside the boat) with the ball end of a machinist's ball-peen hammer. This will expand the rivet throughout its length so that it will fill the hole. If rivets have to be replaced get ones large enough to be a snug fit in the hole before you try to expand them.

Q. Must I take along lifejackets in a boat I'm taking on a hunting trip?

A. The law says "Yes," one for each person in the boat. Also you need them more when the water's cold. Even in small lakes one can become numb and even pass out from the cold very quickly. Therefore, stay close to shore so that you can get there fast if your boat should tip over. Heavy hunting clothes and big boots are a hazard, too. Be careful.

Plunkett Again Passes 2,000 Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) – For the third straight season, Stanford quarterback Jim Plunkett has surpassed the 2,000-yard mark in total offense.

Plunkett, all-time NCAA career total offense leader, has piled up 2,156 yards in eight games this year to dominate latest Pacific Eight figures with a hefty 269.5 yard per contest average.

There's a terrific battle for second with Sonny Sixiller of Washington 222.3 just ahead of Dennis Dummit of UCLA (222.1).

Plunkett is also the top passer with 248.1 yards per game. Sixkiller (230.3) and Dummit (225.5) are challenging the big Stanford signal-caller in this department, too.

The battle for rushing honors continues to be hectic with USC's Clarence Davis (89.9 yards per game) narrowly ahead of Bobby Moore of Oregon (88.5) and Dave Schilling Oregon State (87.1).

Bob Newland of Oregon has grabbed 48 passes to lead that department while Tom Blanchard of Oregon is batting at a 41.2 per punt average.

Stanford's Eric Cross is the new punt return leader with a 13.3 average while USC's Ron Ayala, Washington State's Lionel Thomas and Oregon State's John Lilly share the interception lead with six steals apiece.

Ben Schwartzwalder Is UPI Coach Of Week

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Two months ago, Ben Schwartzwalder was saying he hoped "by next year, maybe we'll be a football team."

The Syracuse University coach beat his estimate by 11 months. Riding a four-game win streak that included an upset win over Penn State and a 43-13 clobbering of Pittsburgh Saturday, Schwartzwalder was named United Press International College Football Coach-of-the-Week today.

When he made the statement about "next year," Schwartzwalder was watching an Aug. 29 practice session by a team that had been rocked in previous weeks by the loss of eight black players in a racial dispute that began with a demand Syracuse hire a black coach.

Among the players lost were the two leading Orange ground-gainers—Al Newton and Greg Allen—and two defensive starters. Syracuse opened the season with lopsided losses to Houston, Kansas and even Illinois "We were just a pretty incompetent outfit," Schwartzwalder admits.

The veteran of 22 years at Syracuse describes what happened next as being a case of "the kids just hung in there. It's more of a team thing than we ever had before."

What actually happened was that through a little shuffling, some remarkable recoveries from injuries and a little luck, Schwartzwalder came up with what appears to be his most balanced team since the 1959 national champions.

Ray White, a lineman from East Weymouth, Mass., who led the Orange defense for two years, suddenly found himself playing wingback.

White's job is blocking, not ball-carrying. "He just knocks people down," the coach says.

Then there was Charlie Boniti, a sophomore linebacker who failed to make the preseason depth chart.

The 220-pounder from Weirton, W. Va., took over the defense almost immediately. "It's kind of amazing," Schwartzwalder said. "He calls defense, and he shows a real knowledge of what's going on."

In the luck category, Schwartzwalder got what he calls a "real miracle" named Lou Gubitosa.

The defensive end suffered an injured knee, missing all last year. It became infected, and Gubitosa dropped to 150 pounds. He's back to 195 now and provides what Schwartzwalder calls "the brain" on his line.

Another main comeback has been Marty Januszkiewicz, a fullback from Lackawanna, N.Y. Jan the Man, as he's called, isn't very big at 213 pounds and he isn't very fast, but he doesn't fall down, as Penn State learned when he gained 114 yards against them.

In the passing category, there's split end Tony Gabriel, who has 1,021 yards in receptions so far in his three years at Syracuse.

Seals To Host Rangers Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) —Ten days ago, the California Golden Seals skated into Madison Square Garden and emerged with a tie with the New York Rangers.

That was the first indication that maybe they were ready to overcome the four-year hex which had seen them fail to pick up a point against the New Yorkers.

Tonight, the Rangers, tied for first in the East with Boston, come into the Oakland Coliseum Arena to play the Seals, 8 o'clock.

No Name Change For Candlestick

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Candlestick Park will still be Candlestick Park.

A move to change the name to O'Doul Stadium in honor of the late Frank "Lefty" O'Doul was soundly defeated Tuesday at the polls by better than a 2-1 margin.

Among the most persuasive arguments against the plan was that O'Doul himself was opposed to the building of Candlestick Park. Other arguments included the fact that the stadium housed other sports than baseball and that the name Candlestick Park had been chosen from thousands of entries in a contest.

O'Doul hit .349 during a brief big league career cut short by an injury and was a beloved local baseball figure when he managed the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast League.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

No doubt you've heard the hook is the most effective ball to bowl. Here's why: steaming into the 1-3 pocket at an angle, the hook is more likely to produce a strike because the ball is not easily deflected off-line as are other types of deliveries.

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Pistons Get Back To Winning Trail

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Detroit Pistons, after a slight detour, are back on the winning path.

The Pistons, who saw their nine game victory streak snapped last Saturday night at the hands of the New York Knicks, posted their 11th triumph in 12 games this season by trimming the Cincinnati Royals 115-112 Tuesday night.

Dave Bing, Detroit's top scorer in each of the last four seasons, again paced the Pistons' attack with 31 points. Bing's backcourt partner Jimmy Walker tallied 18 and rookie Steve Mix chipped in with 16, including three clutch free throws in the closing minutes.

The Royals, dropping their seventh game against three wins, were led by Flynn Robinson's 23 points.

In light election night activity, the only other action in the National Basketball Association saw Los Angeles whip Portland 128-108 and Chicago down Seattle 113-101 while the only contest in the American Basketball Association had Memphis leading Texas 116-114.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 23 points and hauled in 15 rebounds, tops in both departments, to lead Los Angeles past Portland. The win was only the Lakers' fifth in eight games but it was good enough to give them a one game lead in the Pacific Division where none of the other four clubs are playing over .500 ball. Jim Barnett led Portland with 18 points.

Chicago, which wasted a 15 point halftime lead, had to rally in the fourth quarter to beat Seattle. The Supersonics sank 39 field goals compared to 36 for Chicago but the Bulls hit on 41 of 49 free throws compared to 23 of 34 for Seattle from the charity stripe. Chet Walker tallied 31 points for the Bulls and player-coach Len Wilkens paced the Supersonics with 18.

49ers Not Unhappy About Sayers' Absense

Papa Bear George Halas felt insulted by preseason Las Vegas odds that made Chicago a 100-1 shot to win any pro football title this year. He wanted to bet a bundle on his Bears and turn the winnings over to a worthy charity.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, praised Halas' charitable motives but prohibited Papa Bear from placing any bet. Rozelle's ruling saved Halas from losing a bundle even though the owner of the Bears could have afforded it.

WITH RUNNERS Gayle Sayers and Craig Baynham out for the season, the Bears have relied this year on Jack Concannan's passing arm. But lack of balance in the Bear attack is the reason why Chicago is in the cellar of the National Football Conference's Central Division this year with a 3-4 record.

The 49ers will not be unhappy about Sayers' absence from the Bear lineup next Sunday in Chicago when the two teams meet in the second half opener of the 1970 football season. First time Sayers ever faced the 49ers he scored six touchdowns to tie the all-time NFL mark. That was in 1965 when Sayers was a rookie.

SAYERS SCORED his half dozen TDs in every conceivable manner. He darted 80 yards with a screen pass for the first one and 85 yards on a punt return for the final one. In between those thrillers he carried the ball nine times for 113 yards and four TDs.

Never before did a rookie put on such a spectacular show. And never before were the 39ers so completely routed, 61-20.

In the closing minutes of the game when the Bears worked the ball into scoring position for their ninth touchdown, the Wrigley Field crowd was screaming at Halas to send Sayers back into the game. "We want Sayers, We want Sayers," the crowd kept chanting.

BUT HALAS refused to give the rookie the opportunity to break the six-touchdown mark originally set Dec. 28, 1929, by Ernie Nevers for the old Chicago Cardinals against the Bears and duplicated Nov.25, 1951, by Dub Jones for the Cleveland Browns, also against the Bears.

So Jon Arnett tallied the ninth and final Chicago TD that Dec. 12, 1965, in Wrigley Field and Halas later explained why he did not send Sayers back into the game to score it.

"NOBODY WAS hungrier than I was to see him score seven," said Halas. "But what if he got hurt? I'd never have forgiven myself."

Since Sayers' memorable afternoon which marked him as one of the greatest runners in football history, he twice has suffered severe knee injuries. Last month he underwent the second operation on his left knee. He may never play again.

Funeral Services Friday For UPI's Smilanich

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Funeral services will be held here Friday for Steve Smilanich, a native Utahn and assistant sports editor for United Press International who was killed Tuesday in a two-car collision on a freeway near Mount Pleasant, N.Y.

The services are scheduled for 10 a.m. in the Larkin Mortuary Chapel. Burial will follow in Wasatch Lawn Memorial Park.

Smilanich's widow and three sons arrived in Salt Lake City Tuesday afternoon to complete funeral arrangements.

Smilanich, highly respected by intermountain area newsmen for his years of news and sports coverage in this area, was killed early Tuesday on the Taconic State Parkway as he drove home from work at UPI's New York Bureau.

Police said a car driven by Richard E. Kwasnik, 30, of Peekskill, N.Y., apparently crossed the dividing line on the parkway and sideswiped Smilanich's car. Kwasnik, who was uninjured, was charged with driving while intoxicated and is free on $100 bail.

Smilanich, 42, of Yorktown Heights, had served as Rocky Mountain sports editor in UPI's Salt Lake City bureau before joining the New York sports staff three years ago.

Tough Road Race Gets Under Way

ENSENADA, Mexico (UPI— Possibly the world's toughest road race got under way today, the Baja 1,000 from here to La Paz.

Good pavement prevails on all but 220 miles of the race but those 220 are filled with ruts, hairpin curves, desert and jungle hard to equal in the world.

Among those entered is former Indianapolis 500 winner Parnelli Jones. Thirty-three motorcycles started shortly after 8 a.m. (PST). Dune buggies, four-wheelers and production cars will follow on the grind from the upper part of the peninsula to La Paz in the south.

The 832-mile race saw only 97 of the 247 starters finish last year.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 4, the 308th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and the first quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

On this day in history:

In 1842 Abraham Lincoln was married to Mary Todd in Springfield, Ill.

In 1931 the League of Nations cited Japan for willful aggression in Manchuria.

In 1952 Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected President, ending 20 years of Democratic administration.

In 1968 some 150 persons were injured as West Berlin youths battled police.

A thought for today: "Sophocles said, "Though a man be wise, it is no shame for him to live and learn."

Cancer Experts To Talk On KTIM

Brand, a director of the Marin Unit and an employee of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, and Mabel Whitehead, a mastectomy patient living in Marin County. Questions submitted by the audience will be answered.

The program moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer will be recorded and rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Traditional Methods Of Play Are Always Not Superior Ones

If you believe in tradition, you want the ace to win the first trick of a suit, the king to win the second, and so on. That's what nature surely intended, and what sort of bridge player would fly in the face of nature? At the risk of being called a hippie, I must point out that nature won't get you very far with today's hand.

WITH ACE

You win the first trick with the ace of diamonds. Hurry for Mother Nature! If you're a hard-shell traditionalist, your next step is to draw three rounds of trumps. Then you cash the ace and king of hearts.

The bad heart break leaves you up a tree. You can take the ace of clubs and ruff a club with dummy's last trump, and then you can cash the queen of hearts, but the rest of the hears are not good. You discard another club on the king of diamonds, but you still have a losing club in your hand. Down one.

WHAT TO DO?

What could you do about it? If you had tried an early club finesse, it would not have worked. If you had tried to clear the ace and king of hearts out of the way before draking trumps, West would have ruffed the second heart.

Look for a very mod play to make the grand slam. Get with it before you read on.

START TRUMPS

After winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds, draw one round of trumps with the king and then cash the king of hearts. Lead a low trump to dummy's ten and cash the king of diamonds to discard the ace of hearts. There's a real long-haired play for you!

Ruff a low heart with the jack of trumps and lead a third round of trumps to dummy's ace. Lead another low heart and ruff with your own last trump. Now you can cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in dummy, and the rest of the hearts are good to assure the grand slam.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player doubles.

You hold:

♥ — J 10 9 3
♦ — 7 6 5 4 3 2
♣ — 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

This raise, after a takeout double, promises trump support but nothing else. If there had been a pass instead of a double, you would have passed your partner at one heart.

Data Firm Plunges On Poor Profits

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have shares of University Computing. I received no dividends from this stock and need income. What do you advise? — M. S. I bought 50 shares of University Computing at $100 a share. Will it ever recover to this level or should I take the loss? — M. O.

A. University Computing was propelled from a low of 2 in 1965 to a high of 187 in 1968, on the strength of a tremendous upsurge in the company's reported earnings. However, this year, profits plunged as results were penalized by losses from phototypesetting and heat transfer equipment, mass mailing services and higher labor and material outlays.

Company's total pretax income fell a hefty 23 per cent in 1970's first half. University suffered an operating loss of $186,000 in the June (2nd) quarter. The firm's reported net of $1.7 million, or 24 cents a share in this period, came from nonoperating sources — largely capital gains.

Speculation that the FCC may approve University's Datran system for transmission of business data has, in part, stirred action in University shares. However, no definite decision has been made on this as yet. Until renewed profit growth is sustained, shares will probably continue to move aimlessly. To M. S., whose primary concern is income, shares should be liquidated. For M. O., I would regard any rally as an opportunity to sell.

Q. We have shares of Safeway Stores, bought at 35. Is this a good stock for the conservative investor? — S. I.

A. Market action of many of the grocery chain stocks — including Safeway — has improved substantially in recent weeks. Company operations are improving also. For the 36 weeks ended September, 1970, sales advanced 17.1 per cent, while per share net increased 34 per cent year-to-year. Addition of new supermarkets and expansion of nonfood outlets augurs well for continued sales gains. Moreover, the absence of strikes, which adversely affected 1969's results, should allow appreciable growth in share profits as well. Stock offers long-term growth potential with steady, moderate income.

FPC Sees Threat Of Blackouts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A reserve power shortage in one of every four utility systems in the continental United States could result in blackouts or electrical shorages this winter, according to the Federal Power Commission.

In a survey taken by the FPC of 187 large utility systems, 48 had generating reserves of less than 15 per cent for the winter peak load period.

The shortages result from short supplies of fuel, primarily in production and transportation of coal, and natural gas and fuel oil from both domestic and foreign sources, the FPC said.

Other contributing factors, the FPC said, were price rises, antipollution restrictions and competing demands of various markets.

PPG Expansion

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — PPG Industries, Inc. plans to at least double the chlorine and caustic soda production capacity of its Lake Charles, La., chemical complex. The plant now produces about 1,500 tons of chlorine and 1,650 tons of caustic soda daily.

Stocks Score Modest Gain On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market scored a modest gain Wednesday in what was primarily regarded as a continuation of Tuesday's strong advance. Turnover was moderate.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones Industrial Average was ahead about 3 points at 771.36.

Of the 1,574 issues on the tape, advances topped declines, 707 to 588, although the ratio had been more than 2-to-1 during the morning hours.

Turnover amounted to more than 12,000,000 shares, up from 11,760,000 shares traded Tuesday.

Closing prices included: Am T & T 44 7-8 up 18; Beth St 21 1-8 up 18; Chrysler 26 1-4 off 1; Dupont 122 1-4 up 1 1-4; Ford 51 3-8 up 7-8; Gen El 87 78 up 7-8; Gen Motors 73 up 5-8, and IBM 296 1-4 up 1-8.

Many analysts viewed the election results as "right down the middle" and having little appreciable impact on the market.

They believed the market was reacting to two factors: speculation that the Federal Reserve Board may soon slice its discount rate to member banks, and the hopes that negotiators were working feverishly toward settlement of the seven-week-old strike at General Motors Corp.

One analyst said "strength of the last two sessions is enough to suggest a short term rally is in the cards." He added that he didn't look for any great shift in the Nixon Administration's economic policies as a result of the elections.

Among the day's most active issues were Telex Corp. and Pitney Bowes, which traded a block of 135,000 shares at 25 5-8, off 3-4.

Other large block transactions included 129,500 shares of Armco Steel at 20 off 1-8; 91,600 shares of Brunswick Corp. crossed at 18 1-4 up 1-8; 41,500 shares of Xerox crossed at 87 down 1 3-4; and one 89,900-share block of Houston Lighting & Power at 40 3-4, up 5-8, and another of 49,000 shares at the same prire.

"We will concede nothing until the last vote is counted."

TODAY'S EDITORIALS

One Aspect Of Election: Rejection Of Divisiveness

The columnists and the network pundits will give all sorts of interpretations to the mixed-up results of yesterday's election. But in California at least, we think they show the people are tired of divisiveness.

The last-week "smear" advertisements against Rep. John V. Tunney, we expect, added to his margin over Sen. George Murphy. They were divisive advertisements, seeking to brand the Riverside congressman as a friend of criminals because he voted against the District of Columbia Crime Control Bill.

At this writing, Wilson C. Riles seems to have squeaked in as state superintendent of public instruction, and here again we regard the apparent victory as at least in part a protest gaainst divisiveness. Max Rafferty, in this and past campaigns and in most of his writings and public pronouncements, has divided rather than unified those who strive for better schools. Riles made "working together" a key theme of his campaign.

THE DIVISIVENESS tactic also failed to serve Jesse M. Unruh in his campaign for governor. His attempt to brand Gov. Ronald Reagan as allied with rich, predatory interests just didn't come off. Some of Reagan's own public pronouncements, however, have tended to be divisive — and this may have reduced his margin over Unruh, who did better against the charismatic governor than did Edmund G. Brown four years ago.

Locally, there was divisiveness in the campaign of Ernest C. Zunino for municipal court judge, as he went beyond calling for stricter court rules and less judicial "permissiveness" to declare he would hand out heavy sentences regardless of what other judges of the municipal court might do. Robert A. Smallman's approach of urging that all the judges get together to be more strict and make sentencing more uniform had a less divisive appeal.

THERE WERE, of course, many other things involved in all the campaigns. But we see in the results an expression of the longing to work together instead of against one another.

Nationally, the Agnew "purge" campaign — an obviously divisive effort — failed to pay off in most states to which it was carried, including California. The vice president may have thought he was serving his party in calling for defeat of men he called "radical liberals" — even if the man happened to be a Republican, as in New York. But he was not serving the nation, which needs to get together to make democracy work. It is far too splintered now.

THE ELECTION results will not materially change the complexion of either the United States Congress or the California Legislature. But we can hope the new Congress and the new legislature will work in greater harmony than the old.

There's a lot to be done. It will take a lot of cooperation to do it. We cannot afford to divide our house against itself in this country.

Acorn Harvest

The Miwok Indians who lived in Marin before the coming of the white man were acorn-eaters. According to most accounts, acorns and shellfish were the mainstays of their diet.

Acorns are really nuts and nuts are an excellent source of protein. Marin's live oak-forested hills and dales were a ready-made farm for the Miwoks. Reportedly, the acorns were ground and washed to remove their tannic acid, then made into a mush or gruel. Some acorns contain much tannic acid, some very little. Eaten plain, they are not bad — if you get the right kind.

This comes to mind every November when the acorns ripen. We think about the Miwoks harvesting their natural farm.

Taxation 'For Environment' Could Become Favoritism

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, chairman of the Assembly committee on revenue and taxation, has announced a series of meetings by his committee to study taxation "as a means of environmental control."

Bagley was the prime mover of Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform program earlier this year, a program which failed of enaction by the legislature. The result of this failure was to leave property taxes in California at the same high level as in the past.

NOW BAGLEY'S tactics apparently would switch the main study from tax reform and some relief to property taxpayers to the problem of what can be done to help the environment control program through changes in the taxation system which means nothing more than tax favoritism to big business.

"The power to tax," says Bagley, "can be the power to create a system of taxation conducive to preserving the environment.

"The hearing will be the first important step among many necessary to determine what changes must be made in our tax policies to encourage sound environmental practices among businesses and consumers.

"We must answer the basic question of whether tax policy is a viable mechanism for providing incentives to deal with environmental problems."

BAGLEY CONTINUES by stating that the "immediate objective of the committee will be to begin evaluating various tax incentive programs as compared to proposals of added taxes for those who are destroying our environment."

He also says that a third task of the committee "will be to find new revenues essential to fund environmental programs."

The proposal sounds like the beginning of a widespread campaign to collect millions from the unsuspecting taxpayers of California to expend for environmental control.

The only trouble is that the state has no firm program for expending this money.

ADMITTEDLY, money has to be spent to "clean up the mess" created by carelessness on the part of business and industry. But giving business and industry a tax incentive to clean up what should be cleaned up in the normal process of operation, at the ultimate expense of the small taxpayer, appears to be slightly out of line.

The danger to the taxpaying public stems from any proposal to give incentives to business to cut its taxes by performing functions that should be performed anyhow. Such incentives could wind up as a system of favoritism.

Judiciary Not Immune To Decisions Of Public

(Reprinted from Downey, Calif., Southeast News)

In their fight against illegal narcotics, many southeast Los Angeles County citizens are doing something which has not often been done in this country — they are questioning the decisions of judges who they maintain are handing down decisions which are too light for those convicted of illegally selling narcotics.

Under the three-part system of governmental checks and balances system in this country, there has been one segment which has been left pretty much alone — the judiciary.

Ideally, our system of government operates under the assumption that the various legislatures makes laws, the various executives enforce the laws, and the various judiciaries judge the laws and those charged with violating them.

Irrespective of the officials involved, be they elected or appointed, they are ultimately answerable to the people. The country, then, is the people.

WHEN THE PEOPLE are fed up with something, ideally, action will be taken by the government to correct the situation. In the case of the current narcotics problem facing California and the nation, the people have had it and are starting to voice their opinion where it will do some good — with the judges themselves.

The current fight by concerned citizens over the availability of illegal drugs is one of the few examples in recent times where the sacred courts are being attacked for laxity. They are signing petition voicing their strength in numbers.

It's high time. Too often judges feel they are above criticism. They feel as though they are in their own little world to do as they please and not be answerable for their actions.

RECENTLY we had an instance in which the grand jury was told, in effect, to mind its own business and do what it is told, and not venture into any analysis of the courts' handling of narcotics cases.

What good is a grand jury if it cannot operate independently, if its hands are shackled by its mentor?

Just as defendants are put on trial before the judges, the judges are now being "tried" by the people. For some judges in Orange and Los Angeles counties, their decisions on narcotics cases now may decide whether they are re-elected.

HISTORICALLY, legislatures and executives have been criticized immediately for their decisions, and actions. Virtually everything they do is exposed and questioned. It hasn't necessarily been so with the judiciary.

As many of the people currently involved in fighting the over-growing narcotics problem have found, the weakest link in the governmental process has been the judiciary. They want to "toughen it up."

The legislative branch has apparently been doing its job: there are strong statues on the books dealing with narcotics. The executive has also been putting out a strong effort: law enforcement agencies have been doing all they can to arrest offenders.

The judiciary has in many cases been lax. Judges have heard the cases of narcotics violators, and in many instances have suspended or given "Mickey Mouse" sentences. Others have been firm, and have given substantial sentences — especially to repeat offenders.

IT IS THIS inconsistency of decisions by the various judges that is most difficult to understand and tolerate. It is high time this inconsistency were pointed out to the people who can then decide what action to take.

If a judge is too lenient in his decisions, it should be known. He should be aware that what he does is watched.

By the same token, if he is too harsh, it should be pointed out.

Under our system of government, an informed populace will make the right decisions and put the proper people in office. Regardless of the office, it is not so high, nor so sacred that it is above the critical eye of the people

One Thing Lacking In Election Issue

In your Marin Magazine of Oct. 31 the cover states "complete coverage of local, state and national candidates . . . etc." I think this must be a misprint, perhaps you should have entitled it "complete coverage of Republican and Democratic candidates" as there is no summary of the Peace and Freedom parties candidates platforms.

I think they deserve as much coverage, especially since many people I know are sick and disgusted with the political hogwash so many of the major candidates are handing out and are looking elsewhere for new life and ideas on running our deteriorating government.

Is it not the ideal purpose of a newspaper to forget their political biases and cover all the views, especially when it states it has?

Women Face Pay Discrimination, May Need To Form Own Unions

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — "Women of America! Unite. You have nothing to lose but your low-pay status."

This is destined to become the slogan of the nation's second-class majority — women.

One of the main and just complaints of the Women's Liberation movement is this:

By a very large margin men hold better jobs and get better pay — often when the quality of the work is the same.

And the already wide gap between male and female earnings is getting even wider.

THIS IS NOT all due to discrimination. Many women are new to the labor force and many haven't the skills or the seniority of the men. But there is a pervasive resistance to giving women equal pay for equal work and to enable them to compete on equal terms for jobs men have held almost exclusively so long.

At best this disparity can be corrected only gradually because it would cost so much.

There are now more than 30 million women in the nation's work force and they comprise approximately 38 per cent of all labor. Counting only full-time, year-round workers, it is estimated that paying women the same as men would add $59 billion a year to the total payroll.

THE CHASE MANHATTAN Bank has just completed a study in this area and it finds that women are up against this:

The median earnings of women employed full-time is 42 per cent below that of men. In some jobs, like sales workers, it drops as far as 60 per cent below men.

Nearly half of all men but less than 20 per cent of women are in the three highest-paying occupational groups — managers, officials and proprietors, professional and technical workers, and craftsmen and foremen.

While women make up 38 per cent of the labor force, they account for only one per cent of the engineers, 2 per cent of executive personnel, 3 per cent of all craftsmen, 7 per cent of physicians, 13 per cent of proprietors outside retail trade, 15 per cent of salaried managers and officials, and 21 per cent of the professional people outside the fields of education and health.

Less than one-fifth of the men but 63 per cent of all working women are clerical, service or sales workers. These jobs are at the lower end of the pay scale.

IF THE INCREASE in the number of women employed in the higher-paying occupations —salaried managers, professionals and craftsmen — had been in line with the increase in the female labor force since 1960, there would be 2.8 million more women in these jobs.

What is most dismaying to most women and to the vehemently protesting leaders of the Lib movement is that in recent years women haven't even been holding their own in the pay race.

The wage gap has been widening in times of high prosperity and of recession. In 1955 the median wage of women working full-time was only 36 per cent below the median wage for men, but it is now 42 per cent lower than that of male workers.

WHY?

The women's labor force has been growing faster than the men's. Thus more women have been competing with each other for "women's work" and this holds wages down.

More younger women are entering the labor force.

Men are catching up with women in their grade and high school education.

It is the judgment of the Chase Manhattan Bank study that industry will benefit if it makes better and fairer use of women and that employers better look to it.

But the leaders of the Women's Lib are not going to wait around just politely tapping on closed doors. And they don't expect to get much help from the big unions, which will be more interested in defending the one-sided status quo for men than in improving it for working women.

This suggests that it may not be long before some unions are organized by, for and with women to achieve their just rights.

American Expatriates Find Law And Order In Spain

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

MADRID — For those of us who lived through the tumultuous prelude to World War II in the 1930s, there is a sad bit of irony in the steady stream of elderly Americans who are now seeking a calm retirement haven in Generalissimo Franco's Spain.

There is apparently no disputing the facts, however. Knowledgeable sources here say Americans of retirement age are coming to Spain by the thousands to take up a more or less permanent residence for their declining years.

Americans in Spain are not required to register with the U. S. Embassy, so there is no accurate total in this regard. One estimate, reliable if unofficial, is that between 30,000 and 50,000 Americans are now living here, in addition to those on government assignment and the 10,000 Navy and Air Force men who man U. S. military bases.

OBSERVERS HERE mention two factors by way of explaining this immigration. The first, of course, is economic.

As tourists from all over the world have discovered, Spain is one of the cheapest cost-of-living countries in Europe. The American dollar buys a lot of creature comforts for Americans who are trying to minimize the impact of inflation on their retirement incomes.

The other important factor, according to these reports, is law-and-order — in just the sense that the expression has created so much concern in the United States. Spain has not experienced the rioting and other disruptive outbreaks which have occurred in cities in the United States and elsewhere in the free world.

Large security forces — army and police — have long been the hallmark of authoritarian government. To many Americans they seem to mean more importantly, that it is still safe to walk the Spanish streets at night.

SPANISH AUTHORITIES claim that, for most Americans and the residents of much of Europe, the image of Franco Spain is still that of the civil war of the 1930s. They complain that it is a false image.

Certainly (and, again, as an annual flood of tourists have discovered), there are no outward signs of repressive government, though the police and uniformed military are much in evidence.

Spanish newspapers are not now censored in advance. Reporters, individually, and the newspapers themselves can be fined for slandering the state, however, and publications can be suspended with all of the economic penalties which such a suspension embraces.

Occasional editions of foreign newspapers, including the Paris Herald-Tribune, which circulates widely in Europe, simply do not reach the news-stands here when they contain reports which are considered objectionable by Spanish authorities.

In the law-and-order department, however, the authorities are very tough indeed, as two American newsmen discovered last week when they were detained briefly, in a case of mistaken identity, until the real fugitive was discovered hiding on the airliner from which they had just disembarked.

Zunino Or Francois For Judge? It's Tough Choice For Voter

Choosing whom and what to vote for is sometimes fairly difficult. Yesterday, however, was without a doubt, the roughest election day this voter has gone through.

Trying to decide whether there should be an immediate cease-fire and immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam so that the Vietnamese people can settle their own problems, or whether the withdrawal should begin immediately and be completed no later than June 30, 1971 was a choice Solomon might have had trouble with.

It took hours and hours of soul-searching before reaching a choice among Robert A. Smallman, and Ernest C. Zunino, Agnes O'Brien Smith and Terry A. Francois for municipal court judge.

Of course, the biggest and most important decision of all was whether or not to change the name of Candlestick Park to O'Doul Stadium in memory of the late Francis O'Doul.

MOST MARIN voters didn't have the same problems.

My voting difficulties arose when one mistake was compounded by another, and I received two sample ballots and was officially registered to vote in San Francisco as well as Marin.

Peter C. Meyer, Marin County elections officer, naturally and probably correctly blamed the first mistake on San Francisco.

When I moved from San Francisco to Marin and registered to vote in Marin, one of the forms that had to be filled out was an affivadit of cancellation directing the San Francisco registrar of voters to remove my name from the San Francisco registration lists.

Somewhere between my signing the affidavit and the action being carried out, something went wrong, because my registration in San Francisco remained.

THIS HAPPENS occasionally, Meyer said, but the error is often invalidated because the envelope containing the sample ballot and polling place card is marked with a message to the postman not to forward the envelope.

This would in most cases prevent a sample ballot and polling place card from following someone who had moved.

In my case, however, I still get a lot of mail, mostly junk, at the San Francisco address, and the sample ballot was piled along with the rest and saved for me.

MEYER SUGGESTED I call the registrar of voters in San Francisco and ask for another affidavit of cancellation, just to keep things legal.

I made the call, but a worker at the San Francisco office said my name would be removed from the San Francisco lists after the election anyway.

He based his assumption on the fact that names of persons who don't vote in a general election, held every two years, are automatically removed from the lists.

Because of the San Francisco office's lack of concern, I remained registered in both San Francisco and Marin through yesterday's election.

I'm not saying I voted in both places but I never did like the name of Candlestick.

Youth Commission Chairman Resigns

The rapid turnover on the Marin County Youth Commission continued today with still another resignation — this time by acting chairman George Kewin of Mill Valley, who will move to Berkeley to attend the University of California.

L. Charles Smith, youth coordinator, announced that any youth in the third supervisorial district (South Marin) who is interested in joining the commission should contact him in Room 163 of the Hall of Justice.

Interested applicants will be interviewed at the next meeting of the youth commission on Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. in the Catholic Social Services Office, 179 Los Ranchitos Road, Terra Linda.

I-J In Error On School Report

The Independent-Journal erred in its report last Tuesday of the previous night's meeting of the Novato Unified School District board when the I-J said that foreign language teachers had asserted they should not have to teach English.

Actually, Simone MacKinnon, foreign language and English teacher, read a letter from teachers urging the district board to hire an additional English teacher in order to relieve foreign language teachers of some of their English classes in order to be able to devote more time to foreign languages.

There was no desire, the teachers indicated, to give up entirely their teaching of English.

Judge Who Ordered Integration Loses

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Alfred E. Gitelson, who ordered Los Angeles city schools integrated this year, lost his bid for reelection Tuesday.

In unofficial returns, Gitelson trailed attorney William Kennedy 55 per cent to 45 per cent.

In a 103-page opinion handed down in February, Gitelson found the nation's second largest school district had deliberately perpetuated segregation of its 675,000 students through policies on school construction and boundaries.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Court Upholds Schools' Control Of Publications

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The San Juan School District Student Union recently called on the board of that Sacramento County district to permit distribution on campus of any literature which is not obscene or libelous.

In Marin County, a student-faculty group called the San Rafael High School Student-Teacher Coalition sought to have board policies include blanket permission for distributing literature on campus.

Similar demands are popping up in other school districts throughout California. In each case, the proponents of uncontrolled distribution of underground newspapers and other material claim that a federal court has held it is unconstitutional for a school board to restrict what is circulated at the schools.

THE COURT decision they cite, however, did not do that at all. It reiterated no fewer than eight times that a school boards does have authority to place restrictions on campus distribution of printed matter.

The case was that of Edward P. Rowe vs. Campbell High School District in Santa Clara County. It attacked sections 9012 and 9013 of the California Education Code as violating the First Amendment.

Section 9012 says: "Except with respect to junior colleges, no publication of a sectarian, partisan, or denominational character shall be distributed, displayed, or used for sectarian, partisan, or denominational purposes on school premises . . ."

Section 9013 says: "No bulletin, circular, publication, or article of any character, whose purpose is to spread propaganda, shall be distributed or displayed to anyone, or suffered to be distributed or displayed to anyone, for propaganda purposes on the school premises during school hours or within one hour before the time of opening or within one hour after the closing of the school . . ."

THE THREE-JUDGE U. S. District Court for the Northern District of California held the sections are unconstitutional because "the scope of their prohibition is impermissibly broad" and Section 9013 is too vague, making no attempt to define what is propaganda.

The decision sad that the constitutional guarantee of free speech "applies within schools; subject of course to the 'special characteristics' of those institutions."

It quoted from another federal court decision (Tinker vs. Des Moines School District): "Reasonable time, place and manner regulations regarding expression of ideas orally or in writing are permissible, as they are in any other public institutional or facility."

Further, it said: "Standards of free speech for students in school are not identical with those of adults."

IT WENT ON: "We believe that a scheme of prior restraints, subject to appropriate safeguards, may be applied . . ."

Attempting to spell out what restrictions might be included, it said: "Littering can be prohibited and punished; the time, place and manner of distribution may be controlled. As to disruption caused by advocacy of violation of school rules, this may be prohibited, and like obscenity, may be part of a prior restraint scheme."

In another place, it emphasized: "All that Tinker and the other cases cited herein say is that school officials must show a specific and substantial justification in order to limit students' First Amendment rights."

FINALLY, to make sure there could be no mistake of its meaning, the court, far from saying the district must permit uncontrolled distribution, instead directed the district to present within 90 days a proposed regulation for court review.

It would pay school administrators and board members faced with demands for uncontrolled distribution of underground newspapers and other such material to read the full decision.

Indecent Exposure Case Is Reported

A Larkspur woman told police Monday a man between 50 and 60 years of age exposed himself to her as she was leaving her Cane Street apartment at 8 p.m.

Officers said today the man was described as heavy set, five feet, nine inches tall and wearing dark pants and white shoes.

HERE'S A COMPROMISE!

Looking for a home in a top area, with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, a fun family room, utility room, level front and rear patios AND a Bay view? Finding that for this type and quality of home the prices are astronomical? Here's the reason this home can be bought so reasonably — highway noise. Most of the problem has been solved, however, by a wrap-around, glass-enclosed deck. Consider it — a minor annoyance in return for so much quality living. $41,900.

Washington Loss On Ecology Issue

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (UPI) —Initiative 256, a grassroots attempt to save the environment from no-deposit, no-return containers, was "trounced by big money interests and false advertising," according to the professor who started the drive.

Robert H. Keller, Jr., who began the project in a classroom at Western Washington State College, said Tuesday night he was reluctant to make a similar try in the future.

The initiative, which would have required a 5-cent deposit on beer and soft drink containers, received the approval of 47.5 per cent of the voters at latest count.

With 97 per cent of the state's precincts reporting, 363,797 voters approved of the initiative while 401,732 rejected it.

Fatal Mistake: Young Soldier Forgets Malaria Suppressants

Van Dellen

Our servicemen in Viet Nam take antimalarial drugs to suppress the disease. These products prevent symptoms from developing and when taken over a long period may eliminate some infections. Suppressants (chloroquine or amodiaquine) are usually taken before arrival in malarious areas and in weekly doses thereafter. The drugs must also be continued on leaving the area.

A 21-year-old serviceman returned to the United States for his father's funeral. According to report in Morbidity and Mortality, he did not bring his suppressant drugs with him. Three days later he developed chills, fever and weakness. The symptoms persisted, and the physician he consulted told him he had flu.

TEN DAYS later the man was hospitalized and tests showed that he had falciparum-type malaria. This form of the disease may be fatal if treatment is delayed or is inadequate. A few days later this man died.

P. falciparum caused eight fatalities in the United States last year. Almost 95 per cent of all cases of malaria reported in this country involve miliary personnel, but of the 1969 fatalities only 3 were Viet Nam veterans. Four of the civilians who died from malaria acquired it in Africa. The fifth civilian developed the disease after receiving a blood transfusion from a person probably infected in Viet Nam. This is why the Red Cross does not accept blood from exservicemen.

NONE OF the civilians who died had received antimalarial drugs. There were frequent delays in making the diagnosis because malaria is unusual among nonmilitary personnel and is not suspected during the early days of the illness. The lesson that we must l[illegible] the need for suppressa[illegible] going into malarious [illegible]. In addition, physicians should suspect the disease whenever patients develop an illness with fever after recent travel abroad or a transfusion.

PAIN OF PLEURISY

REPLY

Pleurisy is difficult to cure when it comes and goes in this way. The disorder usually follows a cold and is more noticeable when the weather is damp. Avoid these situations and your pleural pain will occur less frequently. Recurring bouts of pain in this area are more likely to stem from gas or spasm of the colon under the diaphram.

INSULIN NOT ADDICTIVE

Mrs. V.K. writes: Can the insulin used by diabetics become habit forming? My husband has taken insulin for years and although he has had no problems, I wondered if there was any possibility of his becoming addicted to it.

REPLY

There is no danger of developing addiction to insulin because the product is a hormone, not a narcotic. On the other hand, the diabetic is dependent upon insulin to survive.

GLOOMY DAYS

H.N. writes: On gloomy days I get a headache and feel depressed, drowsy, and irritable. Is there any remedy for this unpleasant condition?

REPLY

Weather has this effect on some people. There is no need for concern so long as the cause is known. Plan to do pleasant things on these days that take your mind off the weather.

Prosecution Introduces I-J Pictures

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Pictures showing the paint-spattered exterior of the Independent-Journal and a damaged newspaper delivery truck outside the plant were shown today to a jury in Solano County Superior Court.

The vandalism was committed early Feb. 14 by a chanting group of pickets which had gathered at the I-J for a rally in support of striking printers.

The photos were introduced by the prosecution at the trial of seven men accused of 36 felonies and misdemeanors during the demonstration, which later turned into a violent confrontation with police.

San Rafael police officer Charles Brobeck, who observed the violence from a balcony of the Rafael Theater on Julia Street, identified the pictures but was not allowed to describe how the vandalism occurred. This was in complience with an earlier order by Judge William E. Jensen restricting his testimony.

Brobeck is the second prosecution witness in the 11-day-old trial.

Prevo, manager for more than two years, resigned on Sept. 1 to become personnel director in Napa County.

Evidence In Contempt Case Is Being Heard

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal judge yesterday began accepting evidence against four labor union locals charged with civil and criminal contempt of court in connection with San Francisco Typographical Union 21's strike against the Independent-Journal.

Judge William T. Sweigert of U.S. District Court earlier yesterday denied a series of defense motions and began the criminal contempt proceedings.

The typographical union, Teamsters locals 70 of Oakland and 85 of San Francisco and International Longshoremen's Union 10 of San Francisco and several of their officers are accused by the National Labor Relations Borad of illegal secondary boycott activity arimed at forcing neutral employers to cease doing business with the I-J.

The NLRB charges the boycott activity was in contempt of two injunctions previously issued by Sweigert.

Yesterday, two San Rafael police officers, representatives of two Marin supermarkets and I-J photographer Bob Hax testified as to picket activity at Marin businesses.

Sweigert took under submission defense objections to portions of affidavits of Richard A. Douglas, chief criminal investigator with the San Rafael Police Department, and police Sgt. Henry W. Ingeversen. Defense attorneys said union officials with whom the two officers talked were not informed of their constitutional rights.

John B. Tarrantino, vice president of Petrini's Meat Co. of Greenbrae, and Earnest Pacioni, store manager of Mayfair Greenbrae, and Earnest Pacioni, store manager of Mayfair Markets in San Rafael, both testified to alleged picket activity around their stores.

Hax testified about his affidavit and pictures he took of picket activity at the Lucky Store in Fairfax Oct. 12.

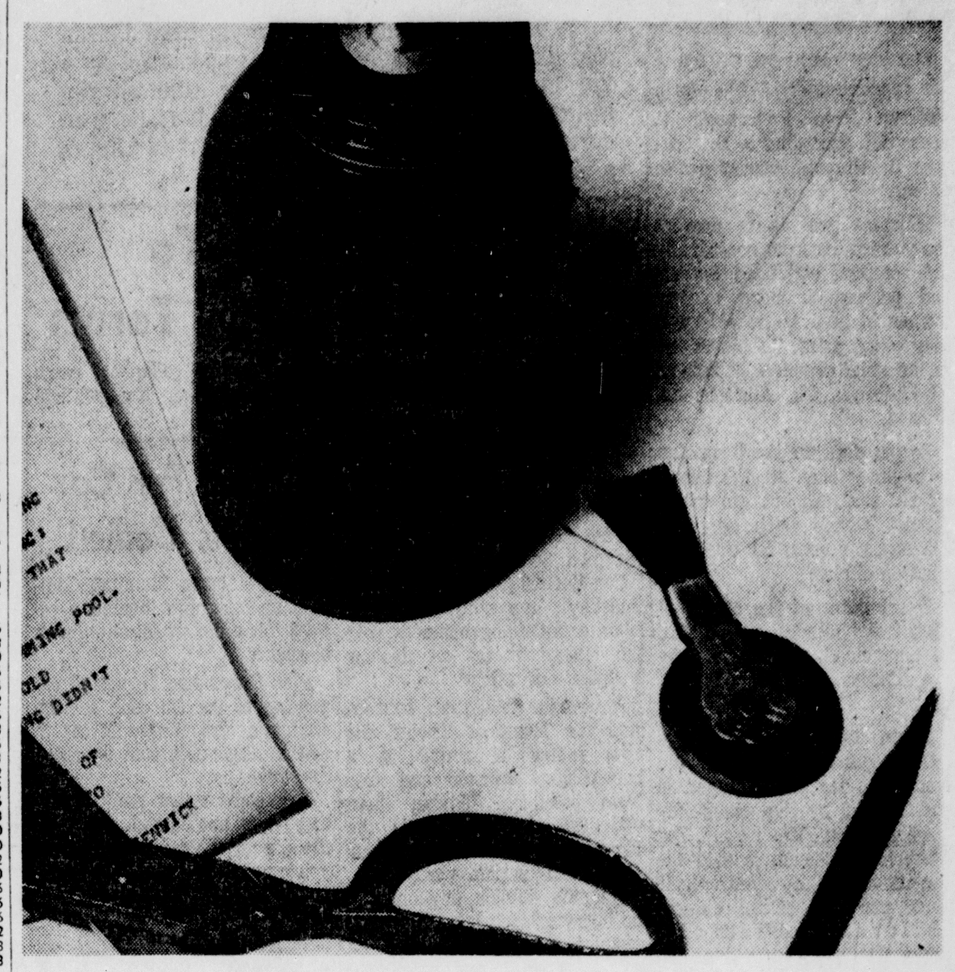
Prior to beginning the hearing of evidence yesterday, Sweigert denied defense motions to set aside records of service, to give the unions a jury trial, to grant the unions a continuance and to dismiss the charges of criminal civil intent.

In response to a defense request for severence of the criminal and civil proceedings, the judge ruled the criminal proceeding would be held first, but with the understanding that evidence submitted in the criminal proceeding would not have to be resubmitted for the civil hearing.

The criminal hearing will continue tomorrow.

Army Explosives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hercules, Inc., has obtained a $23 million addition to an Army contract to operate the Radford, Va., explosives and propellants plant.



By tomorrow the world will have changed . . .

Between today and tomorrow news which is unexpected and unforeseen will change YOU . . . your attitudes, your values, perhaps even your personal life. For all of us live on a turning world, on the very threshold - second by second - of the future.

We at the I-J can't know what the news will be but we DO know it will happen . . . and on a thousand fronts.

Which explains why we use the enormous "nervous system" of United Press International and the eyes and ears of its 6,000 reporters to keep us - and keep you - in sensitive touch with every country in the world.

Strange thing is that this vast network of words and wire is almost instantly connected to our newsroom in San Rafael. And even UPI's electronic magic which sends us photographs by tiny impulses over the wire.

The world will change but news of these "new" events will as inevitably reach us in time to reach you in every evening's I-J.

The point then, is that the strange and complex world of "what hasn't yet happened" will be reported to you when it does. The UPI and the I-J have their nerves ready . . . and plenty of paper for tomorrow.

Target Date For Rubella Shots Nears

Marin County health and school officials are toiling like military strategists planning maneuvers to prepare for a month-long campaign against rubella or German measles.

The target is at least 40,000 of the approximately 50,000 Marin children from 1 through 11 years old, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Ultimate goal is to prevent the youngsters from contracting the common childhood disease and passing it along to any women in their households who may be pregnant. Rubella is one of the chief cripplers of unborn children, Dr. Albrecht explained.

Target date for the campaign to begin is Nov. 16, the health official said. All but two school district boards have approved use of the schools for the innoculation clinics.

Exact dates of the clinics in each neighborhood school will be announced as soon as they are firmly set, Dr. Albrecht said.

Marin County officials are using a different plan from the mass, one-day effort staged in mid-October by five other Bay Area Counties. The reason, Dr. Albrecht explained, is that the one-day clinics attracted only 18 to 20 per cent of the eligible children. Hawaii and other areas that used campaigns obtained a much better percentage, the doctor said.

The innoculations are free to the recipients, although donations of up to one dollar each will be welcomed, Dr. Albrecht said. The vaccine is being furnished by the federal government; part of the staffing costs are paid through a new state law, and private Marin County groups are donating some labor and supplies.

COMPUTER IN FRESNO DOES IT ONCE AGAIN

FRESNO (UPI) — Fresno County's vote counting computer did it again Tuesday.

For the third time in two years, the computer faltered, forcing a delay in ballot counting.

But this time the foulup was not as serious as the 96-hour delay in last June's primary and a 20-hour delay in 1968.

County Elections Supervisor Richard Jansen said Tuesday's 90-minute delay was caused by a key punching problem. The delay came shortly after absentee ballots were counted. It delayed subsequent counting of the precinct for two hours after the polls closed.

Soviets In No Hurry To Name Nuclear Arms Terms

HELSINKI (UPI) — Russia can be expected to hold back for some time before naming her terms for agreement with the United States on definitive curbs of nuclear weapons, diplomatic sources said today.

The Soviets returned to the resumed Strategic Arms Limitation TALKS (SALT) in Helsinki Tuesday, apparently still serious about doing business with the United States on nuclear weapons limitations.

American delegation sources said the Russians started the new round of SALT in a businesslike manner and free from polemics, leaving them with the impression that the Kremlin remains "serious about doing business here."

But the Soviets appeared in no hurry to spell out their ideas about the scope and nature of any concrete arrangements with the United States on limiting strategic arms.

The United States presented to the Russians a package last July outlining plans for numerical limitation of land and sea based rockets and of anti-ballistic missiles (ABMs). The Americans evidently expected to receive by now the Soviet response or counter proposals, as a basis for the start of concrete negotiations.

Instead the Russians appeared to have chosen to wait and see, possibly to seek more "clarification" of American intentions and also to mark time for strategic and political considerations.

Request For Car Wash Is Denied

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night denied a request for a car wash, citing lack of space.

Ples Crews had requested expansion of the Hancock service station at 296 Wilson Street to add a single-unit coin operated car wash.

The commission said it felt there was not enough space on the site for the car wash.

Antiwar Forces Win On Two Vote Fronts

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Antiwar forces won in a city and county and lost one in a state in the Tuesday elections.

San Francisco voters narrowly approved a city ballot measure calling for an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Marin County voters gave their so-called "peace measure" 54 per cent approval, 39,940 voters in favor and 33,827 opposed to the request that withdrawal of all U. S. military forces be completed by next June 30.

The Massachusetts electorate, given a referendum choice among "victory," "immediate withdrawal" and "withdrawal in accordance with a planned schedule," chose President Nixon's formula for a phased pullout.

In the San Francisco voting, with 99.75 per cent of the ballots counted, the cease-fire proposition — Proposition J — was ahead by 106,005 to 101,083.

With 51 per cent of the precincts counted in Massachusetts, the administration formula led by 392,866 to 247,216 for immediate withdrawal and 104,718 for the win-the-war proposition.

The San Francisco proposal said:

"Declaration of policy: It is the policy of the people of the city and county of San Francisco that there be an immediate cease-fire and immediate withdrawal of all U. S. troops from Vietnam so that the Vietnamese people can settle their own problems."

Edward J. Farley, who headed a committee favoring the proposition, called the outcome a "fantastic victory for the American people."

"It was a big win for the people and a smashing defeat for President Nixon's cynical attempts to fool people that he is ending the war," Farley added.

Injuries Minor In Auto Crash

Two young women, injured yesterday in a two-car accident on the Marina approach to the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, were to see their own doctors for unspecified minor injuries.

The California Highway Patrol identified them as Rosiland C. Christiansen, 26, of Daly City, and Annie Lew, 22, of San Francisco.

Officers said their car, northbound on Marina Drive at 10:50 p.m., collided with one driven by James C. Eschen, 48, of 34 Glenwood Avenue, Ross.

Juvenile Booked For Car Theft

A San Rafael youth was booked at Marin County Juvenile Hall yesterday on suspicion of car theft after he allegedly wrecked a stolen car on Highway 37 in Sonoma County.

San Rafael police said Donald Lee Trombley, 15, of 78 Novato Street, Apt. 18, was arrested by the California Highway Patrol after the car overturned at about 3:10 p.m.

The car, owned by Rockey M. Poole of 181 Scenic Avenue, San Anselmo, was stolen between 8 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. from a city parking lot in the 700 block of Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael.

Fairfax Boy, 7, Is Fair From Accident

A 7-year-old Fairfax boy was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion suffered when he fell from his bicycle yesterday.

Fairfax police said Todd Sheets of 42 Pine Drive fell in the 200 block of Cascade Drive at about 2:50 p.m.

Collective Bargaining Issues Becoming More Complicated

FRESNO (UPI) — The issues of wages and hours have given way to more complicated problems as the art of collective bargaining progresses, a federal mediation official says.

Lowell M. McGinnis, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said collective bargaining issues were "changing dramatically and will continue to do so in the years ahead."

He cited as some of the more complicated issues facing the negotiators the question of racial composition of the work force, pollution, dental plans and psychiatric help.

McGinnis said workers are as militant as they've ever been.

"We are seeing that even when there's an agreement at the bargaining table about 12 per cent is being rejected by the rank and file."

Parisians Invented Air Mail During Paris Siege

PARIS (UPI)—A hundred years ago this autumn the Prussian army held Paris under siege, successfully pinching off all ground communications.

But this didn't stop the enterprising Parisians. They took to the skies—inventing air mail and microfilmed letters long before the first airplane.

The story, a tale of ingenuity and derring-do, began Sept. 18, 1870, at 3 p.m., when the last regular mail car left the old Montparnasse railroad station. The Prussians, after smashing the French armies at Sedan and Metz, were at the gates of the fortified city. Emperor Napoleon III was a prisoner.

The Parisians, who declared a republic in face of the national disaster, held on. The government fled to Tours and later to Bordeaux. The Post Office tackled the job of keeping communications flowing between Paris and the rest of the country, despite the Prussian blockade.

First they tried balloons—thus inventing the air mail—to get news and mail in and out of the capital. It worked fine from Paris to the provinces, but balloons at the mercy of wind and weather often fell into enemy hands on the return journey.

The balloons were manned by sailors—the only servicemen at the time with a head for heights—who often piloted their frail craft through withering gunfire at low altitude and agonizingly slow speed.

To solve the problem of incoming mail, Post Office engineers secretly sank a cable in the bed of the Seine passing through enemy lines. The Prussians found it and cut it.

The next idea was the "spheres of Moulins"—circular zinc containers laden with mail which sank to the bottom of the Seine and were supposed to be dragged along the bottom by the current until they reached nets inside Paris.

Few of these got through and most were lost for years. One was dredged up from the mud this year, containing mail to Parisians long since dead.

Finally at the insistence of Rene Dagron, a Parisian photographer who had invented microfilm 11 years earlier but had not yet found a use for it, they created the microfilmed letter. It was carried by pigeon—and thus became the "pigeongramme."

Every time a balloon left Paris for the provinces, sailing safely over Prussian lines with passengers and mail, there was also a crate of homing pigeons aboard.

At Tours and Bordeaux the pigeons were fitted with little pouches carrying the official post office stamp and containing strips of microfilmed mail. The birds then were sent flying back to their home loft at Postal Headquarters in the Rue de Grenelle.

In a 100th anniversary exhibition, the Paris Postal Museum is giving the pigeon a place of honor among artifacts of siege mail service. One of the original carriers, preserved and stuffed after death, hovers with outstretched wings over one of its cargoes—144 tiny frames of microfilmed letters about the size of a modern book of matches.

Palestinian 'Reds' Gathering In Paris

By HAROLD KING
Toronto Telegram News Service

Paris is becoming the new European center for Palestinian revolutionaries.

An active organization consisting of 31 students' hostels (including one for Canada) has made its headquarters in the Morocco house of the University City.

The Moroccan students' residence is known as the Ben Barka Pavilion. It was named after Moroccan revolutionary Ben Barka, last seen three years ago when Morocco secret service agents picked him up and hustled him away in broad daylight here.

The Moroccan agents enlisted the help of two French secret service members who acted without authorization.

Ben Barka is believed to have been murdered shortly thereafter in a villa on the eastern edge of the French capital.

The Ben Barka pavilion is a four-story house. The ground floor has reception counters. Most walls are covered with inflammatory posters. The place looks unkempt and has the atmosphere of a besieged camp.

Groups of olive-skinned young men and women lounge around, a mapority of them attired in semihippie duds and dark sunglasses.

One door in the Ben Barka house is clearly marked "press office" — but any pale-skin European who approaches it is regarded with heavy suspicion.

The "press office" churns out stacks of pamphlets that call for war against imperialism, capitalism, and their reactionary agents.

The pamphlets carry this mention: "Printed by the special printing works of Vincennes, 12 Route de la Tourelle." This turns out to be a new university that has become a notorious fortress for French left wing extremist professors and students.

Thus the revolutionary propaganda appears to be produced at the expense of the French taxpayer.

Vital To Government

Without popular education no government which rests on popular action can long endure; the people must be schooled in the knowledge and if possible in the virtues upon which the maintenance and success of free institutions depend. — Woodrow Wilson

Trophies Of Headhunters Still Around

By MAX VANZI

SIBU, Malaysia (UPI) —The headhunters of Borneo are gone but their trophies linger on as honored household decorations.

The lively people of the Iban tribe are proud of those ancestors of theirs who returned from battle with the heads of their enemies impaled on sticks.

They're so proud, in fact, they have preserved the grisly mementoes for as long as 100 years. Human skulls blackened with age hang from the rafters of the Iban longhouses along the Rejang River in Sarawak, Malaysia's Borneo state.

The longhouses closest to Sibu at the mouth of the Rejang are about 12 miles upstream. Ibans shy away from having their womenfolk photographed in their natural topless dress. But they openly and proudly preserve the ancient tradition of skulltending.

At the Igan Brasu longhouse, five skulls hang from the ceiling year around, except when taken down during an annual skull-feeding festival.

(A suggestion that they be removed from where they hang in darkness just long enough to be photographed was turned down on the grounds that anyone who moves them out of season will have his hands cut off.)

One longhouse Iban who speaks English, Jonathon Boon, 27, said that at festival time all the residents of the house gather around and the head man ceremoniously unhinges the skulls and places them on the floor.

Amid much merrymaking, he said, bottles of native rice wine and Scotch whisky are uncorked. The contents are poured into the portion of the skulls where an enemy's mouth used to be. Rice and bananas are also fed to the skulls.

While Boon, a logger in Sarawak's jungle timber industry, explained the ceremony, gales of laughter rang through the room from a dozen women and children.

"They know the outside world doesn't do this (with the skulls) so they laugh because they think you must think it is very funny," Boon said.

Boon said the skulls are at least a century old and were taken in a battle between the Ibans and another tribe.

The skulls hang in the longhouse vestibule with the stems of dead plants protruding from them. Beneath each jaw is suspended a porcelain bowl filled with gray rice grains.

"They must be fed and honored all year," he said.

EXAMINES SKULLS — UPI reporter Max Vanzi examines 100-year-old skulls handing from the ceiling of a longhouse at Igan Brasu, close to the port city of Sibu in Borneo's Sarawak state. (UPI Telephoto)

Siren Of The Silent Film Era Takes Backward Look

LONDON (UPI) — Dagmar Godowsky says all those who think the film stars of the silent era look very funny grimacing and gesturing from the screen ought to try this test: turn off the sound on the television net and try to guess what's going on from the action alone.

She says it isn't easy; the tube is mostly populated by wax figures striking attitudes that mean very little without the words. But in the days of, say, Rudolph Valentino, the most famous of all the lovers of the silent screen, there was no mistaking what was happening before the eyes of the audience.

"Love, hatred, jealousy, grief, happiness or any other emotion — it all had to be conveyed in pantomime," she said. "And pantomime is the true essence of good acting."

Madame Godowsky is not exactly unbiased in this judgment. She was a leading lady of the great Valentino. Once one of the most beautiful girls of her time she is now a woman of a certain age and, alas, a certain weight. But what the years may have stolen in beauty they have replaced with charm and wit.

Recently she came to London from her New York home to work on the second volume of her memoirs and perhaps find what has eluded her for decades—a workable diet. Her last attempt to reduce looked promising at first when she had the idea of pasting a photograph of the dazzling creature she once was over the door of her refrigerator.

It didn't help. Nothing has since a long ago operation when, she says, "I lost an appendix and gained a ton."

Since she is between diets Mme. Godowsky had no conscience about a brunch that included herrings in sour cream and scrambled eggs and salami. And, happily replete, she said she was thinking in her new book of making the point that the stars of the silent screen were more beautiful than the stars of the present day cinema.

"I don't know why it is," she said. "Maybe it's because we were chosen for beauty and the standards were more classic. I know it sounds conceited but when I was in Amsterdam as a girl they had to get police to protect me. This was before I was in films. Barbara La Marr, Corinne Griffiths, Margaret-Livingstone, Dolores del Rio—you don't see beauty like that on the screen today."

Mme. Godowsky is used to a glazed look in the eyes of interviewers as the names of the great, living and dead, trip from her lips.

It isn't name-dropping in her case. She was the daughter of a famous figure in music, Leopold Godowsky, pianist, teacher and composer. To their homes in Vienna and New York came "uncle" Franz Lehar, Serge Prokofiev, Gustave Mahler, Thomas Mann and Victor Herbert, a moon-faced man humming his pretty melodies to himself. Emperor Franz Joseph handled her on his knee. The children down the block were David and Nelson Rockefeller.

A vivid and striking brunette with a heart-shaped face and dark, glowing eyes, she found life too exciting for permanent relationships. Asked how many husbands she has had she smiles: "Two of my own and several of my friends." She was courted by Enrico Caruso, the great tenor; Charles Chaplin, the great comedian, Jascha Heifetz, the great violinist and all the millionaire playboys worth the name.

Caruso was much older than she.

"I always loved being with older people," said Mme. Godowsky. "Now they're so hard to find."

City Answering Service Popular

FRANKFURT, GERMANY (GF) — A unique city hall phone answering service for local citizen queries is giving Frankfurters a feeling of more direct participation in their city's government.

Launched a year ago, the service enables burghers to call city hall with any community questions they have. And currently, the young lady civil servant Barbara Schmidt assigned to the job is answering queries from about 80 of Frankfurt's 670,000 citizens everyday.

As further proof of city hall's concern about citizens' problems, Frankfurt Lord Mayor Walter Moeller recently shouldered the answering service himself an entire day. There was only one piece of information the mayor declined to give when callers asked: namely, to reveal his identity.

?eries Hasn't Upset The Religious Ranks

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—When the itish Broadcasting Corpora- n first heard the outline of a oposed new television series ere was much fluttering in e executive suite. A story king fun —albeit affectionate n —at religious attitudes?

The basic plot, as they heard did little to reassure the ass: The hero was to be a 40- ar-old Irish virgin in London termined to graduate from at class with the help of his lling Protestant secretary, iss Argyll. Sternly pointing to e path of virtue week after eek would be his devout other, Mrs. Kennefick, deter- ined to keep him pure with e help of a vast array of aster saints.

Mrs. Kennefick would not be one in her crusade. She would ave the help of her priestly other, Father Patrick, and ousin Edna, whose favorite ading would be a book titled, 100 Ways to Insult a Protest- nt."

At this point the BBC might ave said no. But with the ourage in programming that has helped give Britain among the finest television in Europe, they gave the series a go-ahead, if a subdued one. There was a minimum of publicity, yet simply by word of mouth audiences grew and grew until "Me Mammy," as the series was named, was high in the ratings when its second season recently ended.

Producer James Gilbert now has the third season in preparation and in an interview he explained how the show that some said couldn't be done not only came into being but became "hugely popular" even in Dublin where giant aerials pick up the programs. It is also arousing some interest in other places except, of course, the apprehensive United States.

"We've had virtually no protests from Catholics or others," Gilbert said. "It has proved our theory that when you put fun into a situation you tend to take heat out of it."

The BBC insisted on a little insurance, however. For the starring role of Bunjy Kennefick they chose a leading Irish actor, Milo O'Shea. Another distinguished Irish actor, Ray McAnally, plays Father Patrick. Anna Manahan, also Irish and nominated for a Tony when she appeared on Broadway in Brian Friel's "Lovers," is Mrs. Kennefick. And Cousin Edna is still another well known Irish actor, David Kelly.

All of these are in addition, practicing Catholics and so is author Hugh Leonard. Miss Argyll is played by one of Britain's better comediennes, Yootha Joyce.

"If, as happened from time to time, something in the script overstepped the line the cast pointed it out and it was changed," Gilbert said. "McAnally was trained for the priesthood, for example. Naturally we did not want to offend Roman Catholics any more than we do any religion. But there are funny things to comment on in all of them.

"Just before the series was about to premiere the whole Irish scene blew up. We sent two of the most controversial tapes to Belfast and they were played to Catholics and Protestants.

The comment was that something like it should have been done years ago."

Even then the BBC was worried and sneaked the series out at the late hour here of 10 p.m. Public reaction was so favorable it was soon elevated to the prime time.

Afficionados of "Me Mammy" have come to look for the props which provide so many visual laughs. In one segment the BBC workshop provided a "Build Your Own Atrocity Kit"; in another a monopoly-type game of papal preferment named "Popopoly."

"ME MAMMY" STARS — Milo O'Shea and Yootha Joyce, stars of a new British satire television series — "Me Mammy" — are shown from a recent scene. The story pokes fun — albeit affectionate fun — at religion. (UPI Telephoto)

Dope Sellers Ply Wares Despite War

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

BEIRUT (UPI)—Neither police nor laws nor civil wars can stop the hashish (marijuana) smugglers of the Middle East on their appointed rounds.

"In fact," said one Lebanese familiar with the hash trade, "War is good for the smugglers. It keeps the police and army distracted."

According to sources here, the hashish continued to flow along smugglers' routes through Jordan during the civil war in September, even when all other traffic was stopped. Most of the smugglers are Bedouins who know the desert and know how to avoid main highways and tank battles.

Some of the world's best hashish is grown in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, near the fabled ruins of Baalbek. There are two ways of getting it to the outside world.

The first is by boat from the Lebanese coastline to the Gaza Strip and thence to Egypt. Each boat carries four to eight tons.

The other route is over the Lebanese mountains into Syria, south across the desert into Jordan and then across the Israeli-occupied Sinai peninsula to Egypt. Trucks, mules or camels usrally carry the freight, which is passed from smuggler to smuggler along the route.

The traffic flows smoothly, despite genuinely tough police measures in Lebanon, Syria, Israel and Egypt. The desert is just too big and the smugglers too wily for authorities to catch much of the hashish as it passes through. Beirut coffeehouse gossip has it that some relatively high-level protection in Jordan makes life easier for the cameldrivers who carry the weed through that nation.

At each step of the road, the price of hashish goes up —from the 120 Lebanese pounds ($37) per kilogram (2.2 pounds) which the Lebanes farmer gets from his local buyer, to the 1,000 Lebanese pounds ($312) which it fetches on the Cairo market, according to sorrces here. This is a profit of nearly 1,000 per cent —and the price can easily increase another 1,000 per cent by the time it reaches the individual customer in the west.

Even at the low rates prevailing here, hashish growing means an income of 15 million Lebanese pounds ($4.7 million) for the Lebanese economy each year.

For the individual farmer, it's just as important.

"Eighty per cent of the peasants in the north work in hashish," said Bashir Kairouz, who used to represent Baalbek in Parliament. "These people want to be able to raise their children properly and send them to schools. The only children you find in schools are the ones whose parents work in hashish."

Kairouz said the government tried to discourage hashish growing by promoting sunflower seeds instead. But profit fell by two-thirds, he said, and profits from wheat are even less —only one-seventh that of hashish.

Nearly 100 foreigners are in jail here now on charges involving hashish but the growers, for the most part, are unmolested.

"I feel," Kairouz said, 'that as long as the government does not help our region and find new resources for the people to live, hashish planting will continue.

"Besides, few Lebanese actually smoke it, and it need not be smoked. It can be used for other things —for example, it makes excellent bird food."

Love Triumphs Over East-West Division

BERLIN, GERMANY (GF) — German division is not conducive to sweet amor. In fact, it does its best, or so it seems, to keep West German "Romeos" from getting together with their East German "Juliets." But love itself, at least sometimes, seems to have a way of averting the ultimate tragedy.

Hamburg sales director Peter Pickel, 31, fell in love with 24-year-old East German mapmaker Monika Friedrich seven years ago. Monika is from the Thuringian town of Gera, where Peter got to know her 13 years ago, four years before the Communists put up the Berlin Wall.

The love affair between Peter and Monika blossomed at first with the approval of Communist officials. They permitted Peter to meet his Juliet in East Berlin annually.

Peter was fond of his professional career in Hamburg. He wanted Monika to join him there. She was more than willing — a child in the meantime was an additional incentive. But Red officials wouldn't budge.

For seven years, Peter tried all the tricks devised, but to no avail. At last, he threatened to expose the East German indifference to love to Western news media, if the Communists didn't come through. The response was a ban of the annual trips he'd been making to Communist East Berlin to see his Monika.

It was May of this year — the month that West German Chancellor Willy Brandt met with his East German counterpart Willi Stoph, that an amourous dream finally came true. The East Germans, apparently intent on at least some show of goodwill came through with approval for Monika to move to the West.

Recently, she arrived at West Germany's Wolfsburg railroad station with son Heiko, the "all-German" child, to join the man of her life. Peter was waiting with open arms and not a small touch of gratefulness.

In one case, at least, German division had given amnesty to amor.

NEW STYLE FORE AND AFT

Usual Music Teacher Is A Woman Pianist

The typical private music teacher is a married woman age 36 to 55, who lives in a town with an under-50,000 population and who is a virtuoso on the piano. At least this is the "model" as seen from a nation-wide survey conducted by a group comprised largely of private teachers.

Of the hundreds of music teachers who participated in the study, 80 per cent are women. Almost 55 percent have a college or conservatory degree. Piano is the main teaching instrument of 86 percent.

Evidently, music is the language of true love, or patience, or both. Only 3.7 percent of those answering the quiz are divorced.

German Writes Wild West Novels For Fun

BREMEN, GERMANY (GF) — When West German Lt. Col. Hans Uwe Wilken comes home from duty, the best part of his workday is just b e g i n n i n g. Wilkne, who lives near Bremen, writes wild west novels a large share of his off-duty time. And not only for his own amusement.

To date, he's authored over 100 with a total printing of 20 million volumes. Millions of Germans, Belgians, Norwegians and Brazilians are avid readers of Wilken's shoot-'em-up westerns.

The 33-year-old army officer wrote his first book at the age of 16 and it was published by a Viennese book compnay. Now nearly everyone of his works appears in as many as three languages.

Wilken's formula is pretty simple. He strives to make his settings and action as realistic as possible by studying documents and collecting historical information from U.S. universities and the America House and occasionally makes trips across the Atlantic, including one military tour to El Paso, Texas.

"The original settings in my books are accurate down to the finest details," says Wilken. "Once I have them down in my mind, the stories seem to roll out by themselves."
